Judiciary Has Next Move In Detective Case

Suspended Pair's Duties Absorbed By Other Officers

The replacement of two Monroe city detectives, suspended by the city commission-council Friday, was undetermined late yesterday, Chief Hugh L. Tolbert revealed. No definite decision would be made until he could talk further with the council, he said.

Meanwhile the department will function without a captain. Other detectives will assume normal duties of the two, Billy J. McBride and Floyd Van, Jr.

The two detectives were suspended after Chief Tolbert recommended the commission-council to take the action. Tolbert, along with Assistant Chief of Police George A. Wood, had conducted an investigation into the Christmas Day barroom fracas in which Wesley Davis, local automobile dealer, was severely beaten. Tolbert completed his report late Friday and notified Mayor John E. Coon he was prepared to submit it. Mayor Coon immediately called a special session of the council, composed of Coon, Commissioners Frank X. Cline and Wayne H. Huckaby.

McBride and Van were charged with simple battery following the fight and are free on bonds of $250 posted by a Monroe businessman. They will face court charges but the dates of any trial were not known.

Meanwhile Chief of Police M. L. Peters said Saturday he had no comment to make on the suspension. The no comment was made to a question as to why the recommendations for the suspension had not been made directly to him, and he, in turn, give it to the council.

In explaining that he did not have to see the recommendation, Chief Peters said "the matter could be handled that way if that is the way the mayor wants it." He would comment no further on the affair.

The complete report of the investigation, made by the two chiefs in the city police department, was turned over to District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., Saturday. When contacted, Fudickar said he had not had time to study the matter fully, but "will give it considerable attention."

Speculation in highly placed quarters hinted that a special session of the parish grand jury may be called sometime this week. However, no statement could be obtained in the matter.

Should a special session be in the offing, one of the two judges of the Fourth District court, David I. Garrett and Jesse S. Heard, would be required to issue the order for the session. It would then be the duty of the district attorney and sheriff to handle the investigation by the jury.

As pointed out by the Louisiana law, a grand jury is only an "accusatory body" and can in no way issue any instructions on the matter. Its sole capacity and authority would be in returning either true or no-true bills in the case.

Partly Cloudy, Cooler Today

Louisiana will be partly cloudy and cooler today, according to last night's government weather bureau forecast. Monday, the weather bureau officials predicted, will be generally fair and cool.

The forecast for Arkansas is the reverse of that for Louisiana. Arkansas today, according to the forecast, will be fair and cooler. Monday will be increasingly cloudy and cool.

CAA officials at the Selman Field station last night reported the maximum temperature in Monroe yesterday was 70 degrees. The minimum reading was 38 degrees.

Transylvania Couple Killed In Auto Crash

ARCADIA, Jan. 2 (Special)—A Transylvania couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. McGee, were killed instantly and their daughter was seriously injured in an automobile-truck collision about one mile south of here this morning.

The accident was reported to have occurred one mile south of Bienville on highway 12 at approximately 8:15 a.m.

The Bienville sheriff's department said that Mrs. Joycelyn McGee Boyett, a bride of three weeks, was seriously injured. She was rushed to the Barksdale Field hospital, where attendants gave little hope for her recovery.

Her husband left only last week for Germany.

McGee was traveling south, headed for Coushatta to attend the funeral of a relative, when a truck traveling north collided head-on with the automobile. The couple was killed instantly.

The truck and trailer was driven by Henry Head, Jr., of Vidor, Tex. Deputies said that he was on the wrong side of the road rounding a curve when his truck hit the McGee car.

Head is in the Arcadia jail pending the outcome of the coroner's investigation.

According to witnesses, McGee was going about 35 or 40 miles an hour. The truck, they said, was being driven at a rapid rate of speed when the accident occurred.

The Bienville Parish coroner was investigating the case late today and a report was not expected before Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee's bodies were taken to the Congers Funeral Home here but no funeral arrangements had been made. It was expected the bodies would be taken overland to Lake Providence for burial.

Reports from Lake Providence identified McGee as a farmer on the Transylvania tract.

Coast To Coast Speed Record Broken By Ace

NEW YORK (AP) — Col. Willard W. Millikan flew an F-86 Sabre Jet coast to coast in about four hours and eight minutes today, slicing some five minutes from a seven-year-old record.

Millikan, 35-year-old World War II ace, flashed across Brooklyn's Floyd Bennett Field at 2:19 p. m. (EST). He left Los Angeles International Airport at 10:55 a. m. (EST).

The record, clocked by the National Association of Aeronautics, is "air" time—that is from 1,000 feet over the Los Angeles field to a point 1,000 feet over Floyd Bennett.

The old record of four hours and 13 minutes was set in Jan., 1946, by Col. William Councill.

Millikan made one brief stop en route at Offutt Air Base, Omaha, Neb., for fuel. He spent some six minutes there.

Within seconds of his passing Floyd Bennett, which is a Naval Air Station, he was heading for a landing at the Air Force's Mitchel Field on Long Island.

UN Command Approves Indian 'Head Count' Of Korean War Prisoners

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, Jan. 3 (AP)—The United Nations Command stood firm today behind its principle that prisoners of war have freedom to go where they choose —even if it means the prisoners will return to the Communists

In a formal statement the U.N. Command endorsed the Indian custodian force head count "screening" in the anti-Communist camp last Thursday. The count resulted in 135 Chinese asking and obtaining immediate return to the Communists.

The Allied stand appeared a double rebuke to the Communists who had protested the screening to the Indians and to South Korea whose Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai denounced the Indian action as illegal.

Another protest came Saturday from Taipeh, Formosa, where Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh branded the turnover of 135 Chinese prisoners "another violation of the armistice agreement." Yeh said in a statement that Indian troops had "betrayed the trust placed in them" and should be "held responsible for all con-

Monroe Lawyer Named To Watch Sheffield Trial

Richard B. Montgomery, Jr., president of the Louisiana State Bar Association, announced Saturday that in keeping with the conclusion of the board of governors of the association he had appointed Kent Breard of Monroe to follow the proceedings of the Joseph Sheffield murder trial and to keep the board of governors fully informed of further developments in regard to the case.

Judge C. J. Ellis of Rayville last week turned down a request for a new trial in the case of Joseph Sheffield, sentenced to die in the state's portable electric chair for the murder of a deputy sheriff.

Leon A. Picou, attorney for Sheffield, said that he would ask the state supreme court to determine whether a new trial was needed.

Sheffield was convicted June 30, 1953, of the murder of Deputy John Waller, brother of Franklin Parish Sheriff Hiram Waller. The verdict was brought in 16 days after the shotgun slaying took place.

Judge Ellis pronounced the death sentence, but Gov. Robert Kennon delayed setting an execution date when the state bar association announced it was looking into the case.

Picou, of Jackson, filed application for a new trial two weeks ago, but Judge Ellis rejected it on grounds that legal time for review had expired.

The attorney based his appeal on the lack of constitutional guarantees against depriving a man of life without due process of law. He cited the fact that Sheriff Waller, the slain man's brother, was in charge of the jury, the speed of the trial and failure of defense attorneys to make exceptions on which to base an appeal.

43 Injured As Crowd Tries To Greet Emperor

Gay New Year's Scene Turns To One Of Horror

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 3 (AP)—A vast throng, upward of 700,000 persons, who wanted to wish Emperor Hirohito a happy New Year milled inside the Imperial Palace grounds Saturday and trampled to death nearly a score of persons when guards tried to close the main palace gates.

Protesting thousands, pressing forward as the gates began to close, swept away a police cordon and rushed over a double arched bridge.

Men, women and children shrieked in agony as they were trampled underfoot in the panic.

Emperor Hirohito was greatly saddened by the tragic mishap, a spokesman of the imperial household announced.

Metropolitan police reported their latest count showed 16 dead and 43 injured.

Kyodo news agency said one of the fatalities was a Chinese boy. It said several other children strapped to their mothers' backs, died or were injured in the crush. There was no exact estimate of the number of these children hurt.

A Canadian officer at the scene said he saw people so flattened that bones protruded from ribs, legs, arms and skin.

"It was remarkable the way the bodies were twisted," the Canadian said. "The sharp edges of their bones thrust right out from their skins."

A British officer who witnessed the crush said two American Marines probably saved lives when they charged through the mass of people to pick up the injured. The Marines were not identified.

Police reported one unidentified woman was bruised slightly and released from a hospital after first aid attention.

The newspaper Asahi said the imperial police guard criticized the Tokyo police as being partly responsible for the stampede.

"We have asked for reinforcements over and over again, for we are short handed," an imperial guard officer told Asahi. "But the reinforcements came after the disaster."

Paper Mill Will Reopen Monday After Shutdown

The Brown Paper Mill, which has been closed down for the past several days for end-of-the-year repairs and overhauls, will reopen Monday morning, T. R. Moore, vice-president and general manager stated Saturday.

Rumors that the mill, Ouachita Parish's largest industry, had closed down because of lack of sufficient orders caused considerable discussion and apprehension throughout the Twin Cities and surrounding areas. However, when contacted, the manager, and one other official, said "it will reopen Monday morning."

Reasons for the shut down, which lasted the better part of a week, were not given, but were shrugged off with the comment that "repairs have to be made."

A notice Moore said Saturday that the mill will reopen in full Monday had been posted for the benefit of workers at the industry.

Democrats Not So Sure Accord Is In Sight

Close Division Between Parties In Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—UP—Republican congressional leaders predicted Saturday that Democrats and Republicans will work harmoniously after Congress reconvenes Wednesday but Democratic leaders were not so sure.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, assistant war Democratic leader, accused the Republicans of declaring political war at a "low, contemptible level" by their recent buildup of the Harry Dexter White spy case. He said the GOP would have to change tactics if they expect to get much Democratic support.

Democratic Sens. Richard Russell of Georgia, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Mike Mansfield of Montana and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota have said some tart things about the Republican program in general.

The predictions of sweetness and light came from House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. and Sen. William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader of the Senate.

"I don't look for an acrimonious session," Martin told United Press. "I think we'll have an interesting session and the bulk of the President's program will go through without any great difficulty. For the most part, the President will continue to get substantial Democratic support."

"There has been no indication to date that members of either party will attempt to be mere obstructionists and prevent the proper functioning of government," Knowland said.

House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas would not comment on the impending session other than to say he would wait and see what happens. Rayburn has been in his home state trying to stir up trouble for Eisenhower Democrats by welding his party under a unity banner.

Republican leaders are well aware that they must get Democratic support if they are to carry out their legislative program. The Republicans own a majority of only four seats in the 435-member House, while in the Senate the Democrats actually possess a one-man majority—48 Democrats to 47 Republicans, with Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon listed as an independent.

Mr. Eisenhower has invited GOP congressional leaders to confer with him Monday. On Tuesday the President will meet with Democratic as well as Republican leaders of both houses. Presumably at the Tuesday session he will invite the Democrats to get behind the "dynamic and progressive" program he has said he will submit to Congress.

Public Would Save $1.5 Billion

Treasury, Congressional Staff Experts Agree On Sweeping Tax Overhaul

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Treasury and congressional staff experts have agreed on major points in a sweeping tax revision proposal providing for almost 1 1/2 billion dollars annually in tax cuts in many fields.

Informed sources said today only minor details need to be worked out before the proposal can be laid before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, probably within 10 days.

For the first time since 1875, the entire revenue code has been reviewed at one time. Thousands of pages of tax laws have been rewritten with the aim of giving both individuals and business firms a better break, ending conflicts and confusion and uncertainty, and removing inequities.

The streamlining program does not deal with major tax rates. But it provides tax cuts nevertheless for almost all businesses and individuals in the form of new or bigger deductions for medical expenses, child care costs for working mothers, business depreciation, dividend income, more liberal allowances for dependents, and other points.

More than a score of experts from the Treasury and from congressional committees have been laboring privately over the project for more than a year.

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) has pledged it will have first priority after Congress reconvenes Wednesday.

Informed sources said these are the staff recommendations on major points, subject of course to change by Congress:

Medical expenses — Under the present law, medical expenses must exceed 5 per cent of income before they become deductible. The new proposal would lower this to 3 per cent. Further, present limits on the maximum medical deduction would be almost doubled.

Child care—No deduction is allowed now for the cost of child

First National Bank Deposits More Than Triple

Officers of the First National Bank of West Monroe, Ouachita Parish's newest bank, yesterday announced that the institution's assets have reached almost two and one-half million dollars.

"This," they said, "is far beyond our expectations whe we opened for business on May 16, 1953." The bank organized early in 1953 and opened for business in May.

Deposits have more than tripled since the bank's opening. In the year-end financial statement, published today in the Morning World, deposits were listed at $2,022,137.05.

Percentage wise, the bank's growth has exceeded that of others in the Twin Cities during the past year despite the fact it operated just seven and one-half months prior to the close of the year.

"Public confidence and the economic growth of this community are responsible," according to J. W. Roberson, executive vice-president of the bank. "For this we are grateful," Roberson said.

Since the bank opened it has been necessary to add three additional employees, Roberson said. The bank now employs ten persons to handle the accounts of more than 1,000 customers.

Backed by all the provisions of federal banking agencies, the institution operates on a national bank charter.

Traffic Deaths Relatively Less During New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American motorists are getting the new year off to a relatively safe and sane start.

The observance of the New Year's holiday weekend passed the halfway mark Saturday with traffic deaths running only about half as heavy as during the same period in the Christmas weekend a week earlier.

From 6 p.m. local time Thursday night until Saturday evening, the death toll on the streets and highways reached 160. This compared with 325 traffic deaths during the same period at Christmas.

Another 24 persons have perished in fires and 26 met violent death from miscellaneous causes for an over-all total of 210.

If the traffic accident death rate holds steady, the holiday toll could be no larger than that for a non-holiday weekend. A sample survey of so-called normal conditions from 6 p.m. Dec. 3 to midnight Dec. 6 showed 310 died in traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council at the halfway point made a revised forecast that between 300 and 360 persons would be killed in traffic accidents from 6 p.m. Thursday to Sunday midnight. Previously the council had forecast at least 360 would be killed.

Negro Run Down By Car After He Aids Texas Man

RAYVILLE, Jan. 2. (Special) — The New Year got off to a bad start near here for two men, one of whom was run down after aiding the other.

A Holly Ridge Negro, Jeff Fletcher, is being treated at the Monroe Charity hospital for a crushed leg.

Richland Parish deputy, J. N. Beam, said that the tragic New Year's eve incident occurred when Fletcher aided John Martin Prior, of Temple, Tex., in getting his car out of a ditch on highway 80. Prior was reported to have swung his car after it came out of the ditch, hitting Fletcher.

Prior, who is being held in the Richland Parish jail in lieu of $2,500 bond, left the scene of the accident and ran into a second ditch in Lafourche swamp.

State police arrested Prior and later turned him over to Richland authorities, who charged him with drunk driving and hit and run driving.

Traffic Fatality

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — A man tentatively identified by police as Louis Ward, 34, Milwaukee, Wis., was killed in a highway accident near here today.

Patrolmen Joe Milano and Roger Leoncavallo said Ward's auto smashed into a bridge railing, skidded along the rail several feet and flipped over into a canal. The car was demolished.

Ordered To Bring Weird Creatures Back Alive

Malayan Troops Seek Strange Hairy Half-Apes

SINGAPORE, Jan. 2. —UP—Security troops were ordered Saturday to bring back alive a group of hairy, fanged jungle creatures whose appearance at outlying rubber plantations has left workers screaming in terror.

The weird half-ape, half-human creatures apparently have a weakness for tapioca and have been raiding tapioca patches for snacks. Workers who got near them said they smell bad but apparently want to be friendly.

The "missing links" with protruding fangs and an "animal smell," wandered out of the north Malaya jungles and first were seen on Christmas day. Men and women fled in terror and one worker fainted.

There was speculation the two men and one woman might be descendants of a race of hairy aborigines who, according to old legends, once roamed the forests of northern Malaya. One official said they could be "one of the biggest anthropological discoveries in years."

Chinese workers on the rubber estate where they appeared believed they were "vampires," but Malayan workers believed they were phantoms which can make themselves invisible at will.

Experts in the government's department of aborigines at Kuala Lumpur were piecing together stories of various witnesses. They said four main clues emerge:

1. The creatures apparently had seen rifles before because they fled when a security force corporal raised his rifle. Some of the "things" jumped in the river and swam away. Another ran into the jungle.

2. Their light skin probably indicates they have lived for years in the dark, overgrown Malayan jungles where sunlight rarely penetrates.

3. They recognized a crop of tapioca on one estate as food, pulling up roots and munching.

4. They spoke a language that clearly was neither Chinese nor Malayan but more of a series of gutteral grunts.

S. Browne, manager of the vast Trolek Forest Preserve in northern Malaya, said their "animal-like smell" indicates they are not ordinary human beings and that he was convinced they were not "communists in disguise" or Japanese soldiers who have been hiding out since the war.

One rubber worker said the apemen appear to have a sense of humor. He reported one placed its hairy arms around him in a friendly game of peek-a-boo while he was bending over a rubber bucket. The worker told authorities he was so frightened he tore himself away, leaving part of his clothes behind and that the "apewoman" chuckled when he fell into a nearby stream.

Paper Mill Will Reopen Monday After Shutdown

The Brown Paper Mill, which has been closed down for the past several days for end-of-the-year repairs and overhauls, will reopen Monday morning, T. R. Moore, vice-president and general manager stated Saturday.

Rumors that the mill, Ouachita Parish's largest industry, had closed down because of lack of sufficient orders caused considerable discussion and apprehension throughout the Twin Cities and surrounding areas. However, when contacted, the manager, and one other official, said "it will reopen Monday morning."

Reasons for the shut down, which lasted the better part of a week, were not given, but were shrugged off with the comment that "repairs have to be made."

A notice Moore said Saturday that the mill will reopen in full Monday had been posted for the benefit of workers at the industry.

Harmonious Session Of Congress Seen By GOP

Close Division Between Parties In Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—UP—Republican congressional leaders predicted Saturday that Democrats and Republicans will work harmoniously after Congress reconvenes Wednesday but Democratic leaders were not so sure.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, assistant war Democratic leader, accused the Republicans of declaring political war at a "low, contemptible level" by their recent buildup of the Harry Dexter White spy case. He said the GOP would have to change tactics if they expect to get much Democratic support.

Democratic Sens. Richard Russell of Georgia, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Mike Mansfield of Montana and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota have said some tart things about the Republican program in general.

The predictions of sweetness and light came from House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. and Sen. William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader of the Senate.

"I don't look for an acrimonious session," Martin told United Press. "I think we'll have an interesting session and the bulk of the President's program will go through without any great difficulty. For the most part, the President will continue to get substantial Democratic support."

"There has been no indication to date that members of either party will attempt to be mere obstructionists and prevent the proper functioning of government," Knowland said.

House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas would not comment on the impending session other than to say he would wait and see what happens. Rayburn has been in his home state trying to stir up trouble for Eisenhower Democrats by welding his party under a unity banner.

Republican leaders are well aware that they must get Democratic support if they are to carry out their legislative program. The Republicans own a majority of only four seats in the 435-member House, while in the Senate the Democrats actually possess a one-man majority—48 Democrats to 47 Republicans, with Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon listed as an independent.

Mr. Eisenhower has invited GOP congressional leaders to confer with him Monday. On Tuesday the President will meet with Democratic as well as Republican leaders of both houses. Presumably at the Tuesday session he will invite the Democrats to get behind the "dynamic and progressive" program he has said he will submit to Congress.

Public Would Save $1.5 Billion

Treasury, Congressional Staff Experts Agree On Sweeping Tax Overhaul

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Treasury and congressional staff experts have agreed on major points in a sweeping tax revision proposal providing for almost 1 1/2 billion dollars annually in tax cuts in many fields.

Informed sources said today only minor details need to be worked out before the proposal can be laid before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, probably within 10 days.

For the first time since 1875, the entire revenue code has been reviewed at one time. Thousands of pages of tax laws have been rewritten with the aim of giving both individuals and business firms a better break, ending conflicts and confusion and uncertainty, and removing inequities.

The streamlining program does not deal with major tax rates. But it provides tax cuts nevertheless for almost all businesses and individuals in the form of new or bigger deductions for medical expenses, child care costs for working mothers, business depreciation, dividend income, more liberal allowances for dependents, and other points.

More than a score of experts from the Treasury and from congressional committees have been laboring privately over the project for more than a year.

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) has pledged it will have first priority after Congress reconvenes Wednesday.

Inforced sources said these are the staff recommendations on major points, subject of course to change by Congress:

Medical expenses — Under the present law, medical expenses must exceed 5 per cent of income before they become deductible. The new proposal would lower this to 3 per cent. Further, present limits on the maximum medical deduction would be almost doubled.

Child care—No deduction is allowed now for the cost of child

First National Bank Deposits More Than Triple

Officers of the First National Bank of West Monroe, Ouachita Parish's newest bank, yesterday announced that the institution's assets have reached almost two and one-half million dollars.

"This," they said, "is far beyond our expectations whe we opened for business on May 16, 1953." The bank organized early in 1953 and opened for business in May.

Deposits have more than tripled since the bank's opening. In the year-end financial statement, published today in the Morning World, deposits were listed at $2,022,137.05.

Percentage wise, the bank's growth has exceeded that of others in the Twin Cities during the past year despite the fact it operated just seven and one-half months prior to the close of the year.

"Public confidence and the economic growth of this community are responsible," according to J. W. Roberson, executive vice-president of the bank. "For this we are grateful," Roberson said.

Since the bank opened it has been necessary to add three additional employees, Roberson said. The bank now employs ten persons to handle the accounts of more than 1,000 customers.

Backed by all the provisions of federal banking agencies, the institution operates on a national bank charter.

Traffic Deaths Relatively Less During New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American motorists are getting the new year off to a relatively safe and sane start.

The observance of the New Year's holiday weekend passed the halfway mark Saturday with traffic deaths running only about half as heavy as during the same period in the Christmas weekend a week earlier.

From 6 p.m. local time Thursday night until Saturday evening, the death toll on the streets and highways reached 160. This compared with 325 traffic deaths during the same period at Christmas.

Another 24 persons have perished in fires and 26 met violent death from miscellaneous causes for an over-all total of 210.

If the traffic accident death rate holds steady, the holiday toll could be no larger than that for a non-holiday weekend. A sample survey of so-called normal conditions from 6 p.m. Dec. 3 to midnight Dec. 6 showed 310 died in traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council at the halfway point made a revised forecast that between 300 and 360 persons would be killed in traffic accidents from 6 p.m. Thursday to Sunday midnight. Previously the council had forecast at least 360 would be killed.

Negro Run Down By Car After He Aids Texas Man

RAYVILLE, Jan. 2. (Special) — The New Year got off to a bad start near here for two men, one of whom was run down after aiding the other.

A Holly Ridge Negro, Jeff Fletcher, is being treated at the Monroe Charity hospital for a crushed leg.

Richland Parish deputy, J. N. Beam, said that the tragic New Year's eve incident occurred when Fletcher aided John Martin Prior, of Temple, Tex., in getting his car out of a ditch on highway 80. Prior was reported to have swung his car after it came out of the ditch, hitting Fletcher.

Prior, who is being held in the Richland Parish jail in lieu of $2,500 bond, left the scene of the accident and ran into a second ditch in Lafourche swamp.

State police arrested Prior and later turned him over to Richland authorities, who charged him with drunk driving and hit and run driving.

Traffic Fatality

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — A man tentatively identified by police as Louis Ward, 34, Milwaukee, Wis., was killed in a highway accident near here today.

Patrolmen Joe Milano and Roger Leoncavallo said Ward's auto smashed into a bridge railing, skidded along the rail several feet and flipped over into a canal. The car was demolished.

Ordered To Bring Weird Creatures Back Alive

Malayan Troops Seek Strange Hairy Half-Apes

SINGAPORE, Jan. 2. —UP—Security troops were ordered Saturday to bring back alive a group of hairy, fanged jungle creatures whose appearance at outlying rubber plantations has left workers screaming in terror.

The weird half-ape, half-human creatures apparently have a weakness for tapioca and have been raiding tapioca patches for snacks. Workers who got near them said they smell bad but apparently want to be friendly.

The "missing links" with protruding fangs and an "animal smell," wandered out of the north Malaya jungles and first were seen on Christmas day. Men and women fled in terror and one worker fainted.

There was speculation the two men and one woman might be descendants of a race of hairy aborigines who, according to old legends, once roamed the forests of northern Malaya. One official said they could be "one of the biggest anthropoligical discoveries in years."

Chinese workers on the rubber estate where they appeared believed they were "vampires," but Malayan workers believed they were phantoms which can make themselves invisible at will.

Experts in the government's department of aborigines at Kuala Lumpur were piecing together stories of various witnesses. They said four main clues emerge:

1. The creatures apparently had seen rifles before because they fled when a security force corporal raised his rifle. Some of the "things" jumped in the river and swam away. Another ran into the jungle.

2. Their light skin probably indicates they have lived for years in the dark, overgrown Malayan jungles where sunlight rarely penetrates.

3. They recognized a crop of tapioca on one estate as food, pulling up roots and munching.

4. They spoke a language that clearly was neither Chinese nor Malayan but more of a series of gutteral grunts.

S. Browne, manager of the vast Trolek Forest Preserve in northern Malaya, said their "animal-like smell" indicates they are not ordinary human beings and that he was convinced they were not "communists in disguise" or Japanese soldiers who have been hiding out since the war.

One rubber worker said the apemen appear to have a sense of humor. He reported one placed its hairy arms around him in a friendly game of peek-a-boo while he was bending over a rubber bucket. The worker told authorities he was so frightened he tore himself away, leaving part of his clothes behind and that the "apewoman" chuckled when he fell into a nearby stream.

Social Security Tax Up; Income Tax Down

By LEON L. MARX
Staff Writer

Sixty-million taxpayers will notice differences in their paychecks now that the new year has rolled around—some will have slightly higher wages, some slightly lower.

Many people have expressed elation over the fact that income taxes have been cut 10 per cent, effective Jan. 1. Some of them are not yet aware that social security taxes have been increased one-half of one per cent, also effective Jan. 1.

For the bulk of the populace, there will be hardly any noticeable difference. Some who are aware of both tax changes are afraid they are in for a cut. They may be, but not for much. The maximum cut possible for anyone is $18.00 a year.

The 10 per cent income tax cut means simply that if you are paying $400 a year in income taxes now, you will be paying $360 next year. It doesn't mean that the tax, which hits more people as "22.4 per cent of the figure in blank four", will be cut to "12.4 per cent of the figure..."

Last year the worker who had a job under the social security system paid 1½ per cent of his gross wages into social security. This year he will pay 2 per cent, and his employer will kick in an equal amount, just as he did before.

Most workers, however, are not letting up a howl about the social security boost, especially if they know why the hike in taxes came about. At the present time, while the social security system has been in operation for only a relatively short period, the government is building up a surplus of funds that is reported to amount to approximately $18 billion. Last year the surplus was approximately $1,400,000,000.

However, in a few years, after the benefits being paid out begin to increase as the age of the present contributors increases, the outgo will overtake the income, and the fund will begin to diminish. It has been estimated that under the old system of 1½ per cent contribution by both the employee and employer, funds would have become exhausted by 1967. The increase will give the system a new lease on life, or make it possible to operate the program under the present new tax rate until about 1975.

But the program will probably not end in 1975. In 1960, the tax is again pegged for a hike, to 2½ per cent; in 1965, a hike to 3 per cent, and to a maximum of 3¼ per cent in 1970.

A move is underway now to bring action early in the new session of Congress to suspend the ½ per cent hike in social security taxes. At the present time, most people consider that the system is not actuarially sound (it cannot keep itself in operation under the present rate of income for the program). It is obvious then, to most, that if something is not done, e.g., an increase in contributions, the present generation may pay throughout their working lifetimes, only to find at retirement their money has been used up, and they, themselves, can draw nothing!-

Those years are far off, and most of the taxpayers today are not letting themselves worry about it yet. The issue now is whether they can hope to bring home more pay with the two changes that took place Jan. 1. The odds are that they will.

The man who will not is single, and making less than $800 per year, or married and making less than $1,500 a year. The guy who would get stuck the most would be the fellow with a lot of dependents, so that he could make $3,600 and pay no income tax. The social security tax hike would then hit him for the maximum, but that would be only 34 cents a week pay-cut, and most any man wouldn't let that bother him too much.

Senators Leave For Canada To Interview Clerk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Two senators in quest of Soviet spies left today for a secret interview somewhere in Canada with Igor Gouzenko, former Russian code clerk who broke open a Soviet espionage ring in 1945.

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), senior Democratic member of the subcommittee, left on a train due in Montreal at 8:15 a.m. EST tomorrow. But it makes several other stops in Canada where they could disembark.

Jenner has sought the interview for weeks, explaining his subcommittee wants to find out if Gouzenko, formerly attached to the Soviet embassy in Canada, has information that might help uncover additional spy activities in the United States.

Surprised by newsmen at the railroad station here, Jenner said:

"We are going to be met but we don't know where we'll be taken for the interview or when it will happen. After we cross the border we will be in the hands of the State Department."

SOUGHT BY SHERIFF—Arletha Long, alias Mrs. P. Hoffman, Mrs. Alford Long Gray and Mrs. A. R. Perkins, is being sought by the Ouachita parish sheriff department. She is wanted for passing forged checks in Monroe business establishments.

Woman Sought In Hot Check Case

The Ouachita Parish sheriff department is seeking information on a woman who, using three aliases, passed seven forged checks in Monroe between December 12 and 14. The total amount of the checks was $318.31, Sheriff Bailey Grant stated Saturday morning.

Sheriff Grant identified the woman as Mrs. Arletha Long, alias Mrs. A. R. Perkins, Mrs. P. Hoffman and Mrs. Alford Long Gray.

The checks were for the following amounts: two for $50; two for $65; two for $35 and one for $18.31.

Posing as a magazine saleswoman, the woman was reported to have made the checks on both the Central Savings and Ouachita National Banks. All checks were cashed in downtown stores, Grant said.

She is reported to be 39 years old, 5 feet five inches tall, medium build, with red hair and blue eyes.

Sheriff Grant requested that any person having a check signed by the above named person or who might have any information on this woman contact the sheriff department.

care for mothers who must work. The new proposal provides that actual expenses up to $300 annually may be deducted from income. But it applies only to single heads of households, not to married couples, and only to children under seven.

Dividends—For a long time, business has complained that corporate income is taxed twice: first under regular corporate income taxes, and again under individual income taxes as profits are passed out to individuals in the form of dividends. The proposal is to let shareholders deduct 5 per cent of their dividend income from their tax bill. This is only the first step—the percentage would be stepped up by law in future years.

Depreciation—Businesses are allowed to deduct from income a figure representing depreciation of plants and equipment. Under the present law, depreciation usually is apportioned equally over the useful life of the article—20 years or more. The new proposal would let a business deduct two-thirds of the cost of a new asset over the first five years. The aim is to encourage business to invest in modern and more productive facilities.

Dependents—Under present law, you cannot count as a dependent anyone earning more than $600 a year. The new proposal would waive the $600 income limit and permit dependency credits so long as you provide more than half the support for the claimed dependent. This applies to all children under 18 and to children over 18 if they are still in school or college. Dependents would pay their own taxes on income above $600.

Repatriate GI Flies To Tokyo Under Guard

SEOUL, Sunday, Jan. 2 —UP—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor left Korea Sunday for Tokyo and a reunion with his Japanese wife whose love letters won him back from communism.

The young Texan who is in the first hour of the New Year deserted the pro-Communist camp for American war prisoners left in a regular medical evacuation plane at 11:15 a.m. (8:15 p.m. CST) Saturday) from Seoul's municipal airport.

Batchelor smiled at newsmen who shouted "how does it feel to be back?" as he walked up a ramp into the plane. He refused to speak, however.

Several Special Messages Ready For Congress

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower will follow up his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday with a series of special requests for a revised tax program, Taft-Hartley labor law changes and an "improved" farm program.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said in announcing this today that Eisenhower also plans special separate messages calling for "a broad and revised" housing program and "better health and protection for our people."

By better protection Hagerty meant expansion of social security coverage and possibly increased benefits.

Five special messages dealing with the subjects he mentioned will go to Congress within the first few weeks after Congress reconvenes Wednesday, Hagerty announced at the President's holiday headquarters here.

The press secretary told newsmen that Eisenhower's State of the Union message, which he will deliver in person at a joint Senate-House session Thursday, will set forth only the "highlights" of the administration's 1954 legislative program.

The broad principles he outlines at that time will be translated into specifically detailed programs in the series of special messages to follow, Hagerty said.

Later on there will be additional individual messages covering other subjects.

Announcement of the President's plans came as he continued work on the State of the Union message with a team of top advisers.

That message, Hagerty said, will deal broadly with improvement of "the welfare and security of 160 million Americans."

Eisenhower aides completed at 1:30 a.m. today a work session on the message which began at 8 a.m. New Year's Day.

They met with the President again today after he had conferred for an hour and a half this morning with Robert J. Cutler, White House specialist on national security matters.

The group of presidential advisers arranged to return to Washington today for another session on the Eisenhower message at the White House tomorrow.

Hagerty declined to elaborate on his statement that Eisenhower plans a special message to Congress calling for "modified tax programs."

Eisenhower himself recently told a news conference there should not be — and could not be — any net decrease in tax revenue. Income tax reductions and expiration of the excess profits tax on business went into effect yesterday.

Dr. Gabriel Hauge, Eisenhower's personal adviser on economic problems, said last Sunday the administration was planning to recommend tax program changes designed to provide business with greater investment incentive.

U. N. Command

sequences if they fail to halt the questioning immediately."

The Indian Command made no immediate comment on the Allied endorsement, but privately Indian spokesmen seemed delighted at the strong and perhaps unexpected support.

The statement was issued shortly after the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission met to discuss Communist objections.

The NNRC session was described as "highly confidential." A memorandum was reported being prepared for both the Allied and Communist sides. There seemed little doubt the message was connected with the head count.

The Indians refused to commit themselves on future plans for headcounts, apparently waiting for the results of the NNRC messages to the two commands.

The U.N. Command declared the Indians have every right to make such headcounts and stated:

"If the checking of the prisoner of war rosters afford some prisoners an opportunity to request repatriation, this is in conformity with the U.N. policy that every effort should be made to assure that every prisoner of war in the custody of the custodian force India should have every opportunity to make a free choice as to where he wishes to go."

"This action," the U. N. Command added, "is a normal administrative procedure and is not in conflict with the desires of the UNNC.

"The UNC desires that every prisoner of war have the opportunity for complete freedom of choice."

Last Thursday morning the Indians drew up their infantry and began making a man-by-man check of all 10 compounds in enclosure of the anti-Communist camp. The prisoners were led into the chicken runs between wire fences and each man was well separated from his fellows. Each was made to write his name and number on a slip and then each was paraded separately past an Indian officer at a gate well guarded by Indian troops.

In all, 4,385 Chinese were marched past. Of these, 135, or 3.1 per cent, took this chance to ask repatriation.

It was the first chance they apparently had to break away from violently anti-Communist prisoners.

Although this process fulfilled most of the requirements of a prisoner screening, the Indians insisted it was nothing more than a head count to bring their rosters up to date.

Their argument was a good one, since it was the first formal mass roll call held in the camp since the Indians took charge of the prisoners Sept. 24.

Always before during the explanation period, the Indians had been afraid to provoke mass violence with such a roll call. An Indian spokesman, commenting last night on the roll call itself, said all the men in the enclosure had been properly accounted for as either present or repatriated, and that none was missing.

The statement disposed of any possibility that prisoners had been murdered and their bodies disposed of inside this enclosure. Such a charge had never been made against this enclosure, but Red propaganda had suggested that such acts were widespread in the South camp.

Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, the second American to flee from the Communist North camp, said in a news conference yesterday he would recommend the Indians shake the pro-Communist compound down for daggers and other means of intimidation. The Indians, however, have said life there is as "peaceful and orderly as in a village," and insisted they had no plans for such a shakedown.

The Communist opposition to the screening was surprising on the surface since the Reds got back seven truckloads of prisoners, more than they have ever received before at any explanation session. But the Reds may feel that if they approve the de facto screening they would compromise their demand for renewed and extended explanations or, at the very least, cut the ground from under their propaganda that the prisoners are being "forcibly detained" through "Machinations" of the U.N. Command.

The United Nations declaration, coming after the unfavorable majority report of the NNRC last week, seemed designed not only to reassure that the UNC stands for free choice and does not share South Korea's intense feelings against such screening.

Murder Charge To Be Filed In Wake Of Gun Battle

HAZLEHURST, Miss., DJan. 2 (AP) The Copiah County sheriff said today he would file charges of murder against Dupree Newman in connection with a gun battle during which Newman was wounded and another man killed.

Sheriff R. H. Stevens said his office and the district attorney questioned witnesses all morning. He said he would file the charge under the direction of the district attorney and that the information they had was sufficient, though incomplete.

The sheriff identified the dead man as Sirus Hood, 55-year-old former Hazlehurst town marshal and operator of the service station where the shooting took place yesterday.

Stevens did not reveal the cause of the shooting but said the investigation would continue.

He said Newman, 40-year-old rancher and farmer, was in a hospital in such critical condition there was no need for an armed guard. He said Newman could make no statement.

Among the witnesses, Stevens said, was Newman's brother, Grady.

Weeks Optimistic Over Outlook For Business In '54

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks said today the New Year may fall a little short of 1953's record-setting boom, but the outlook is for one of "the better years of economic history."

Countering Gloom-tinged forecasts from some economic experts, Weeks sounded a strong note of optimism in his year end report in which he declared:

"Our best days are yet to be. The nation is more productive and more powerful than ever before."

Weeks conceded that some "short-run difficulties" may arise. But he said the Eisenhower administration is on guard against any major economic swings and will act promptly if the need arises.

The secretary thus endorsed the views of other key administration officials who have scoffed at recent assertions by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), an economist, that the country is already suffering a "real recession."

In his report to the President, Weeks said "the outlook is bright for a high over-all level of jobs and business activity" this year.

"No one can contemplate this nation's intrinsic power as embodies in its natural resources, industrial know-how, limitless products, increasing aspirations, growing population and spiritual might of its enterprising people without abiding faith in America's "future," Weeks said.

New Orleans Girl Denies Knowledge Of Bank Robbery

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2—UP—A teen-age New Orleans girl, a divorcee at the age of 16, Saturday angrily denied knowledge of a $57,000 Houston bank robbery in which she and her second husband were implicated by a bank teller's confession.

"I gotta laugh about us having $57,000," said Mrs. James Mitchell, 18, daughter of ex-prizefighter Jerome Chong. "The most money I ever saw in Jimmy's hand was a few dollars food money he'd give me whenever I would ask for it."

The couple was arrested at the apartment of the girl's mother Friday night by FBI agents who had staked out the apartment shortly after the robbery last Thursday. The bank teller, Donny Allen, 19, named them as being among his four accomplices in the robbery of the Houston National Bank.

Mitchell told FBI agents who arrested him "I know what it's all about."

The couple will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner in New Orleans Monday.

Allen confessed to police that the planning of the bank robbery began two weeks ago after he met Mitchell in a bar. He said that Mitchell's wife, Mitchell's uncle, Nick Mitchell, 45, and Johnny Navarro all took part in the plans.

The bank teller said he turned the money over to Mitchell in a rest room and then waited 10 minutes before turning in the alarm, claiming that Mitchell had covered him with a gun. However, he broke down under questioning and admitted the robbery was an inside job.

Mitchell's uncle is the only one of the suspects still at large. Navarro surrendered at Houston.

Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. Margie Schoell, said the Mitchells arrived at her apartment about 3 a. m. New Year's morning.

Traffic law violators in Connecticut paid $883,439 in fines during the 1952, or about $1 for every licensed driver in the state.

Humphrey Urges Immediate Start On Atomic Pool

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) today proposed to President Eisenhower that the United States join an existing European organization, set up under the United Nations, for pooling atomic information.

Humphrey said that in this way a start could be made toward achieving the President's objective of international action to foster peaceful uses of nuclear energy, without waiting for Russia to accept the plan.

In a speech to the U.N. Dec. 8, Eisenhower called for an international pool of atomic materials to be used for peaceful purposes. The President said Russia's participation in such a plan is a necessary condition.

But Humphrey said 12 European nations have signed a convention under the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) setting up the European organization for nuclear research.

Humphrey said: "The program for the new European organization includes the construction of a new international laboratory for nuclear research and the continuation of cooperation between existing laboratories in the various countries."

He said this organization actually got its start from a U. S. recommendation. He continued:

"It is my hope that you will now explore the possibility and recommend that our government join in this UNESCO project. This would be another demonstration of our nation's sincere desire to begin establishing a policy for the peaceful development of atomic energy without an unnecessary delay. This is a method by which we can begin carrying out your Dec. 8 objectives without waiting for the Russians to accept the plan."

Humphrey, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview the Atomic Energy Act would probably have to be amended before this country could tke part in any organization set up to exchange atomic information on an international level.

Social Security Tax Up; Income Tax Down

By LEON L. MARX
Staff Writer

Sixty-million taxpayers will notice differences in their paychecks now that the new year has rolled around—some will have slightly higher wages, some slightly lower.

Many people have expressed elation over the fact that income taxes have been cut 10 per cent, effective Jan. 1. Some of them are not yet aware that social security taxes have been increased one-half of one per cent, also effective Jan. 1.

For the bulk of the populace, there will be hardly any noticeable difference. Some who are aware of both tax changes are afraid they are in for a cut. They may be, but not for much. The maximum cut possible for anyone is $18.00 a year.

The 10 per cent income tax cut means simply that if you are paying $400 a year in income taxes now, you will be paying $360 next year. It doesn't mean that the tax, which hits more people as "22.4 per cent of the figure in blank four", will be cut to "12.4 per cent of the figure..."

Last year the worker who had a job under the social security system paid 1½ per cent of his gross wages into social security. This year he will pay 2 per cent, and his employer will kick in an equal amount, just as he did before.

Most workers, however, are not letting up a howl about the social security boost, especially if they know why the hike in taxes came about. At the present time, while the social security system has been in operation for only a relatively short period, the government is building up a surplus of funds that is reported to amount to approximately $18 billion. Last year the surplus was approximately $1,400,000,000.

However, in a few years, after the benefits being paid out begin to increase as the age of the present contributors increases, the outgo will overtake the income, and the fund will begin to diminish. It has been estimated that under the old system of 1½ per cent contribution by both the employee and employer, funds would have become exhausted by 1967. The increase will give the system a new lease on life, or make it possible to operate the program under the present new tax rate until about 1975.

But the program will probably not end in 1975. In 1960, the tax is again pegged for a hike, to 2½ per cent; in 1965, a hike to 3 per cent, and to a maximum of 3¼ per cent in 1970.

A move is underway now to bring action early in the new session of Congress to suspend the ½ per cent hike in social security taxes. At the present time, most people consider that the system is not actuarially sound (it cannot keep itself in operation under the present rate of income for the program). It is obvious then, to most, that if something is not done, e.g., an increase in contributions, the present generation may pay throughout their working lifetimes, only to find at retirement their money has been used up, and they, themselves, can draw nothing!-

Those years are far off, and most of the taxpayers today are not letting themselves worry about it yet. The issue now is whether they can hope to bring home more pay with the two changes that took place Jan. 1. The odds are that they will.

The man who will not is single, and making less than $800 per year, or married and making less than $1,500 a year. The guy who would get stuck the most would be the fellow with a lot of dependents, so that he could make $3,600 and pay no income tax. The social security tax hike would then hit him for the maximum, but that would be only 34 cents a week pay-cut, and most any man wouldn't let that bother him too much.

Senators Leave For Canada To Interview Clerk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Two senators in quest of Soviet spies left today for a secret interview somewhere in Canada with Igor Gouzenko, former Russian code clerk who broke open a Soviet espionage ring in 1945.

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), senior Democratic member of the subcommittee, left on a train due in Montreal at 8:15 a.m. EST tomorrow. But it makes several other stops in Canada where they could disembark.

Jenner has sought the interview for weeks, explaining his subcommittee wants to find out if Gouzenko, formerly attached to the Soviet embassy in Canada, has information that might help uncover additional spy activities in the United States.

Surprised by newsmen at the railroad station here, Jenner said: "We are going to be met but we don't know where we'll be taken for the interview or when it will happen. After we cross the border we will be in the hands of the State Department."

SOUGHT BY SHERIFF—Arletha Long, alias Mrs. P. Hoffman, Mrs. Alford Long Gray and Mrs. A. R. Perkins, is being sought by the Ouachita parish sheriff department. She is wanted for passing forged checks in Monroe business establishments.

Woman Sought In Hot Check Case

The Ouachita Parish sheriff department is seeking information on a woman who, using three aliases, passed seven forged checks in Monroe between December 12 and 14. The total amount of the checks was $318.31, Sheriff Bailey Grant stated Saturday morning.

Sheriff Grant identified the woman as Mrs. Arletha Long, alias Mrs. A. R. Perkins, Mrs. P. Hoffman and Mrs. Alford Long Gray.

The checks were for the following amounts: two for $50; two for $65; two for $35 and one for $18.31.

Posing as a magazine saleswoman, the woman was reported to have made the checks on both the Central Savings and Ouachita National Banks. All checks were cashed in downtown stores, Grant said.

She is reported to be 39 years old, 5 feet five inches tall, medium build, with red hair and blue eyes.

Sheriff Grant requested that any person having a check signed by the above named person or who might have any information on this woman contact the sheriff department.

care for mothers who must work. The new proposal provides that actual expenses up to $300 annually may be deducted from income. But it applies only to single heads of households, not to married couples, and only to children under seven.

Dividends—For a long time, business has complained that corporate income is taxed twice: first under regular corporate income taxes, and again under individual income taxes as profits are passed out to individuals in the form of dividends. The proposal is to let shareholders deduct 5 per cent of their dividend income from their tax bill. This is only the first step—the percentage would be stepped up by law in future years.

Depreciation—Businesses are allowed to deduct from income a figure representing depreciation of plants and equipment. Under the present law, depreciation usually is apportioned equally over the useful life of the article—20 years or more. The new proposal would let a business deduct two-thirds of the cost of a new asset over the first five years. The aim is to encourage business to invest in modern and more productive facilities.

Dependents—Under present law, you cannot count as a dependent anyone earning more than $600 a year. The new proposal would waive the $600 income limit and permit dependency credits so long as you provide more than half the support for the claimed dependent. This applies to all children under 18 and to children over 18 if they are still in school or college. Dependents would pay their own taxes on income above $600.

Repatriate GI Flies To Tokyo Under Guard

SEOUL, Sunday, Jan. 2 —UP—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor left Korea Sunday for Tokyo and a reunion with his Japanese wife whose love letters won him back from communism.

The young Texan who is in the first hour of the New Year deserted the pro-Communist camp for American war prisoners left in a regular medical evacuation plane at 11:15 a.m. (8:15 p.m. CST) Saturday) from Seoul's municipal airport.

Batchelor smiled at newsmen who shouted "how does it feel to be back?" as he walked up a ramp into the plane. He refused to speak, however.

Several Special Messages Ready For Congress

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower will follow up his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday with a series of special requests for a revised tax program, Taft-Hartley labor law changes and an "improved" farm program.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said in announcing this today that Eisenhower also plans special separate messages calling for "a broad and revised" housing program and "better health and protection for our people."

By better protection Hagerty meant expansion of social security coverage and possibly increased benefits.

Five special messages dealing with the subjects he mentioned will go to Congress within the first few weeks after Congress reconvenes Wednesday, Hagerty announced at the President's holiday headquarters here.

The press secretary told newsmen that Eisenhower's State of the Union message, which he will deliver in person at a joint Senate-House session Thursday, will set forth only the "highlights" of the administration's 1954 legislative program.

The broad principles he outlines at that time will be translated into specifically detailed programs in the series of special messages to follow, Hagerty said.

Later on there will be additional individual messages covering other subjects.

Announcement of the President's plans came as he continued work on the State of the Union message with a team of top advisers.

That message, Hagerty said, will deal broadly with improvement of "the welfare and security of 160 million Americans."

Eisenhower aides completed at 1:30 a.m. today a work session on the message which began at 8 a.m. New Year's Day.

They met with the President again today after he had conferred for an hour and a half this morning with Robert J. Cutler, White House specialist on national security matters.

The group of presidential advisers arranged to return to Washington today for another session on the Eisenhower message at the White House tomorrow.

Hagerty declined to elaborate on his statement that Eisenhower plans a special message to Congress calling for "modified tax programs."

Eisenhower himself recently told a news conference there should not be — and could not be — any net decrease in tax revenue. Income tax reductions and expiration of the excess profits tax on business went into effect yesterday.

Dr. Gabriel Hauge, Eisenhower's personal adviser on economic problems, said last Sunday the administration was planning to recommend tax program changes designed to provide business with greater investment incentive.

U. N. Command

sequences if they fail to halt the questioning immediately."

The Indian Command made no immediate comment on the Allied endorsement, but privately Indian spokesmen seemed delighted at the strong and perhaps unexpected support.

The statement was issued shortly after the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission met to discuss Communist objections.

The NNRC session was described as "highly confidential." A memorandum was reported being prepared for both the Allied and Communist sides. There seemed little doubt the message was connected with the head count.

The Indians refused to commit themselves on future plans for headcounts, apparently waiting for the results of the NNRC messages to the two commands.

The U.N. Command declared the Indians have every right to make such headcounts and stated:

"If the checking of the prisoner of war rosters afford some prisoners an opportunity to request repatriation, this is in conformity with the U.N. policy that every effort should be made to assure that every prisoner of war in the custody of the custodian force India should have every opportunity to make a free choice as to where he wishes to go."

"This action," the U. N. Command added, "is a normal administrative procedure and is not in conflict with the desires of the UNNC.

"The UNC desires that every prisoner of war have the opportunity for complete freedom of choice."

Last Thursday morning the Indians drew up their infantry and began making a man-by-man check of all 10 compounds in enclosure of the anti-Communist camp. The prisoners were led into the chicken runs between wire fences and each man was well separated from his fellows. Each was made to write his name and number on a slip and then each was paraded separately past an Indian officer at a gate well guarded by Indian troops.

In all, 4,385 Chinese were marched past. Of these, 135, or 3.1 per cent, took this chance to ask repatriation.

It was the first chance they apparently had to break away from violently anti-Communist prisoners.

Although this process fulfilled most of the requirements of a prisoner screening, the Indians insisted it was nothing more than a head count to bring their rosters up to date.

Their argument was a good one, since it was the first formal mass roll call held in the camp since the Indians took charge of the prisoners Sept. 24.

Always before during the explanation period, the Indians had been afraid to provoke mass violence with such a roll call. An Indian spokesman, commenting last night on the roll call itself, said all the men in the enclosure had been properly accounted for as either present or repatriated, and that none was missing.

The statement disposed of any possibility that prisoners had been murdered and their bodies disposed of inside this enclosure. Such a charge had never been made against this enclosure, but Red propaganda had suggested that such acts were widespread in the South camp.

Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, the second American to flee from the Communist North camp, said in a news conference yesterday he would recommend the Indians shake the pro-Communist compound down for daggers and other means of intimidation. The Indians, however, have said life there is as "peaceful and orderly as in a village," and insisted they had no plans for such a shakedown.

The Communist opposition to the screening was surprising on the surface since the Reds got back seven truckloads of prisoners, more than they have ever received before at any explanation session. But the Reds may feel that if they approve the de facto screening they would compromise their demand for renewed and extended explanations or, at the very least, cut the ground from under their propaganda that the prisoners are being "forcibly detained" through "Machinations" of the U.N. Command.

The United Nations declaration, coming after the unfavorable majority report of the NNRC last week, seemed designed not only to reassure that the UNC stands for free choice and does not share South Korea's intense feelings against such screening.

Murder Charge To Be Filed In Wake Of Gun Battle

HAZLEHURST, Miss., DJan. 2 (AP) The Copiah County sheriff said today he would file charges of murder against Dupree Newman in connection with a gun battle during which Newman was wounded and another man killed.

Sheriff R. H. Stevens said his office and the district attorney questioned witnesses all morning. He said he would file the charge under the direction of the district attorney and that the information they had was sufficient, though incomplete.

The sheriff identified the dead man as Sirus Hood, 55-year-old former Hazlehurst town marshal and operator of the service station where the shooting took place yesterday.

Stevens did not reveal the cause of the shooting but said the investigation would continue.

He said Newman, 40-year-old rancher and farmer, was in a hospital in such critical condition there was no need for an armed guard. He said Newman could make no statement.

Among the witnesses, Stevens said, was Newman's brother, Grady.

Weeks Optimistic Over Outlook For Business In '54

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks said today the New Year may fall a little short of 1953's record-setting boom, but the outlook is for one of "the better years of economic history."

Countering Gloom-tinged forecasts from some economic experts, Weeks sounded a strong note of optimism in his year end report in which he declared:

"Our best days are yet to be. The nation is more productive and more powerful than ever before."

Weeks conceded that some "short-run difficulties" may arise. But he said the Eisenhower administration is on guard against any major economic swings and will act promptly if the need arises.

The secretary thus endorsed the views of other key administration officials who have scoffed at recent assertions by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), an economist, that the country is already suffering a "real recession."

In his report to the President, Weeks said "the outlook is bright for a high over-all level of jobs and business activity" this year.

"No one can contemplate this nation's intrinsic power as embodies in its natural resources, industrial know-how, limitless products, increasing aspirations, growing population and spiritual might of its enterprising people without abiding faith in America's "future," Weeks said.

New Orleans Girl Denies Knowledge Of Bank Robbery

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2—UP—A teen-age New Orleans girl, a divorcee at the age of 16, Saturday angrily denied knowledge of a $57,000 Houston bank robbery in which she and her second husband were implicated by a bank teller's confession.

"I gotta laugh about us having $57,000," said Mrs. James Mitchell, 18, daughter of ex-prizefighter Jerome Chong. "The most money I ever saw in Jimmy's hand was a few dollars food money he'd give me whenever I would ask for it."

The couple was arrested at the apartment of the girl's mother Friday night by FBI agents who had staked out the apartment shortly after the robbery last Thursday. The bank teller, Donny Allen, 19, named them as being among his four accomplices in the robbery of the Houston National Bank.

Mitchell told FBI agents who arrested him "I know what it's all about."

The couple will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner in New Orleans Monday.

Allen confessed to police that the planning of the bank robbery began two weeks ago after he met Mitchell in a bar. He said that Mitchell's wife, Mitchell's uncle, Nick Mitchell, 45, and Johnny Navarro all took part in the plans.

The bank teller said he turned the money over to Mitchell in a rest room and then waited 10 minutes before turning in the alarm, claiming that Mitchell had covered him with a gun. However, he broke down under questioning and admitted the robbery was an inside job.

Mitchell's uncle is the only one of the suspects still at large. Navarro surrendered at Houston.

Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. Margie Schoell, said the Mitchells arrived at her apartment about 3 a. m. New Year's morning.

Traffic law violators in Connecticut paid $883,439 in fines during the 1952, or about $1 for every licensed driver in the state.

PAUL A. VONEY

Paul A. Voney Is Grace Church Lay Assistant

Paul A. Voney has accepted the position as parish clerk and lay assistant for Grace Episcopal Church, Monroe, Rev. John M. Allin, rector, has announced. The appointment and acceptance was made public recently following formal installation.

A native of Peoria, Ill., Voney resigned from the employment of the Commercial Solvents Corporation, where he has worked for the past 20 years. Prior to that he was in the newspaper business. While employed by CSC, Voney was in their accounting department.

As parish clerk and lay assistant, Voney will handle the financial office, serving directly under the parish treasurer. In addition to this and as part of an "in-training" plan laid out for him by Bishop Girault Jones and Rev. Allin, Voney will serve as special lay assistant to the rector. In the latter capacity, his task will be that of coordinator with the specific responsibility of looking after many of the administrative details which Rev. Allin is now handling.

In making the announcement of Voney's acceptance, Rev. Allin stated "it is with pleasure that I officially announce . . . the newest addition to our parish staff. With the rapid expansion of the work of the church in this community, or parish has been pressed with the need of additional assistance in order to carry on this work.

"As rector, I welcome him to the fellowship of our staff," Reb. Allin said.

Traffic Deaths 38,000 For 1953

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (AP)—The National Safety Council said today the 1953 traffic death toll would approximate the 38,000 in 1952.

"It was the first year since 1949 that traffic deaths have not gone up," even though road travel continued to rise, the council said.

A principal reason why 1952 and 1953 ended with about the same totals was that last November showed the biggest monthly drop in traffic deaths since May, 1949, the council reported.

As a result of 1953's about-face, the year had the lowest mileage death rate in the history of traffic accident records. Mileage was estimated to be 5 per cent higher last year than in 1952. The mileage death rate has declined for six straight years.

The 38,000 traffic deaths gave 1953 a mileage death rate of 6.9; that is, the number of deaths per 100 million miles.

The three-year rise in traffic deaths continued for the first four months of 1953, but in May the trend was reversed. Except for a slight increase in July, the reversal continued throughout the remainder of the year, council figures showed.

The figures for the two years were based on a projection for the whole of 1953 from the first 11 months of the year.

During those 11 months there were 18 states which showed fewer deaths than in 1952. Utah led with a decline of 20 per cent.

Others were Oregon 18 per cent, Washington 13 per cent, Colorado 12 per cent, New Jersey 10 per cent, Oklahoma and Idaho 8 per cent each, Texas, Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi 6 per cent each, California, Virginia and Arkansas 5 per cent each, Wisconsin and Wyoming 2 per cent each, and Pennsylvania and Missouri 1 per cent each.

Denver led the cities of 200,000 population or more in the extent the decline of its number of traffic deaths. For the 11 months Denver showed a cut of 47 per cent in fatalities.

By population groups, the three leading cities when ranked according to the number of deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles were:

1,000,000 population and above—Los Angeles 3 deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles, Detroit 3.2, Philadelphia 4.0.

750,000-1,000,000 — San Francisco 2.5, Washington 3.1, St. Louis 3.2.

500,000-750,000 — Minneapolis 2.4; Pittsburgh 2.7, Milwaukee 2.8.

35,000-500,000—Denver 1.3; Seattle 1.7; Portland, Ore., 2.9.

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAKESZI, Hungary, Jan. 2 (AP)—You may never have given it much thought—with all the glamor buildup—but there IS a Papa Gabor.

Daughters Magda, Eva and Zsa Zsa are breaking in a new night-club act. Mama Jolie is selling cultured pearls in her New York shop. Papa lives in a furnished room in a modest home in this little town near Budapest.

Old, almost broke and ailing, he spends a lot of his time thinking fondly of his glamorous family and the good old days. He was rich then, and prominent.

This one Gabor who has never received top billing—or much of any billing—with the rest of the fabulous family, deliberately chose his own fate when, after three years in America with two of his daughters, he returned to Budapest in 1947 to look after his business interests.

"They (Eva and Zasa-Zasa) gave me as much money as I wanted and more," he recalls happily, "but in 1947 I told them, 'You are the sweetest and the best, but I want to go home. . .!"

In pre-World War II days, Vilmos (William) Gabor was a successful Budapest merchant, owner of a couple of jewelry shops which sold inexpensive bibelots and a rich man who had extensive real estate interests.

Budapest old-timers recall the way the Gabors swanked around the city in the relaxed 1930s. Although the Hungarian capital had a rigid caste system which excluded shopkeepers and their families from really top drawer society, Mama Jolie and her three beautiful daughters flashed around in expensive cars, had foreign tutors and their own stable, patronized the exclusive and fashionable restaurants in the company of members of the diplomatic corps, and generally raised the eyebrows of the city's old guard which never did let down the bars to admit the family.

The successful careers of the three Gabor girls still had Budapest talking for their theatrical ambitions were never revealed in those halcyon days. Eva and Zsa-Zsa picked up and came to America in 1938. Gabor and Mama Jolie had an amicable divorce in 1940.

"She had her own ideas about business, which meant a loss of about a million pengos (about $185,000)," Gabor explained, "but we remained good friends; she is a kind-hearted woman."

Gabor, his ex-wife and their eldest daughter, Magda, fled the country together in October, 1944 when the Hungarian version of the Nazi movement began a short but bloody reign of terror. They skipped with the help of the Portuguese minister to Hungary who reputedly had a romantic fondness for red-haired Magda, and after making Lisbon safely, came to the United States.

But Papa Gabor went back three years later to look after his interests—six apartment buildings and villas in the city, and a house on Lake Balaton.

"With the consent of my first wife and my daughters" he married again, a woman who had been in charge of one of his old shops. Together they opened a new one on Budapest's best shopping street.

But this didn't last long either. In 1950 all his holdings were nationalized, and in the summer of 1951, Gabor and his second wife were swept up in another purge as "undesirables", ordered out of Budapest and deprived of civil rights, only recently restored.

"This," said Vilmos Gabor, gesturing to include his one-room lodging, "is almost perfect compared with the Jewish asylum in Nyiregyhaza where we spent most of two years."

He is 74 years old, deaf, but enjoys talking—particularly about his family. Tears come into his eyes when he speaks of Jolie and their daughters. And Magda, his second wife, nods enthusiastically.

"I have the best children on earth," he declared. "No father has such children."

He keeps in his jacket pocket a packet of postcards written by the Americanized branch of the Gabors from all over the world. They arrive regularly each week—all of them couched in warm, loving words.

In addition, the girls send him the limit of parcels permitted each month—it amounts to about $40 Worth of goods—and Zasa-Zasa also ships insulin to him regularly, for he suffers from diabetes.

But Vilmos Gabor, a master sergeant who received 14 decorations in World War I, doesn't think the rest of his life will be spent in patient waiting. He hopes to rejoin his daughters in the United States again.

"And next time," he says, "I won't be tempted to return."

Chesapeake Keeps That Ice Age Look

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Life along the shores of the Chesapeake Bay hasn't changed much since the ice age—geologically speaking.

Oysters, clams, crabs, and other forms of marine life are still extant though not concentrated in the same habitat.

Sites studied in southern Maryland counties by Dr. S. F. Blake of the Department of Agriculture, yielded fossils dating from the early pleistocene age. The species found are typical of those along the coast from the Gulf of Mexico northward.

'Papa' Gabor Lives Humbly In Little Town Near Budapest

Paul A. Voney Is Grace Church Lay Assistant

Paul A. Voney has accepted the position as parish clerk and lay assistant for Grace Episcopal Church, Monroe, Rev. John M. Allin, rector, has announced. The appointment and acceptance was made public recently following formal installation.

A native of Peoria, Ill., Voney resigned from the employment of the Commercial Solvents Corporation, where he has worked for the past 20 years. Prior to that he was in the newspaper business. While employed by CSC, Voney was in their accounting department.

As parish clerk and lay assistant, Voney will handle the financial office, serving directly under the parish treasurer. In addition to this and as part of an "in-training" plan laid out for him by Bishop Girault Jones and Rev. Allin, Voney will serve as special lay assistant to the rector. In the latter capacity, his task will be that of coordinator with the specific responsibility of looking after many of the administrative details which Rev. Allin is now handling.

In making the announcement of Voney's acceptance, Rev. Allin stated "it is with pleasure that I officially announce . . . the newest addition to our parish staff. With the rapid expansion of the work of the church in this community, or parish has been pressed with the need of additional assistance in order to carry on this work.

"As rector, I welcome him to the fellowship of our staff," Reb. Allin said.

Traffic Deaths 38,000 For 1953

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (AP)—The National Safety Council said today the 1953 traffic death toll would approximate the 38,000 in 1952.

"It was the first year since 1949 that traffic deaths have not gone up," even though road travel continued to rise, the council said.

A principal reason why 1952 and 1953 ended with about the same totals was that last November showed the biggest monthly drop in traffic deaths since May, 1949, the council reported.

As a result of 1953's about-face, the year had the lowest mileage death rate in the history of traffic accident records. Mileage was estimated to be 5 per cent higher last year than in 1952. The mileage death rate has declined for six straight years.

The 38,000 traffic deaths gave 1953 a mileage death rate of 6.9; that is, the number of deaths per 100 million miles.

The three-year rise in traffic deaths continued for the first four months of 1953, but in May the trend was reversed. Except for a slight increase in July, the reversal continued throughout the remainder of the year, council figures showed.

The figures for the two years were based on a projection for the whole of 1953 from the first 11 months of the year.

During those 11 months there were 18 states which showed fewer deaths than in 1952. Utah led with a decline of 20 per cent.

Others were Oregon 18 per cent, Washington 13 per cent, Colorado 12 per cent, New Jersey 10 per cent, Oklahoma and Idaho 8 per cent each, Texas, Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi 6 per cent each, California, Virginia and Arkansas 5 per cent each, Wisconsin and Wyoming 2 per cent each, and Pennsylvania and Missouri 1 per cent each.

Denver led the cities of 200,000 population or more in the extent the decline of its number of traffic deaths. For the 11 months Denver showed a cut of 47 per cent in fatalities.

Give God A Chance

The New Year having officially opened Thursday night at the stroke of twelve, it might be wise to consider the moral responsibility of every American to his family, his nation and his God during the coming months and weeks ahead.

One needs only to glance at the magazines, the motion pictures and many of the books, not to mention the newspapers and the other media of news and information to see how far off the beaten track of morality this nation has departed. The movie producers attempt to see how near they can come to disrobing the actresses and still get by the censor; the "pocket sized book" publishers attempt to see how lewd they can manage to make their publications appear and they have been able to perform wonders in this "art" and the press agents of television and motion pictures attempt to flood the nation with "cheesecake." They also do a miraculous job, witness the latest fraud concerning actress Terry Moore who now wants to "change her type of acting."

One could easily go on with a description of the antics of the entertainment world using column after column in describing the race to see how many divorces one can establish, or how much alimony one must pay and other various and sundry things, but actually, there are worse aspects to the present situation which tend to show that God has been forgotten by a great many Americans.

The standard of values which made the United States of today have been forgotten. Loyalty to one's nation, to one's position, to one's establishment of business has been cast aside to a great extent in this, the day of punching the time clock and seeking a "short way" to do everything. This United States has apparently become a nation of materialism and has lost a great part of the spiritualism which made the population a vibrant and pioneer nation of people.

On this first Sunday of the New Year, consider the thinking of many Americans who not only condone treachery, but who regard the traitors as "heroes." Consider the people who regard patriotic Americans attempting to do a decent job in defense of their nation as "hysterical, reactionary idiots." Consider the people who rise in the classrooms of their colleges and high schools and condemn God as "foolishness" and notice the dreadful rise in the delinquency of the younger Americans due to the combined efforts of the press agents, the lewd books, the overwhelming lack of spirituality within the family circle and other segments of the situation.

Consider the thinking of many Americans who regard a banal politician as a hero, forgetting that in his speech, he broke at least two of God's Commandments. Consider the new song seemingly growing more popular which is sung by a screeching female who reports that for her lover, she is ready to lie, cheat, defraud and even hints that she may put her very life on the line if necessary. Does this point out to the younger, and to many of the older people how well the morals of the nation are at this point?

Immorality and materialism are widely advertised in this nation today. As such, it is having telling effects on the population which no longer is shocked at certain things happening here, there and the other place. People who, for their antics, would formerly have been ostracized by a shocked and outraged populace, are not only not ostracized, they are "accepted" for the great notoriety they can summon. In fact, it seems no longer to matter how one "makes his name" as long as he "makes it" and this includes the female of the human race. Does this point to the establishment of good morals and a God-fearing American population? If it does, the heavens themselves must crash down in destruction.

The American people must realize that for better or for worse, the free peoples clinging to this Earth are entirely dependent upon the United States for salvation. They look to this republic, (their own leaders many times to the contrary), as the savior of the times. This nation, as such, is being buffeted by the combined forces of degeneracy and mobocracy wherever they might originate and they all do not eminate in Moscow.

There is only one possible solution to the problem, the outcome of which will determine whether or not what is known as Western civilization will survive, and that one is through faith, hope and prayer in God Almighty. There are, fortunately, millions of Americans, not blinded by this insidious screen of false values, who are praying every day for salvation for the nation. Many times, they are termed "religious fanatics" and if that is what they are, there is a need for more of them. This coming year, give God a chance and resolve to establish Him as your personal guide through the perilous days ahead, establish Him in your home, in your children's schools and most important, in your own souls and hearts.

This is a moment of decision for every American. This year will mark a crossroads in the path of the future. Which way will your nation choose to turn?—toward the road to moral degeneracy and destruction, or to choose the road, guided by God, to salvation and peace on Earth through faith and hard work and with the knowledge that in your every endeavor, your every action, God is your bulwark, your life and your leader?

This year, the year of destiny for the United States, 1954, give God a chance.

The March Is On

The March Of Dimes is on.

It will, it is hoped, serve as the weapon in the hands of the scientists wherever they may, to strike a fatal blow to the tiny virus which is known by many sufferers and anguished relatives as Polio. There are reports that the virus has at last been defeated and more than one local citizen has been overheard to say, "if it is defeated, why contribute to the campaign?" The answer is as simply answered as the statement was innocently incorrect.

The battle has not ended and will not end until every child, adolescent, and adult in this nation has been completely immunized against this terrible scourge. There are numerous local citizens who have felt the terrible power of the microscopic virus and they will testify as to the great importance of the need for final and complete victory over the disease. The fight against Polio has been described by the Foundation itself as being waged on four fronts.

The first is the great research being carried on by the national foundation with the aid of the March Of Dimes which makes this possible. The scientists have worked marvels in coming from the depths of the unknown, to the threshhold of victory in the fight. The investment of more than 20,500,000 dollars in the fight has helped.

The second front is being waged against the virus in patient aid. It is a known fact that when a person is struck by the virus, preventive aid is by then, too late. Thus, the battle is joined on a particularly tragic front where survival, freedom from permanent disabilities and the possession of self sufficiency are the major objectives. The expense in this is huge. There must be hospitalization, braces, respirators, and other items which are needed for recovery. This has been made possible by the March of Dimes.

The third front is professional education. The National Foundation maintains a staff which trains workers in the art of combatting the virus and defeating it both as scientists and physical therapists. It gives scholarships, financial aid and assistance both to schools and individuals who have signed up in the fight. In this segment of the fight, the foundation with grants totaling more than 16,200,000 dollars, has trained a huge army to meet the needs of the battle.

Now, there is a fourth front formed by the combined efforts of all the other three fronts. That one is hope and almost assured prevention of the virus. The National Foundation hopes to spread the protection against the virus to all of the people. It strikes now at the heart of the problem, the prevention of the virus by immunization. The March Of Dimes has at last brought the preventive immunization to a point where scientists are ready to try it on the human body.

If the virus can be halted with this new vaccine, Polio will be conquered. Tests will be made this year on thousands of school children who will be immunized with the vaccine. Actually, because it will be impossible to evaluate the effects of the immunization before the end of the year, or the advent of another season, there must still be large scale use of the Gamma Globulin in an attempt to halt the spread of new epidemics. It has been found by the polio scientists, that there are three types of viruses. To make the vaccine, the scientists have grown cultures of all three types, killed them in formaldehyde and are planning to inject the resulting solution into the humans.

Here is what it is hoped the solution will do: the viruses, stripped of their powers to paralyze by the formaldehyde, when injected into the body, sets up a "warning system" which calls on the human body to set up its defense of antibodies against the invasion. The body thus produces these antibodies and sends them into the bloodstream just as would happen in the case of the real attack. It is hoped that the antibodies, produced by the inoculation of the "killed" antibodies will remain in the bloodstream and thus set up permanent immunization.

The inoculation must stand the test of time. Scientists will not know for another year if the vaccine has produced effective counteraction.

The March Of Dimes needs this year, 26,500,000 dollars in the fight. That is the amount estimated as the cost of the campaign. Many people feel that if they can "make it" through the next summer, they and their loved ones will be saved from Polio. No one knows for certain, but everyone can hope. If there is success, it will be your dimes which caused that success.

This is a most important campaign in the Twin Cities area as the section has been hard hit on numerous occasions.

Make your dimes go to work this year as in other years, and end Polio.

An Axiom

The best prescription, it is said, for a long life in the Soviet Union is to keep your mouth shut, do your job, stay out of politics and get out of the country the first chance you get!

Your Auto, You, The Roads And 1954

This year, the new automobiles are appearing with more and greater "souped up" engines which will add greatly to the already increased horsepower of the machines. There is one automobile on the road which has twice the horsepower of the average light airplane. This auto will, it is said, approximate them in speed and agility.

The horsepower drive in the industry does several things. It increases the efficiency of the engine in the automobile and gives you better mileage per gallon on the gasoline which taxes have made very expensive and gives you better "pickup" when you need it.

There is only one disadvantage, it gives the car greater speeds than ever before. That aspect, combined with many drivers and the condition of the United States highway and traffic setup, throws fear into the hearts of the police, the emergency ward internes, and plastic surgeons, the national safety council and the parents who stay awake until their teenage offspring returns safely home.

The horsepower increases could be a real boon to the auto owner if both he and his youngsters learn to appreciate the car and its possibilities and also the possibilities it has as a weapon of death. Last year, the traffic toll in the nation was enough to make the nation cringe in despair. Unfortunately, few people glance at a statistic until that statistic refers either to themselves or their loved ones.

Do you want to be a statistic this year? Do you want to be a record in a county or parish morgue, or in a hospital, or in a police docket? Do you want to be included in the ever growing National Safety Council records and pictures of the horrible deaths incurred in an auto accident? If you do, then go about driving as many people do each day here in the Twin Cities ignoring stop signs, flying across a red light on Louisville Ave., attempting to beat a train at the North Second Street crossing, attempting to see how fast you can "take" a corner, attempting to conduct a stock car race on North Fifth street near Neville High School or using DeSiard Street at the corner of North Third as a method of removing rubber from the tires of your car, and other items of near destruction.

If you want to be included on the lists, try these things this year. Better leave the attempts alone, on second thought.

Your auto can either be your servant or your killer. Which will it be?

Nefarious Plans Afoot

Certain Democrat leaders, those who despise, loathe and fear the Senator from Wisconsin, Joe McCarthy, are planning to do evil deeds to his hard working, vital committee if they can get the cooperation of numerous liberal "Republicans" now in the Senate.

This is merely another manifestation of the shortsightedness of some Democrats and the deliberate and intentioned attempts of some others who, in their Marxian zeal, despise anyone who represents the patriotic efforts of any group or person in this Republic. The Communists should be overjoyed to hear this news as upon numerous occasions before, some Democrat politicians have followed to the letter, the instructions and hints placed in the "Daily Worker." Other Democrats, (and Republicans) attempt to "play politics" in their slurs and slanders against the Senator while even other zealous leftists such as Hubert Humphries, Dennis Chavez and Paul Douglas deride him with all the force at their command.

The plan, in any case is simple. The Democrats who walked off the committee are being asked to demand that they be reinstated to their jobs. Actually, they have been negligent of their jobs and should have been fined as such for ever leaving the committee as the Senator never refused to take them back. It is hoped that by this maneuver, the Senator's committee would be disrupted in its work which has proceeded in a smooth and excellent manner without the interference of the political hacks who do not care whether or not Communists and Socialists are dragged forth from their jobs so long as they can benefit the party by their actions.

The second part of the plan is to induce the Republican Senate leadership to form a committee having more investigative powers than McCarthy's and "load" it with left wingers from both parties. This would be a signal victory for the Socialist-Communist conspiracy which has upon more occasions than the average human can count, attempted to ruin the effort of both McCarthy and his all-important and vitally necessary committee. In order to push across their plans, the Democrat politicians involved are counting on the "liberal" wing of the GOP in this drive.

Undoubtedly, they will get it as left wingers are like a sickness, they do not respect the body they are attacking at the moment and will infiltrate anywhere they believe they can score a success. The Republican Marxists hate McCarthy with equal vigor as do the Democrats and would seek to remove him just as fast.

The American people, who have been witnesses to the excellent job done by the McCarthy committee, would do well to watch this new plan up the sleeves of the people serving at your expense, who have not only followed the Marxist line, but have cooperated with those people in their endeavors.

The McCarthy committee must be allowed to proceed with its work.

The British And Red China Trade With No Holds Barred

The British Board of Trade has announced with a great deal of fanfare that the trade with Communist nations last year increased by threefold. It announced plans "to greatly increase" the trade this coming year.

It is a known fact that the British government is at present, exchanging British pound sterling with Russian gold. It is realized that to exist, Britain must trade with other nations. However, are there not enough other free nations to keep the British trade going without the Communists gaining the benefit? Looking at it from a closer angle, one finds that the trade is going in great amounts to Red China. This has numerous effects on the situation as regards the United States.

In the first place, it is quite impossible for this nation to economically starve the Communist nations into submission by the witholding of vitally needed materials from the Communists. In the second place, the Chinese Communists, receiving American equipment from the British, plus much British equipment, are using this to build up the Chinese Communist war potential in their hopes of eventually winning the Orient for Communism. The British are robbing Peter to pay Paul in certain respects as the Communists mean to include Singapore on their lists.

The entire situation causes more troubles for the United States, which, because of China's growing power, is forced to draft more men, spend more money and tax the American people severely to make ends meet in this cold war in which this nation does not seem to have too many firm friends. For making a statement demanding that Britain do her share in the cold war and stop aiding the Communists, and thus, enabling the United States to get back some of the prisoners presently held, a United States Senator was severely rebuked by the American Secretary of State and by the administration.

When will the British be forced to take a realistic attitude toward the Communist threat to the free world?

Perhaps, after the British have fought to the last American.

Why I Did Not Blush?

West Monroe.

Editor, Morning World:

Am enclosing an opinion denouncing Mr. Carpenter's letter in the Forum, Dec. 26, 1953.

In regard to a certain gripe about segregation, I wish to express my opinion, which is as follows:

1st. In reference to certain claims that industry is moving South due to the fear of atomic attack, this statement is not wholly correct. There are other factors considered by the industrialist when he relocates his plant away from congested areas. Namely, the factors are: locations of raw materials, transportation, labor & housing conditions, taxes, and numerous other reasons. Of course, Reynolds Aluminum would come South because of the abundance of bauxite within our borders. There is a substantial number of heavy industries that were located in the South before the atomic bomb was heard of. Their primary reason for locating where they are was and still is nearness to raw materials and transportation.

2nd. In reference to segregation and to blushed faces, I have searched the 14th, 15th & 16th Articles (and sections thereto) of the United States of Ameirca and have failed to find one word or phrase which would allude the word, "segregation" or the enforcement of anti-segregation. The 14th Article clearly states as follows:

Section I . . . All persons born or naturalized in the U. S. A. and subject to the jurisdicton thereof, are citizens of the U. S. and the State wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges of immunities of citizens of the U. S. A. Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law. Nor deny any persons within its jurisdiction equal protection of the laws.

Section IV . . . The validity of public debt of the U. S. authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion shall not be questioned. But neither the U. S. or any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in the aid of insurrection or rebellion against the U. S., or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave: but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Article 15: Section I . . The right of citizens of the U. S. to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the U. S. or by any State, on account of race or color or previous conditions of servitude.

So you can see by the Constitution why I did not blush. Furthermore anti-segregation has a different meaning altogether from the by the Constitution and by the same token in regard to equalization.

Anti-segregation means associations against the will of others and will in time mean blending the races to a certain extent (note: there are four races, namely, Caucasian, Mongolian, Indian and the Negroid).

The Constitution does not or ever will provide a law wherein one's rights to select his or her associates & friends would be abolished.

As to Article 16 (proposed July 31, 1909, proclaimed Feb. 25, 1913) it refers to the paying and the power to collect taxes on incomes and no mention of segregation, so.o.o., here is to that blushing Southern gentlemen, Sir. In these trying & uncertain times, I think the public is rather tired of misconceptions, misleading information and distorted truths, or half-truths about the Constitution in regard to segregation — a very touchy subject. I cannot understand why one of pure Caucasian blood would be against segregation.

During the building of the tower of Babel, the workmen were segregated when their tongues were confounded. Of course, there are reasons why some people advocate anti-segregation. First, because he or they are Negro: 2nd, because he or they are of Negro lineage: 3rd, for financial gain: 4th, cheap politics: 5th, to create disunity.

As for the Negro, he has made commendable strides in education, trades, business and spiritual fields and there are many of us who are proud of him — the Southern Negro.

There is nothing to gain for the Negro to force anti-segregation and very probably he would lose all advancement acquired over the years including good will, if he did. In as much, there were inequities and a few still to be corrected. These inequities were and are spiritually wrong, but as I fail . . . and always will . . . to consider segregation as an inequity, I will believe and support segregation unblustingly.

World Peace

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

1954 offers man his greatest opportunity to fulfill the obligations imposed upon him by the final sacrifice of our Saviour.

War is simply civilization engaged in a death struggle with oblivion. Civilization is modern man's nearest approach to Christianity because those nations that make up our civilized world unanimously reject violence as the basis for settlement of any and all social, political and international differences. The struggle of the civilized nations to establish Christianity as man's principal earthly objective has been a long and sometimes discouraging one because civilization can only offer defense against aggression and there is no way of determining when and where this defense must be offered.

The United States has been fortunate in its assignments to preserve and promote Christianity. Heretofore, our nation's contribution has been in the nature of military expeditions to foreign wars and foreign economic aid in time of peace. The latter being an arbitrary contribution.

Some historians maintain that the patriotism of a nations people can never be fully determined until that nation is engaged in an all - out war fought completely in the confines of that nation.

This reminder is offered to those aggressor nations who feel that the U. S. is an easy target populated with an irresponsible and divided citizenry. The U. S. has fought and won the most important battle that can be fought in the confines of any nation. A civil war or war between brothers.

This great victory and subsequent progress is the result of our morale. Morale is a matter of taking personal pride in one's ability to accept and satisfactorily discharge any of life's difficult assignments. Morale is the reward of those nations who believe in and practice Christianity. No aggressor nation can censure the U. S. for any lack of Christian faith or understanding.

In the past due to natural barries and the inadequacy and impotency of weapons designed for mass destruction the nations of the world have been able to prolong from generation to generation the struggle between Christians and pagans. Modern man, however, has surmounted every deterrent to transportation and he has learned the use and control of the most horrible and destructive forces of nature. Wars can now be fought and concluded in a matter of hours. Only a few humans can expect survival and their reward will be a vast and desolate waste where once a beautiful and productive world stood.

Our president has stood before a gathering of representatives of the nations of the world and has expressed our people's wish to share all the scientific advancements of man with any and all nations who enter into an agreement to employ these greatest achievements of man in common and domestic uses only.

The reply of the nations and their decisions will divide the nations of the world into two distinct groups if there are dissenting voices in this trial for peace. There will be those nations who are Christians and those nations who are pagans. The immediate and future welfare of all mankind demands an early decision on this issue.

Civilization will survive only if and when its last frontier, world peace, is sustained.

To use your own words, "large business establishments" and "financial houses" and "labor unions" have embraced the United Nations. Would you have us believe that these American institutions are either simple dupes or completely un-American? It is supported by these groups because of its great merit.

An overwhelming preponderance of just plain Americans too have embraced the U. N. because they know of the tremendous amount of good that is done daily by it. The American people have in fact already embraced the U. N. and as they are concerned, it is here to stay. Our presidents, our state departments and all other governmental agents support it because the American people want it, cherish it and pray for it.

Give God A Chance

The New Year having officially opened Thursday night at the stroke of twelve, it might be wise to consider the moral responsibility of every American to his family, his nation and his God during the coming months and weeks ahead.

One needs only to glance at the magazines, the motion pictures and many of the books, not to mention the newspapers and the other media of news and information to see how far off the beaten track of morality this nation has departed. The movie producers attempt to see how near they can come to disrobing the actresses and still get by the censor; the "pocket sized book" publishers attempt to see how lewd they can manage to make their publications appear and they have been able to perform wonders in this "art" and the press agents of television and motion pictures attempt to flood the nation with "cheesecake." They also do a miraculous job, witness the latest fraud concerning actress Terry Moore who now wants to "change her type of acting."

One could easily go on with a description of the antics of the entertainment world using column after column in describing the race to see how many divorces one can establish, or how much alimony one must pay and other various and sundry things, but actually, there are worse aspects to the present situation which tend to show that God has been forgotten by a great many Americans.

The standard of values which made the United States of today have been forgotten. Loyalty to one's nation, to one's position, to one's establishment of business has been cast aside to a great extent in this, the day of punching the time clock and seeking a "short way" to do everything. This United States has apparently become a nation of materialism and has lost a great part of the spiritualism which made the population a vibrant and pioneer nation of people.

On this first Sunday of the New Year, consider the thinking of many Americans who not only condone treachery, but who regard the traitors as "heroes." Consider the people who regard patriotic Americans attempting to do a decent job in defense of their nation as "hysterical, reactionary idiots." Consider the people who rise in the classrooms of their colleges and high schools and condemn God as "foolishness" and notice the dreadful rise in the delinquency of the younger Americans due to the combined efforts of the press agents, the lewd books, the overwhelming lack of spirituality within the family circle and other segments of the situation.

Consider the thinking of many Americans who regard a banal politician as a hero, forgetting that in his speech, he broke at least two of God's Commandments. Consider the new song seemingly growing more popular which is sung by a screeching female who reports that for her lover, she is ready to lie, cheat, defraud and even hints that she may put her very life on the line if necessary. Does this point out to the younger, and to many of the older people how well the morals of the nation are at this point?

Immorality and materialism are widely advertised in this nation today. As such, it is having telling effects on the population which no longer is shocked at certain things happening here, there and the other place. People who, for their antics, would formerly have been ostracized by a shocked and outraged populace, are not only not ostracized, they are "accepted" for the great notoriety they can summon. In fact, it seems no longer to matter how one "makes his name" as long as he "makes it" and this includes the female of the human race. Does this point to the establishment of good morals and a God-fearing American population? If it does, the heavens themselves must crash down in destruction.

The American people must realize that for better or for worse, the free peoples clinging to this Earth are entirely dependent upon the United States for salvation. They look to this republic, (their own leaders many times to the contrary), as the savior of the times. This nation, as such, is being buffeted by the combined forces of degeneracy and mobocracy wherever they might originate and they all do not eminate in Moscow.

There is only one possible solution to the problem, the outcome of which will determine whether or not what is known as Western civilization will survive, and that one is through faith, hope and prayer in God Almighty. There are, fortunately, millions of Americans, not blinded by this insidious screen of false values, who are praying every day for salvation for the nation. Many times, they are termed "religious fanatics" and if that is what they are, there is a need for more of them. This coming year, give God a chance and resolve to establish Him as your personal guide through the perilous days ahead, establish Him in your home, in your children's schools and most important, in your own souls and hearts.

This is a moment of decision for every American. This year will mark a crossroads in the path of the future. Which way will your nation choose to turn?—toward the road to moral degeneracy and destruction, or to choose the road, guided by God, to salvation and peace on Earth through faith and hard work and with the knowledge that in your every endeavor, your every action, God is your bulwark, your life and your leader?

This year, the year of destiny for the United States, 1954, give God a chance.

The March Is On

The March Of Dimes is on.

It will, it is hoped, serve as the weapon in the hands of the scientists wherever they may, to strike a fatal blow to the tiny virus which is known by many sufferers and anguished relatives as Polio. There are reports that the virus has at last been defeated and more than one local citizen has been overheard to say, "if it is defeated, why contribute to the campaign?" The answer is as simply answered as the statement was innocently incorrect.

The battle has not ended and will not end until every child, adolescent, and adult in this nation has been completely immunized against this terrible scourge. There are numerous local citizens who have felt the terrible power of the microscopic virus and they will testify as to the great importance of the need for final and complete victory over the disease. The fight against Polio has been described by the Foundation itself as being waged on four fronts.

The first is the great research being carried on by the national foundation with the aid of the March Of Dimes which makes this possible. The scientists have worked marvels in coming from the depths of the unknown, to the threshhold of victory in the fight. The investment of more than 20,500,000 dollars in the fight has helped.

The second front is being waged against the virus in patient aid. It is a known fact that when a person is struck by the virus, preventive aid is by then, too late. Thus, the battle is joined on a particularly tragic front where survival, freedom from permanent disabilities and the possession of self sufficiency are the major objectives. The expense in this is huge. There must be hospitalization, braces, respirators, and other items which are needed for recovery. This has been made possible by the March of Dimes.

The third front is professional education. The National Foundation maintains a staff which trains workers in the art of combatting the virus and defeating it both as scientists and physical therapists. It gives scholarships, financial aid and assistance both to schools and individuals who have signed up in the fight. In this segment of the fight, the foundation with grants totaling more than 16,200,000 dollars, has trained a huge army to meet the needs of the battle.

Now, there is a fourth front formed by the combined efforts of all the other three fronts. That one is hope and almost assured prevention of the virus. The National Foundation hopes to spread the protection against the virus to all of the people. It strikes now at the heart of the problem, the prevention of the virus by immunization. The March Of Dimes has at last brought the preventive immunization to a point where scientists are ready to try it on the human body.

If the virus can be halted with this new vaccine, Polio will be conquered. Tests will be made this year on thousands of school children who will be immunized with the vaccine. Actually, because it will be impossible to evaluate the effects of the immunization before the end of the year, or the advent of another season, there must still be large scale use of the Gamma Globulin in an attempt to halt the spread of new epidemics. It has been found by the polio scientists, that there are three types of viruses. To make the vaccine, the scientists have grown cultures of all three types, killed them in formaldehyde and are planning to inject the resulting solution into the humans.

Here is what it is hoped the solution will do: the viruses, stripped of their powers to paralyze by the formaldehyde, when injected into the body, sets up a "warning system" which calls on the human body to set up its defense of antibodies against the invasion. The body thus produces these antibodies and sends them into the bloodstream just as would happen in the case of the real attack. It is hoped that the antibodies, produced by the inoculation of the "killed" antibodies will remain in the bloodstream and thus set up permanent immunization.

The inoculation must stand the test of time. Scientists will not know for another year if the vaccine has produced effective counteraction.

The March Of Dimes needs this year, 26,500,000 dollars in the fight. That is the amount estimated as the cost of the campaign. Many people feel that if they can "make it" through the next summer, they and their loved ones will be saved from Polio. No one knows for certain, but everyone can hope. If there is success, it will be your dimes which caused that success.

This is a most important campaign in the Twin Cities area as the section has been hard hit on numerous occasions.

Make your dimes go to work this year as in other years, and end Polio.

An Axiom

The best prescription, it is said, for a long life in the Soviet Union is to keep your mouth shut, do your job, stay out of politics and get out of the country the first chance you get!

Your Auto, You, The Roads And 1954

This year, the new automobiles are appearing with more and greater "souped up" engines which will add greatly to the already increased horsepower of the machines. There is one automobile on the road which has twice the horsepower of the average light airplane. This auto will, it is said, approximate them in speed and agility.

The horsepower drive in the industry does several things. It increases the efficiency of the engine in the automobile and gives you better mileage per gallon on the gasoline which taxes have made very expensive and gives you better "pickup" when you need it.

There is only one disadvantage, it gives the car greater speeds than ever before. That aspect, combined with many drivers and the condition of the United States highway and traffic setup, throws fear into the hearts of the police, the emergency ward internes, and plastic surgeons, the national safety council and the parents who stay awake until their teenage offspring returns safely home.

The horsepower increases could be a real boon to the auto owner if both he and his youngsters learn to appreciate the car and its possibilities and also the possibilities it has as a weapon of death. Last year, the traffic toll in the nation was enough to make the nation cringe in despair. Unfortunately, few people glance at a statistic until that statistic refers either to themselves or their loved ones.

Do you want to be a statistic this year? Do you want to be a record in a county or parish morgue, or in a hospital, or in a police docket? Do you want to be included in the ever growing National Safety Council records and pictures of the horrible deaths incurred in an auto accident? If you do, then go about driving as many people do each day here in the Twin Cities ignoring stop signs, flying across a red light on Louisville Ave., attempting to beat a train at the North Second Street crossing, attempting to see how fast you can "take" a corner, attempting to conduct a stock car race on North Fifth street near Neville High School or using DeSiard Street at the corner of North Third as a method of removing rubber from the tires of your car, and other items of near destruction.

If you want to be included on the lists, try these things this year. Better leave the attempts alone, on second thought.

Your auto can either be your servant or your killer. Which will it be?

Nefarious Plans Afoot

Certain Democrat leaders, those who despise, loathe and fear the Senator from Wisconsin, Joe McCarthy, are planning to do evil deeds to his hard working, vital committee if they can get the cooperation of numerous liberal "Republicans" now in the Senate.

This is merely another manifestation of the shortsightedness of some Democrats and the deliberate and intentioned attempts of some others who, in their Marxian zeal, despise anyone who represents the patriotic efforts of any group or person in this Republic. The Communists should be overjoyed to hear this news as upon numerous occasions before, some Democrat politicians have followed to the letter, the instructions and hints placed in the "Daily Worker." Other Democrats, (and Republicans) attempt to "play politics" in their slurs and slanders against the Senator while even other zealous leftists such as Hubert Humphries, Dennis Chavez and Paul Douglas deride him with all the force at their command.

The plan, in any case is simple. The Democrats who walked off the committee are being asked to demand that they be reinstated to their jobs. Actually, they have been negligent of their jobs and should have been fined as such for ever leaving the committee as the Senator never refused to take them back. It is hoped that by this maneuver, the Senator's committee would be disrupted in its work which has proceeded in a smooth and excellent manner without the interference of the political hacks who do not care whether or not Communists and Socialists are dragged forth from their jobs so long as they can benefit the party by their actions.

The second part of the plan is to induce the Republican Senate leadership to form a committee having more investigative powers than McCarthy's and "load" it with left wingers from both parties. This would be a signal victory for the Socialist-Communist conspiracy which has upon more occasions than the average human can count, attempted to ruin the effort of both McCarthy and his all-important and vitally necessary committee. I cannot understand why one of pure Caucasian blood would be against segregation.

During the building of the tower of Babel, the workmen were segregated when their tongues were confounded. Of course, there are reasons why some people advocate anti-segregation. First, because he or they are Negro; 2nd, because he or they are of Negro lineage; 3rd, for financial gain; 4th, cheap politics; 5th, to create disunity.

As for the Negro, he has made commendable strides in education, trades, business and spiritual fields and there are many of us who are proud of him — the Southern Negro.

There is nothing to gain for the Negro to force anti-segregation and very probably he would lose all advancement acquired over the years including good will, if he did. In as much, there were inequities and a few still to be corrected. These inequities were and are spiritually wrong, but as I fail . . . and always will . . . to consider segregation as an inequity, I will believe and support segregation unblustingly.

World Peace

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

1954 offers man his greatest opportunity to fulfill the obligations imposed upon him by the final sacrifice of our Saviour.

War is simply civilization engaged in a death struggle with oblivion. Civilization is modern man's nearest approach to Christianity because those nations that make up our civilized world unanimously reject violence as the basis for settlement of any and all social, political and international differences.

The struggle of the civilized nations to establish Christianity as man's principal earthly objective has been a long and sometimes discouraging one because civilization can only offer defense against aggression and there is no way of determining when and where this defense must be offered.

The United States has been fortunate in its assignments to preserve and promote Christianity. Heretofore, our nation's contribution has been in the nature of military expeditions to foreign wars and foreign economic aid in time of peace. The latter being an arbitrary contribution.

Some historians maintain that the patriotism of a nations people can never be fully determined until that nation is engaged in an all - out war fought completely in the confines of that nation.

This reminder is offered to those aggressor nations who feel that the U. S. is an easy target populated with an irresponsible and divided citizenry. The U. S. has fought and won the most important battle that can be fought in the confines of any nation. A civil war o' war between brothers.

This great victory and subsequent progress is the result of our morale. Morale is a matter of taking personal pride in one's ability to accept and satisfactorily discharge any of life's difficult assignments. Morale is the reward of those nations who believe in and practice Christianity. No aggressor nation can censure the U. S. for any lack of Christian faith or understanding.

In the past due to natural barries and the inadequacy and impotency of weapons designed for mass destruction the nations of the world have been able to prolong from generation to generation the struggle between Christians and pagans. Modern man, however, has surmounted every deterrent to transportation and he has learned the use and control of the most horrible and destructive forces of nature. Wars can now be fought and concluded in a matter of hours. Only a few humans can expect survival and their reward will be a vast and desolate waste where once a beautiful and productive world stood.

Our president has stood before a gathering of representatives of the nations of the world and has expressed our people's wish to share all the scientific advancements of man with any and all nations who enter into an agreement to employ these greatest achievements of man in common and domestic uses only.

The reply of the nations and their decisions will divide the nations of the world into two distinct groups if there are dissenting voices in this trial for peace. There will be those nations who are Christians and those nations who are pagans. The immediate and future welfare of all mankind demands an early decision on this issue.

Civilization will survive only if and when its last frontier, world peace, is sustained.

To use your own words, "large business establishments" and "financial houses" and "labor unions" have embraced the United Nations. Would you have us believe that these American institutions are either simple dupes or completely un-American? It is supported by these groups because of its great merit.

An overwhelming preponderance of just plain Americans too have embraced the U. N. because they know of the tremendous amount of good that is done daily by it. The American people have in fact already embraced the U. N. and as they are concerned, it is here to stay. Our presidents, our state departments and all other governmental agents support it because the American people want it, cherish it and pray for it.

Soviet Union Faces Contradictions

Reds Need 10 Years To Achieve Two-Year Goals Of More Consumer Goods

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In articles printed earlier this week, William L. Ryan has reported his observations in the Soviet union. In today's concluding article, a summing up, he relates how the program the Soviet government has charted for itself amid various pressures from its peoples, may hold hope for the West.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union needs at least 10 years to get its "two to three years" internal development program on a firm foundation. In this fact lies perhaps the world's greatest hope for peace that will last.

In that 10 years, there is reason to expect, Moscow will avoid any risk of involvement in a major world conflict, even while attempting to hold its gains outside its borders. But with the many dilemmas and contradictions facing the Soviet Union, with its present trend of developement, anything can happen.

Much of the Soviet Union today is like the America at the turn of the century, flexing its muscle. In today's world its development is likely to be swifter. But it races into years of road building, home building, machine production and transport development. The greatest obstacle in its way is the bureaucracy built up by the Communist party under Stalin. In order to approach successes promised, the government of Premier Georgi Malenkov will have to wield a willing knife against the red tape.

There is no end of confidence being expressed, high and low—real confidence that the job can be done. Soviet people are looking anxiously but demandingly to Moscow and the "new government."

Some diplomats think it possible this government feels it can drain off some of the vast expenditures for army and armaments energy and new powerful weapons. Such a course would release much needed material and manpower for the consumer program. But the attitude of the Soviet army, more and more a power in today's Moscow, is a big question mark.

At any rate, the turning inward for which many in the West had hoped seems to be taking place. Along with this development comes a series of contradictions and dilemmas. Here are some:

1. While avoiding major war, the Moscow regime cannot afford peace in the non-Communist sense of the word. It has experimented and found it still needed the ferocious enemy at the door.

2. But, while telling the people on the one hand that they are threatened by an outside enemy armed to the teeth and ready to strike, the regime also tells them to make more refrigerators and vacuum cleaners, household goods and clothing, passenger automobiles and radios. Such propaganda could produce skepticism. People might logically expect to be told they must tighten their belts and make weapons if an enemy is at the gates.

3. Having promised the better life and advertised it so broadly and constantly, the new regime will be obliged to make some semblance of a delivery. It no longer has the absolute central power of the Stalin dictatorship, and its police arm has been weakened by the furious blood purge of Laventry Beria and the MVD. For the program to succeed, something must give way. Does the U.S.S.R dare decrease its heavy industry production, its munitions production or its armed forces?

4 The Moscow regime seems to have no intention of giving up its hold on that part of the world it now dominates. But this continues to drain manpower and resources needed on the home front. Already there is a severe manpower shortage.

5. The regime seems to have no intention of veering away from its policy of supporting Communist activities abroad, of encouraging chaos and rebellion. Yet, in so doing, it increases the danger of open conflict which it cannot afford.

6. While promising communism, the regime actually is moving away from the Leninist path, even as its big neighbor, China, is struggling toward the Leninist goals. Already there is a vast sector of the Soviet population which can be considered middle class, with private property instincts and the determination to pass on to following generations what it has accumulated.

The twin calamities of Stalinism and World War II held down the economic growth of the vast, rich and powerful country. The possibilities are all there. Industrialization, electrification, mechanization of agriculture have built a foundation. In the way stands the Soviet Communist bureaucracy plus the obsession with tremendous military strength.

The Soviet Union built great factories and electric power projects, canals and irrigation networks under Stalin. But it neglected the consumer side of the economy. This could prove an Achilles heel in any international test of strength, as it almost did in the last war.

In order to give the country the resiliency to withstand a shock of major proportions, the collective regime under Malenkov must strengthen this weak link. But in so doing, it builds a threat to the Communist party. The middle class, acquiring more of the world's goods, will have more to lose by the threat of war. In acquiring more it will demand more. The middle class has little in common with revolutionary Bolshevism and little taste for throwing away its gains for the glory of the World Revolution.

There is still another factor. Although there is vast ignorance on the part of the Soviet people about the Western world, the barriers already have been pierced. In order to take advantage of Western methods, it has been necessary for the Soviet Union to expose a large number of educated persons to Western influences. Evidences that the Soviet Union copies American ways can be seen on the streets of any Soviet city.

All these things add up to hope for the world—hope that the present state of war without guns will gradually develop into something resembling peace.

M'Clellan Urges Federal Aid In School Building

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 2 —UP—Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Saturday he will introduce a bill in Congress to provide federal financial aid for school construction that will be designed to help the "poorer states" build adequate educational facilities.

The bill would be similar to the federal highway construction program.

McClellan said he thought the bill would have a better chance for passage than the controversial general school aid bill that met congressional defeat several years ago.

The earlier measure would have provided financial aid for transportation of public school students but would have excluded it from parochial school systems.

"I don't think we'll have any objection on my bill from religious groups," McClellan said.

Under his proposal, the federal government would provide matching funds under a formula designed to help the needier states.

As a hypothetical example, McClellan said his home state of Arkansas would put up $1,368,104 in order to receive $2,298,620 in federal matching money, while richer states such as California or New York would have to provide approximately $15,000,000 in order to get $5,500,00 in federal money.

McClellan said another result of the bill would be to permit states to channel their own money previously used for construction.

Three Babies Tied For Honor Of Being First Born In New Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 —UP— Three babies were tied Friday for the honor of being the first born of 1954 in the United States—but one got an assist from the United States Army.

A medical major at Brooks Army hospital in San Antonio confessed that obstetricians deliberately delayed the birth of a girl to Mrs. Jack Morgan, 28, so that it was born one second after midnight.

That Army maneuver brought Mrs. Morgan's daughter into the world in a tie with Edward Gomez, Jr., at St. Francisco hospital in Los Angeles and with a six pound five ounce girl born to Mrs. James N. Lewis at Washington.

Mrs. Morgan had been in labor about 16 hours when doctors delayed the birth another minute before delivering the eight pound nine ounce child.

Two other babies were tied for second place, both born within two seconds of the birth of the New Year. They were Irene Ann Dunn, born at Los Angeles' South Hoover hospital, and a son born to Mrs. Manuel Martin of Windsor Locks, Conn., in the St. Francis hospital at Hartford, Conn.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

Now that all the whistles have blown and everybody has wished everybody a happy and prosperous New Year, it is time to get back on the job of Little Theatre.

The play reading committee has selected a three act comedy, loaded with laughs to start 1954 on its merry way. "Be Your Age" by Mary Orr and Reginald Denham will be open to readings and casting, beginning Monday evening January 4. Try-outs will continue Tuesday evening and Wednesday evening.

"Be Your Age" is the hilarious story of a family—Holly the father is about 48 and has three daughters, Lois about 15, Gwen about 21 and Vicki about 28. The plot centers around the romance between Gwen and her fiance, Elliott who is 49 (1 year older than her father). Elliott and Bob Foley, about 26, one of her former beaux's battle over Gwen's affections and Bob is aided in his campaign by Lois's boy friend who is about 18 and a football hero. Comedy is added by Grace Reynolds, aunt of the three girls and their foster mother, who is about 35. Beatrix Bond, about 28 or 30, is a female wolf who chases after the father. The cast is completed by Abagail the maid and Dinkey the third sister's husband.

The play is very modern in every respect—It only opened on Broadway last January. Some of the better known actors appearing in the New York production are Loring Smith, Conrad Nagel, Hildy Parks and Nancy Cushming.

Look 'em over folks, there seems to be a part for most any and all aspiring actors in this one. Director Thom Feuerstein will be looking for six women and five men, ranging in age from 15 to 70. Try-outs will be held at the Little Theatre Playhouse Selman Field, 7:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Random Notes—Director Thom Feuerstein arrived back in town on New Years evening after spending the Christmas holidays in the big and famous state of Texas—A nice big treat for Monroe Little Theatre fans was the week long Christmas visit by the Stocker Fontelieu's, who we are beginning to believe prefer Monroe to New Orleans, most any day. Yes, to see Stocker and Margaret around with all the gang, it was almost like they hadn't been away—Another welcome visitor during the holidays was Tommy Inskeep, who is in the automobile business in New Orleans now—Little Theatre standby Barbara Addison spent New Years and the weekend in Baton Rouge—We are still wondering about the New Years party that "Chick" Foster was going to attend. New Years eve he was having a time trying to get into Little Theatre wardrobe storage without a key. He was hunting a red wig—We were also very pleased to find Sara Ritter among the Monroe crowd celebrating New Years. Sara has been away at college since pretty soon after finishing her acting assignment as the pretty cousin in "The Heiress"—The best of everything to everybody in this new year of 1954, and may a lot of good talent show up for "Be Your Age", this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

From 1850 to 1950 the population of the United States multiplied by about six, from about 23 million to about 151 million.

Government Disposing Of Surplus Property

Want To Buy A Lighthouse Or A Texas POW Camp?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Are you in the market for a lighthouse in Fairfield County, Conn.?

Or a slightly used prisoner of war camp at Brady, Tex.?

Or 35 miles of telephone lines around Titusville Beach in Florida?

The federal government is disposing of its surplus property, and these are some of the items that can be picked up for a fair price.

At the end of November the government had 140 pieces of real estate and related property which cost more than 31 million dollars and which is now for sale, having served its purpose.

There may be a lot more on the block soon, since a government-wide campaign has began to dispose of as much federal real property as possible.

Federal agencies have been asked to make an immediate review of all lands, buildings and other improvements to see how much can be declared surplus and sold. Public domain lands such as national forests are exempt from the program.

The General Services Administration handles the sale of surplus property. GSA emphasized that the regional directors are the officials for any interested persons to contact about any of the property. They are located in Boston, New York, Washington, Atlanta, Chicago, Kansas City, Dallas, Denver, San Francisco and Seattle.

Sales are usually by sealed bids after public advertising.

The property now being pushed for sale ranges from real estate consisting of one-tenth of an acre and one structure at Fort Revere, Mass., to 16,978 acres of farm land located on both sides of the Yadkin River in North Carolina. The latter was acquired as the site for a proposed hydroelectric project for the city of High Point, N. C. Most of the 16,978 acres is now in process of being sold to former owners.

From a cost standpoint, with figures not available for many of the holdings, Ft. Des Moines, Iowa, a former Army post consisting of about 615 acres of land and permanent and temporary structures, road and utilities tops the list at $6,722,000. Ten holdings have a reported cost of less than $500.

The for sale holdings in addition to unimproved and improved land, homes and industrial plants, include such things as a water main between Peas and House Islands in Casco Bay, Maine, and in access road to the Allatoona Dam and reservoir project in Georgia.

The government wants to get rid of the surplus property because any cash realized through sales helps meet heavy budget expenditures and helps keep the national debt below the statutory limit, maintenance and protection of some of the improvements is expensive, and because sale to private interests returns the property to local tax rolls.

Nobody knows, GSA officials say, just how much real estate the government owns. A project aimed at providing a central, up-to-date inventory of all holdings is just getting under way.

Congressional committees, GSA and other government officials also are working on what kind of a disposal program should be followed if billions of dollars worth of goods and real estate purchased because of the Korean War are shortly declared surplus. The World War II declarations of surplus totaled $27,200,000,000.

But, as of now, Uncle Sam would be glad to sell, among others:

Patrick Rock light station in Fairfield County, Conn.; Kennebunkport Pier light at Kennebunkport, Maine; Sandy Neck light station at Barnstable, Mass.; Ft. Church at Little Compton, R. I., and Ft. Nathanial Greene at Narragansett, R. I.; Syracuse Army Airbase at Syracuse, N. Y.; the waterfront Lido Beach Naval Training Center property at Lido Beach, Long Island, N. Y.; Ft. H. G. Wright at Fishers Island, N. Y.; South Buffalo light station at Lackawanna, N. Y.; East Point light station in Cumberland County, N. J.; the federal recreation building at Chester, Pa.; the Daisy Bank Plantation in Georgetown County, S. C.; the Quarantine station at Jacksonville, Fla.; the National Carbide Plant at Ashtabula, Ohio; a Weather Bureau station at LaCrosse, Wis.; a Weather Bureau site at Bismark, N. D.; Aransas Pass light station at Aransas Pass, Tex.; and harbor defenses of Puget Sound at Port Townsend, Wash.

Regular Session To Begin Tuesday In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 2 (AP) — The Mississippi Legislature, which wrapped up a segregated school system for the state's Christmas present in a special session, will return to the Capitol Tuesday for its regular session.

The lawmakers, fresh after a week-long respite from the task of remodeling Mississippi's separate but unequal school system, faces the job of financing the equalization program will be started before tion program, among other things.

The program, set up by the 18-man Legislative Recess Study Committee after two years study of several state systems, sets a minimum standard for Mississippi's Negro and white schools.

The finance bills, which remained in committees during the eight weeks of the special session, died when the Legislature adjourned. However, supporters of the program said they would introduce the same bills during the regular session.

Gov. Hugh White, an advocate of the program, has said none of the school construction in the equaliza- the U. S. Supreme Court hands down a decision on five segregation cases before it. The decision is expected early this year, while the Legislature is in session.

Plantation House Destroyed By Fire

NAPOLEONVILLE, La., Jan. 2 (AP) —Sparks from an open fireplace started flames that destroyed the pre-Civil War plantation home "Sunshine," near bear today.

Local firemen, aided by fire units from three nearby towns, said they were unable to halt the blaze, once the dry cypress timbers started burning.

The owner of the ante-bellum house, William A. Porteous, said most of the antique furnishings were saved. There was no estimate of the damage which Porteous said was partially covered by insurance.

Stalin Heads List Taken By Grim Reaper

Roster Of Dead Among Top Soviet Figures In 1953 Is Very Imposing

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Soviet Union lost a lot of distinguished citizens in 1953 through death, arrest and "disappearance."

Under the heading of "disappeared" come those who may be dead, under arrest or who have dropped into obscurity. All that is known is that their names no longer grace the pages of the Soviet press.

Counterbalancing the deaths and disappearances there were a few reappearances last year.

For example, there are the dozen or more leading Moscow physicians who were thrown into jail in 1952 and charged with plotting to assassinate leading Soviet figures. Though it was announced these men had made confessions it was suddenly discovered after the death of Stalin that the charges were faked. The doctors were freed, rehabilitated in professional life and several of them have written articles since their release—though not about their prison experiences.

Another notable example is that of G. I. Petrovsky, an Old Bolshevik who rose to chieftainship of the Ukraine. He disappeared in the late 1930s and it was assumed that he was another purge victim who had died somewhere in Siberia or had been executed in some cellar. But a short time after Stalin's death, Petrovsky was awarded an important government decoration for his services to the Communist party and Soviet state.

The turnover in the personnel of Soviet ruling circles last year because of death—natural or unnatural—was great.

Leading the Soviet obituary notices of course was Joseph Stalin who, according to announcement, died in his bed after a stroke in early March.

Close behind was the No. 2 man, deputy premier and police boss, Lavrenty Beria, who was officially reported executed for treason in December, and the world-famed composer Seregi Prokofiev, who died in March without even the benefit of an obituary in the Soviet press.

Others who died included:

Lt. Gen. Arkadi Shvetsov, outstanding aviation engine designer.

Vsevolod Pudovkin, senior motion picture director.

Col. Gen. Lev Mekhlis, former minister of state control, distinguished Old Bolshevik and longtime associate of Stalin, who died in February. He was one of the few Jews left in top-level leadership and he received a big state funeral.

Two deputy ministers, B. N. Arutyunov, for the steel industry, and O. V. Lakhtionov, for geology.

Two leading historians, Nikolai Derzhavin, an expert on the history of the Slavs, and academician Boris Grekov.

A number of high-ranking military men, among them Army Gen. Vsevolod Merkulov, former minister of state security and former minister of state control, and Colonel Generals B. Z. Kobulov and S. A. Goglidze, who were shot with Beria for treason.

Former Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs V. G. Dekanazov, also shot with Beria.

Numerous Red army men between the ages of 50 and 60, including one Army general, four colonel generals, five lieutenant generals and seven major generals.

Two deaths, in the opinion of some observers in Moscow, seemed to add an element of interesting coincidence to Stalin's death. In mid-February the Kremlin reported the death of Maj. Gen. Peter Kosynkin. Since it was the Kremlin administration which announced this death, it was apparent that Kosynkin was a leading figure in the Kremlin security command which had charge of Stalin's personal safety. Shortly after Stalin's death Prof. Arseni Rusakov, one of the nine Soviet doctors who signed Stalin's death certificate, was reported to have died.

Three Babies Tied For Honor Of Being First Born In New Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 —UP— Three babies were tied Friday for the honor of being the first born of 1954 in the United States—but one got an assist from the United States Army.

A medical major at Brooks Army hospital in San Antonio confessed that obstetricians deliberately delayed the birth of a girl to Mrs. Jack Morgan, 28, so that it was born one second after midnight.

That Army maneuver brought Mrs. Morgan's daughter into the world in a tie with Edward Gomez, Jr., at St. Francisco hospital in Los Angeles and with a six pound five ounce girl born to Mrs. James N. Lewis at Washington.

Mrs. Morgan had been in labor about 16 hours when doctors delayed the birth another minute before delivering the eight pound nine ounce child.

Two other babies were tied for second place, both born within two seconds of the birth of the New Year. They were Irene Ann Dunn, born at Los Angeles' South Hoover hospital, and a son born to Mrs. Manuel Martin of Windsor Locks, Conn., in the St. Francis hospital at Hartford, Conn.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

Now that all the whistles have blown and everybody has wished everybody a happy and prosperous New Year, it is time to get back on the job of Little Theatre.

The play reading committee has selected a three act comedy, loaded with laughs to start 1954 on its merry way. "Be Your Age" by Mary Orr and Reginald Denham will be open to readings and casting, beginning Monday evening January 4. Try-outs will continue Tuesday evening and Wednesday evening.

"Be Your Age" is the hilarious story of a family—Holly the father is about 48 and has three daughters, Lois about 15, Gwen about 21 and Vicki about 28. The plot centers around the romance between Gwen and her fiance, Elliott who is 49 (1 year older than her father). Elliott and Bob Foley, about 26, one of her former beaux's battle over Gwen's affections and Bob is aided in his campaign by Lois's boy friend who is about 18 and a football hero. Comedy is added by Grace Reynolds, aunt of the three girls and their foster mother, who is about 35. Beatrix Bond, about 28 or 30, is a female wolf who chases after the father. The cast is completed by Abagail the maid and Dinkey the third sister's husband.

The play is very modern in every respect—It only opened on Broadway last January. Some of the better known actors appearing in the New York production are Loring Smith, Conrad Nagel, Hildy Parks and Nancy Cushming.

Look 'em over folks, there seems to be a part for most any and all aspiring actors in this one. Director Thom Feuerstein will be looking for six women and five men, ranging in age from 15 to 70. Tryouts will be held at the Little Theatre Playhouse Selman Field, 7:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Random Notes—Director Thom Feuerstein arrived back in town on New Years evening after spending the Christmas holidays in the big and famous state of Texas—A nice big treat for Monroe Little Theatre fans was the week long Christmas visit by the Stocker Fontelieu's, who we are beginning to believe prefer Monroe to New Orleans, most any day. Yes, to see Stocker and Margaret around with all the gang, it was almost like they hadn't been away—Another welcome visitor during the holidays was Tommy Inskeep, who is in the automobile business in New Orleans now—Little Theatre standby Barbara Addison spent New Years and the weekend in Baton Rouge—We are still wondering about the New Years party that "Chick" Foster was going to attend. New Years eve he was having a time trying to get into Little Theatre wardrobe storage without a key. He was hunting a red wig—We were also very pleased to find Sara Ritter among the Monroe crowd celebrating New Years. Sara has been away at college since pretty soon after finishing her acting assignment as the pretty cousin in "The Heiress"—The best of everything to everybody in this new year of 1954, and may a lot of good talent show up for "Be Your Age", this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

From 1850 to 1950 the population of the United States multiplied by about six, from about 23 million to about 151 million.

Government Disposing Of Surplus Property

Want To Buy A Lighthouse Or A Texas POW Camp?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Are you in the market for a lighthouse in Fairfield County, Conn.?

Or a slightly used prisoner of war camp at Brady, Tex.?

Or 35 miles of telephone lines around Titusville Beach in Florida?

The federal government is disposing of its surplus property, and these are some of the items that can be picked up for a fair price.

At the end of November the government had 140 pieces of real estate and related property which cost more than 31 million dollars and which is now for sale, having served its purpose.

There may be a lot more on the block soon, since a government-wide campaign has began to dispose of as much federal real property as possible.

Federal agencies have been asked to make an immediate review of all lands, buildings and other improvements to see how much can be declared surplus and sold. Public domain lands such as national forests are exempt from the program.

The General Services Administration handles the sale of surplus property. GSA emphasized that the regional directors are the officials for any interested persons to contact about any of the property. They are located in Boston, New York, Washington, Atlanta, Chicago, Kansas City, Dallas, Denver, San Francisco and Seattle.

Sales are usually by sealed bids after public advertising.

The property now being pushed for sale ranges from real estate consisting of one-tenth of an acre and one structure at Fort Revere, Mass., to 16,978 acres of farm land located on both sides of the Yadkin River in North Carolina. The latter was acquired as the site for a proposed hydroelectric project for the city of High Point, N. C. Most of the 16,978 acres is now in process of being sold to former owners.

From a cost standpoint, with figures not available for many of the holdings, Ft. Des Moines, Iowa, a former Army post consisting of about 615 acres of land and permanent and temporary structures, road and utilities tops the list at $6,722,000. Ten holdings have a reported cost of less than $500.

The for sale holdings in addition to unimproved and improved land, homes and industrial plants, include such things as a water main between Peas and House Islands in Casco Bay, Maine, and in access road to the Allatoona Dam and reservoir project in Georgia.

The government wants to get rid of the surplus property because any cash realized through sales helps meet heavy budget expenditures and helps keep the national debt below the statutory limit, maintenance and protection of some of the improvements is expensive, and because sale to private interests returns the property to local tax rolls.

Nobody knows, GSA officials say, just how much real estate the government owns. A project aimed at providing a central, up-to-date inventory of all holdings is just getting under way.

Congressional committees, GSA and other government officials also are working on what kind of a disposal program should be followed if billions of dollars worth of goods and real estate purchased because of the Korean War are shortly declared surplus. The World War II declarations of surplus totaled $27,200,000,000.

But, as of now, Uncle Sam would be glad to sell, among others:

Patrick Rock light station in Fairfield County, Conn.; Kennebunkport Pier light at Kennebunkport, Maine; Sandy Neck light station at Barnstable, Mass.; Ft. Church at Little Compton, R. I., and Ft. Nathanial Greene at Narragansett, R. I.; Syracuse Army Airbase at Syracuse, N. Y.; the waterfront Lido Beach Naval Training Center property at Lido Beach, Long Island, N. Y.; Ft. H. G. Wright at Fishers Island, N. Y.; South Buffalo light station at Lackawanna, N. Y.; East Point light station in Cumberland County, N. J.; the federal recreation building at Chester, Pa.; the Daisy Bank Plantation in Georgetown County, S. C.; the Quarantine station at Jacksonville, Fla.; the National Carbide Plant at Ashtabula, Ohio; a Weather Bureau station at LaCrosse, Wis.; a Weather Bureau site at Bismark, N. D.; Aransas Pass light station at Aransas Pass, Tex.; and harbor defenses of Puget Sound at Port Townsend, Wash.

Stalin Heads List Taken By Grim Reaper

Reds Demanding More 'Zip' In Ads

By TOM WHITNEY
(Former Moscow Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Russian ad men have been told to put some zip and inspiration for a change into their advertising copy for Soviet food products.

Copies of the Moscow paper Trud reaching here say that it Soviet hucksters are really going to sell that good old canned borscht and the other delicious foodstuffs the paper claims are cramming the shelves of Soviet grocery stores they are going to have to streamline their line of chatter.

And one of the ways to do it, the Soviet paper declares, taking a leaf out of the book of American advertising agencies, is to write clever jingles praising the products.

Trud demanded that the best talents among Soviet poets be mobilized behind this task.

The paper gave concrete examples of how and how not to do it.

Here is a piece of advertising which shows, says Trud, how to bore the potential customer. It's now current on Soviet billboards, the paper revealed:

"Parents! Canned vegetables for child feeding offer the opportunity throughout the entire year of organizing correctly the nourishment of children and providing them with tasty foods which contain the food substances and vitamins necessary for the child's organism."

Now here's the way to really go about the selling job, says Trud, citing a rhyme by the poet Sergei Kirsanov:

"Here's your borscht,
"The tastiest of all borscht.
"But it,
"Open it,
"Turn up the gas,
"Let it simmer, and pour it in the soupbowl."

(In Russian this rhymes. Borscht is a favorite Russian soup made from beets and other vegetables. Canned borscht is an innovation. Russian housewives traditionally make their own at home).

The example of bad advertising, Trud declares, has been put out in an edition of 50,000 posters, while the good ad was written three years ago and never given wide currency.

The food advertising office, says Trud, needs a going over. The heads of the food industry, the paper says, also needs someone to explain to them modern advertising techniques. They are the men, the paper claims, who refuse to accept jingles offered for their advertising.

KFAZ-TV Signs Contract With Broadcasting Co.

The American Broadcasting Co. in New York announced this week that it had signed an affiliation contract with KFAZ-TV to become effective June 1, 1954.

John Ferguson, general manager of the local UHF station, said that the contract had been signed by Justin Wilson, vice - president of KFAZ, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, Jr., vice - president of ABC, on Dec. 1 in New York.

Ferguson said that all ABC-TV programs, which are available to be shown here, would be transmitted over KFAZ, and until the effective date of the contract the station would carry a number of live shows from the national TV company.

The contract with ABC is the first to be signed by KFAZ and the local owners and managers said that "the affiliation would greatly improve the station's programing."

The first national show to be shown will be college basketball games which will appear weekly. A complete list of the new shows will be announced in the near future.

Petition To Be Circulated By Ferriday Legion

FERRIDAY, Jan. 2. (Special)—Ferriday Legionnaires will soon begin circulating petitions against seating of Red China in the United Nations.

Commander Henry A. Montgomery of James Williams Post No. 536, the American Legion, of Ferriday, said the petitions would be sent to the president of the United States.

The action of the Ferriday post in seeking signatures on these petitions resulted from a request by National Commander Arthur J. Connell of the American Legion.

"Communists are carrying on a well organized propaganda campaign for the United States to abandon General Chaing Kai-shek's regularly constituted government of China and admit another satellite government of Soviet Russia to the United Nations," Commander Montgomery said.

"To do so would betray the letter and violate the spirit of the United Nations." The so-called Chinese Peoples' Republic has shown its unwillingness to carry out the obligations of the charter by systematically disregarding every human right and violating freedom."

"We are circulating this petition opposing the seating of Red China in the United Nations in order that our president may know that the people of America are unalterably opposed to the recognition of the so-called Chinese Peoples Republic. This government is part and parcel of the communist gang, whose hands drip with blood of tortured American soldiers and South Korean patriots."

The 1953 National Convention of the American Legion in St. Louis August 31, 1953, went on record unanimously as opposing the seating of Red China in the UN, Commander Montgomery said.

Reds Demanding More 'Zip' In Ads

By TOM WHITNEY
(Former Moscow Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Russian ad men have been told to put some zip and inspiration for a change into their advertising copy for Soviet food products.

Copies of the Moscow paper Trud reaching here say that it Soviet hucksters are really going to sell that good old canned borscht and the other delicious foodstuffs the paper claims are cramming the shelves of Soviet grocery stores they are going to have to streamline their line of chatter.

And one of the ways to do it, the Soviet paper declares, taking a leaf out of the book of American advertising agencies, is to write clever jingles praising the products.

Trud demanded that the best talents among Soviet poets be mobilized behind this task.

The paper gave concrete examples of how and how not to do it.

Here is a piece of advertising which shows, says Trud, how to bore the potential customer. It's now current on Soviet billboards, the paper revealed:

"Parents! Canned vegetables for child feeding offer the opportunity throughout the entire year of organizing correctly the nourishment of children and providing them with tasty foods which contain the food substances and vitamins necessary for the child's organism."

Now here's the way to really go about the selling job, says Trud, citing a rhyme by the poet Sergei Kirsanov:

"Here's your borscht,
"The tastiest of all borscht.
"But it,
"Open it,
"Turn up the gas,
"Let it simmer, and pour it in the soupbowl."

(In Russian this rhymes. Borscht is a favorite Russian soup made from beets and other vegetables. Canned borscht is an innovation. Russian housewives traditionally make their own at home).

The example of bad advertising, Trud declares, has been put out in an edition of 50,000 posters, while the good ad was written three years ago and never given wide currency.

The food advertising office, says Trud, needs a going over. The heads of the food industry, the paper says, also needs someone to explain to them modern advertising techniques. They are the men, the paper claims, who refuse to accept jingles offered for their advertising.

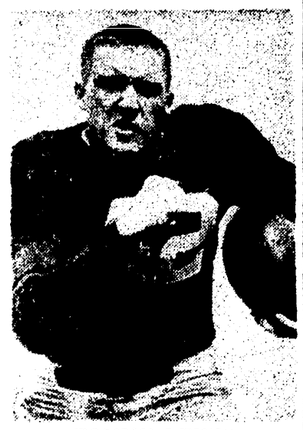
MAY THE NEW YEAR BRING HAPPINESS, HEALTH & PROSPERITY TO EVERYONE

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

When Tommy Lewis, the Alabama fullback, came off the bench to provide Cotton Bowl fans an incident they will never forget by tackling Rice's Dick Moegle to mar a 95-yard touchdown run, he joined Roy Riegels of the University of California as a bowl performer who will be long remembered for treating fans to the unusual.



TOMMY LEWIS

Riegels, you remember, was the California player who lost his sense of direction and ran the wrong way with the ball to enable Georgia Tech to defeat the Bears, 8-7, in the 1929 Rose Bowl game. Riegels was tackled by his teammate, Benny Lom, one foot from his own goal line. On the next play Lom, trying to punt out from behind his goal, had his kick blocked by Maree of Tech and covered by Breckenridge of California to give Tech the safety that won the game.

However, Lewis' action wasn't as costly as that of wrong-way Riegels. The off-the-bench tackle didn't figure in the outcome of the game, but Moegel was denied the right of actually running the full distance. The Rice star had covered 57 yards, pulling away from all opposition, when Lewis, who had earlier scored Alabama's only touchdown, came off the bench to stop Moegel 38 yards short of a touchdown. Referee Cliff Shaw ruled the touchdown to count, nullifying Lewis' appearance on the field. The fans really got a charge out of it just the same, and Lewis suddenly became the most-talked-about player of the New Year's bowls.

The Alabama-Rice incident brings to mind a similar case of the middle 1920s when a teen-aged colored boy named Dave Franklin saved the old Monroe Tigers, a combination of Ouachita and city high school students, a victory over Ruston High School. Dave, popularly known as "Botts" for several years, was the waterboy for the Monroe team, and the Tigers were leading 6-0.

Suddenly a Ruston back broke into the clear from deep in his own end of the field and headed along the sideline before the Monroe players' bench. Dave was screaming at the full capacity of his lungs in that shrill voice of his: "Somebody stop 'em! Somebody, stop 'em!" There was no one anywhere near stopping 'em until Dave came off the sidelines and did the stopping. Dave will tell you he didn't make a tackle, but "jes sorta tripped 'em."

Dave's intervention in that high school game was a decisive one whereas the Cotton Bowl tackle was not. The little colored boy's appearance on the field saved the victory for Monroe and ruined Ruston's chance to tie for the ruling in the prep game was different in those days from that which applied at Dallas Friday. The Ruston touchdown was not allowed, but Monroe was penalized half the distance of the field for having "twelve men on the field." Ruston couldn't score and the Tigers went on to win, 6-0.

And what about Dave? Yes, he's still around. He's been grounds keeper at Legion Memorial Stadium here for the past four years. He was clubhouse boy for the old Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League when they were playing at the old Casino Park, and he was football trainer at Northeast Louisiana State when it was known as Ouachita Junior College.

Lewis Only Person Irked About Off-Bench-Tackle

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Cotton Bowl squads—Rice and Alabama—departed for their homes today but the memory of the tackle from the bench lived on and will be the thing that pinpoints the 1954 game in which Rice beat the Crimson Tide 28-6.

Tommy Lewis, the Alabama fullback who leaped onto the field and floored Dicky Moegle, Rice halfback, off on a touchdown run, appeared to be worrying more about it than anybody.

He apologized to everybody, was told that it didn't matter—it was just the impulsive act of a college boy, and to forget it. The act didn't actually figure in the result of the game anyway.

The Dallas News had a front page editorial in which it said: "Texans know competitive spirit. We thrive on it. It might not be a bad idea to drop Tommy Lewis a line over at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and let him know he hasn't lost his last friend. He's quite a fighter—and we like them that way in Texas."

Coaches Ness Neely of Rice and Harold (Red) Drew of Alabama brushed it off and said it was best forgotten. The incident wasn't even mentioned last night at the awards dinner when it was announced that Alabama would take $85,000 home and Rice would get $75,000 from the $152,000 each received for playing in the Cotton Bowl. Each school pays a percentage back to its conference. They also pay their expenses from their "take."

The Alabama squad left by plane this morning an hour after the Rice squad entrained for Houston.

Howard Grubbs, secretary of the Cotton Bowl who departed tonight for Cincinnati to attend the N.C.A.A. Convention, observed: "Well, we got more publicity out of that than anything that might have happened."

A casualty of the game was Cotton Bowl President Otto Eisenlohr—he lost his voice yelling when Rice, his ala mater, won the contest and remained undefeated in bowl competition over the 16-year period it has been playing in the post-season games.

The twelfth man tackle isn't new to the southwest. It happened in a Baylor-Wake Forest game at Waco in 1952 but the one here is believed to be the first in a bowl game.

Ciesielski Due To Play Again At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 2 (AP)—The Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association announced today the purchase of catcher Larry Ciesielski from Buffalo.

Ciesielski was the first string receiver on Little Rock's 1951 pennant winner in the class AA Southern Association. He was promoted to Buffalo, a triple-A club, last spring but came back to the Travelers on option in June.

When Buffalo later took another catcher for an emergency replacement, Ciesielski quit for the season.

General Manager Ray Winder of the Travelers said he expects Ciesielski to resume playing next spring.

Garrett Ramrods Team To Victory In Shrine Scrap

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 (AP)—Brilliant passing by Stanford's Bob Garrett and lightning touchdown runs by Kansas State's Veryl Switzer sparked the West All-Stars to a stunning 31-7 upset victory over the East today in the 29th annual Shrine charity football game.

Garrett, voted the most valuable player on the field by the sports writers, turned in a dazzling display of passing before a sellout crowd of 62,000, scored a touchdown and twice converted.

Switzer, the only Negro player on both squads, sprinted 20 yards to the first touchdown in the opening quarter and went the same distance for another score in the third.

Baylor's Cotton Davidson, who alternated at quarterback with Garrett, was another West star, kicking a 27-yard field goal in the third period. It was his pitchout to Switzer that got the Kansas State man's second touchdown.

The East sorely missing the full running power of Notre Dame's All-America Johnny Lattner who had a shoulder injury suffered in practice, was never in the game.

The West led 24-0 early in the final quarter when the East put together a 63-yard drive for its only score. Notre Dame's Neil Worden took a 13-yard pass from South Carolina's John Gramling for the touchdown.

It was the most one-sided victory ever registered by a Western team in the history of the charity classic, founded Dec. 26, 1925.

Texas' end Carleton Massey was voted the game's outstanding lineman. He made numerous fine catches and was a standout on defense.

There was no doubt as to the superiority of the Western stars after they took charge with a 78-yard touchdown smash late in the first quarter.

Garrett directed the stunning offense after the West got the ball on downs on its own 22. He threw passes of 11 yards to Gary Knafelc, of Colorado, and 17 yards to Jerry Norton, of Southern Methodist. Baylor's Jerry Coody, a hard hitting fullback, knocked off 14 yards. Switzer banged for four and went the last 20 on a delayed handoff.

In the third period, Davidson got a 27-yard field goal to make it 10-0. Near the period's end, Davidson engineered a 76-yard scoring thrust. One of his passes was for 23 yards to Stanford's All-America end Sam Morley, who played despite a knee injury. Another for 10 went to Southern California's Tom Nickoloff.

From 20 yards out, Switzer took a pitchout and raced right end for the touchdown. Davidson converted.

At the outset of the fourth period, the West scored again. Bill Brede, Oklahoma A. and M. halfback, intercepted a pass that was bobbled by Northwestern's Joe Collier on the East 49. Garrett passed 40 yards to Massey on the East nine. Southern California's fullback Harold Han pounded the line twice for gains of three yards and California's Al Talley went straight through the middle for the touchdown. Garrett converted.

Score by quarters:

East	0	0	0	7	7

East scoring: Touchdown Worden. Conversion Hague, placement.

West scoring: Switzer 2, Talley, Garrett. Conversion, Garrett 2, Davidson, placements. Norton, ran for the extra point. Field goal, Davidson.

Oklahoma's Students Get Holiday For Win

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, today announced a holiday from classes for all students Monday in celebration of the Sooners' football victory over Maryland in the Orange Bowl.

Immediately after Oklahoma downed Maryland, 7-0, on New Year's Day, the "Ruff Neks," men's pep squad of the university, called upon Dr. Cross, who was here for the game, and suggested the holiday.

The university president later issued an executive order declaring Monday a holiday.

Tag 'Sugar' As 'Lemon'

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 —(UP)— Two New Orleans sports writers, with tongue in cheek, but a little prodding on the side, had this advice for the Sugar Bowl committee Saturday:

"Remember Texas Tech."

Both had advised, begged and pleaded with the selection committee to bring the Red Raiders from Lubbock to the Sugar Bowl Classic (for money and football).

Said Sports Editor Bill Keefe of the Times-Picayune:

"Too bad Texas Tech is not ranked as an accredited school. What a game the two Techs (Georgia and Texas) would have made."

Said Hap Glaude of the Item: "Remember Texas Tech gentlemen." His column, "Looking 'em over," was headlined "Bowl report: (1) Rose; (2) Orange; (3) Lemon." The latter referred to the Sugar Bowl. A headline in his paper said "Tag city slickers cold W. Virginia the Huey Long bridge."

Texas Tech romped 35-13 over Auburn; and Georgia Tech, with the grace of its reserves, held the score to 42 to 19 over West Virginia.

Even then Tech shattered six major Sugar Bowl records.

Keefe's column continued: "I'm not at all sure the Texans would have beaten Tech. Not by a jugful. Magnificent teamwork, superb coaching and talent like Pepper Rodgers and those pass-catching ends, together with speed and an alert defense—Texas Tech would have run into a great football team Friday, no doubt.

"The concern of Bobby Dodd in keeping down the score was so obvious it provoked laughs...

"There's another side to think about, though. Rodgers probably could have set a record for completed passes that would have smashed all modern forward passing marks for any game." (He hit 16 of 19 passes in the first half alone, for 195 yards.)

Carolina Eleven Handed Surprise In Elks Classic

GREENVILLE, N. C., Jan. 2 (AP)—Morris Harvey upset East Carolina College, 12-0, here today in the first Elks Bowl football game. The scores came on a three-yard off tackle thrust and a 28-yard pass in the first half.

A crowd of about 5,500 saw the West Virginians make good in their two best scoring chances.

East Carolina took an 8-1 record into the game while Morris Harvey had a 5-4-1 mark. It was Morris Harvey's third consecutive bowl victory after appearances in the 1951 Burley Bowl at Johnson City, Tenn., and the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., in 1950.

Halfback Bob Fetty scored first for Morris Harvey in the first quarter, capping an 84-yard drive. Quarterback Bob Maxwell passed to end Bob Spenik for the other touchdown.

Proceeds of the game will benefit the Elk's Eastern North Carolina Boys' Camp.

Score by quarters:

Morris Harvey	6	6	0	0	12

Morris Harvey scoring: Touchdowns—Fetty, Spenik.

English Runner To Attend U. S. College

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Gordon Pirie, England's challenger to Emil Zatopek, is almost certain to be studying and running for either Oklahoma, Georgetown or "a West Coast university" next autumn.

The lean, tall, knobby-kneed distance runner confirmed today he "is seriously considering several scholarship offers to American colleges."

Pirie, who trains on daily gallops of 25 to 30 miles, declined to say which schools were in the bidding. But a knowing source close to Pirie said Georgetown, the University of Oklahoma and a big track college on the West Coast are the principals.

When asked specifically about those colleges Pirie admitted "that is certainly right at the truth of the matter."

110 Personal Fouls Called In Prep Tilt

GRAFTON, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Things were pretty well fouled up last night in the basketball game between Grafton High and Weston.

A total of 110 personal fouls were called. Each team lost four starters via the foul route, plus some subs.

Dallas, Beaumont In 2-Man Baseball Swap

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Dallas traded Jim (Buzz) Clarkson, its hard-hitting third baseman, to Beaumont today for Ed Knoick, righthanded pitcher.

The trade, one of the first of the Texas League winter deals, was announced by Allen Russell, Beaumont owner, who came here to confer with Dallas club officials.

Clarkson hit .330 and slugged 18 home runs in the Dallas pennant drive last season. Knoick appeared in 35 games, pitched 13 complete games, finished 10, won 11 and lost 13 and had an earned run average of 3.87 with the last-place Beaumont club.

Critics Agree Blocked Kick Big Help To MSC

By BOB MYERS

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—There is no question that the better team, Michigan State, won the Rose Bowl clash, but the critics today continued to rehash the 28-20 score over U.C.L.A. and argue several issues.

What, if any, was the deciding break, or play?

The coaches, Clarence (Biggie) Munn of the Big Ten champs and Red Sanders of U.C.L.A., agreed that the touchdown scored on a U.C.L.A. punt blocked and run back by end Ellis Duckett in the second quarter was a big factor.

"It was one of several kick rushes we worked hard on after studying the movies," Munn revealed.

The touchdown left U.C.L.A. with only a 14-7 lead at the half instead of 14-0, and as Sanders said, such an incident not only peps up the scoring team but serves to demoralize the team scored against.

There was no argument about the long scoring drives that tied the score and sent Michigan State in front in the third period, 21-14.

The Spartans found a weakness on the left side of the Bruin line and drove 78 yards on the ground for the first score and 73, with one pass for 18 yards mixed in the running attack, for the next.

All-America halfback Paul Cameron pulled U.C.L.A. up to 21-20 with a 28-yard scoring strike to end Rommie Loudd after he got the ball on a M.S.C. fumble. While the extra point try went wild, the Bruins were still in the ball game.

Starting again from the U.C.L.A. 16, Cameron guided his team to the M.S.C 40, thanks to a 34-yard completion to Bill Stits. But on a run-pass elect, Cameron fell afoul of this same Mr. Duckett and was chased back to the U.C.L.A. 32.

On fourth down, again rushed by Duckett and company, Cameron got off a low kick straight to halfback Billy Wells, and he cinched the game with a brilliant 62-yard run for a touchdown

Shift reels back to the blocked punt. Twice on third down Cameron had set the Spartans back with quick kicks. But in the second quarter, ahead 14-0, third down and six to go, with the Michigan State secondary again sticking in close, Cameron made a run for first down. He missed by five yards, and then stepped back for his fourth down punt.

That was when Duckett broke in. Photographs show that he was at least four feet off the gound when he blocked the kick. It was simple to field the ball on its backward bounce and trot six yards for the touchdown.

Cavazos Delights Gator Bowl Fans With Great Runs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Gator Bowl fans won't soon forget Texas Tech halfback Bobby Cavazoas, an honest - to - goodness cowboy who runs with a football like a quarterhorse chasing a steer.

More than any other factor, the capers of Cavazos represented the difference between Texas Tech and Auburn in their New Year's Day clash. Coaches Dewitt Weaver of Tech and Ralph Jordan of Auburn agreed on that.

Tech was the favorite, but not even the staunchest Texas seriously figured the Red Raiders would whip Auburn by such a one-sided score as 35-13.

Cavazos, who branded calves during his Christmas holidays for his dad, a foreman on the famous King Ranch, put his name on three touchdowns yesterday — tying a Gator Bowl record.

He averaged almost 10.8 yards every time he ran the ball, collecting 141 yards in 13 carries. He thrilled the 32,000 fans with two sparkling displays of broken field running. He scampered 59 yards for one touchdown and started Tech on another with a 35-yard spring.

After the 35-yarder, he went on to score by snaring a 26-yard pass from Jack Kirkpatrick and hitting the line twice for four and five yards.

His 59-yard jaunt erased the record of 39 yards set by Leslie Palmer of N. C. State in the 1947 Gator Bowl.

But Cavazos wasn't the only Tech star. Vic Spooner, an end from Colquitt, Ga., blocked a Fob James punt, giving Cavazos a chance to score from the 15, which the elusive halfback did in two smashes. Spooner also scored once by recovering the ball in the end zone after teammate Don Lewis fumbled at the two.

And there was end Paul Erwin, who had to score his touchdown twice. With the ball at Auburn's 48, Erwin took a long pass from Kirkpatrick, faked the Auburn defenders completely out of position, and ran about 30 yards for what looked like a touchdown. But a Tech offside penalty moved the ball back to Tech's 47, and on the next play Kirkpatrick and Erwin teamed up again. Erwin once more fooled Auburn's deep men, and this time it counted.

Kirkpatrick set a record by making good five straight conversions.

Bassett Kayoes Herbillion In 1st Round At Paris

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP) —Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, interim world's featherweight boxing champion, knocked out Jacques Herbillon, French lightweight champion, in the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout tonight before 15,000 in the Paris Sports Palace.

Bassett floored the Frenchman three times. Herbillon went down for the count of eight under a flurry of rights after only 20 seconds had gone by.

After one minute of fighting, he was down again from a right to the body and was visibly pained as he pulled himself to his knees and rose.

Bassett charged in again and floored his opponent with a right to the head at 1:25. Herbillon rose at the count of nine, and referee Renee Schneeman waved him to his corner and signalled Bassett the winner.

The crowd, many from Herbillon's hometown of Reims, was stunned by the sudden ending. Herbillon, who weighed 136½, is rated locally as a puncher, but could do nothing tonight except try and duck punches.

The victory gave Bassett, 125¾, a record of two victories and one defeat on his current European tour. He beat Louis Carrara here six weeks ago, and lost a disputed decision to Joseph Janssens in Brussels.

Bassett probably threw no more than 10 punches tonight, and Herbillon was unable to swing more than two or three times in the short time.

Record Run Wins Malibu Sequet's Cash For Imbros

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—Andrew J. Crevolin's Kentucky colt, Imbros, cracked the world record for seven furlongs today in capturing the $25,000 Malibu Sequet Stakes for 4-year-olds at Santa Anita Park.

Jockey Ray York rode the son of Polynesian over the distance in 1:20 3-5, breaking the world mark of 1:21 set here by Bolero Jan. 1, 1951.

Fifty thousand fans were on hand for the post - holiday card and the seven furlong battle between seven candidates.

The fractional times were .22 4-5, .45, 1.08 4-5 and 1.20³⁄₄.

Winning a net purse of $16,000, Imbros rewarded the bettors with a payoff across the board of $7.10, $3.80 and $3.30. He beat out Abe Hirschberg's Berseem in a photo finish, with Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Joe Jones third. Berseem paid $3 and $2.50, and Jee Jones $$4.90.

Imbros broke first down the chute and held on to the lead, with Berseem, ridden by 1953 riding champion Willie Shoemaker aboard, next.

Calumet farm's Chanlea made one move toward contention but fell back. Eric Gerin got Joe Jones up from dead last with a drive in the stretch to win the show position.

Others in the race were Karim, Rejected and Merryman.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

When Tommy Lewis, the Alabama fullback, came off the bench to provide Cotton Bowl fans an incident they will never forget by tackling Rice's Dick Moegle to mar a 95-yard touchdown run, he joined Roy Riegels of the University of California as a bowl performer who will be long remembered for treating fans to the unusual.

Riegels, you remember, was the California player who lost his sense of direction and ran the wrong way with the ball to enable Georgia Tech to defeat the Bears, 8-7, in the 1929 Rose Bowl game. Riegels was tackled by his teammate, Benny Lom, one foot from his own goal line. On the next play Lom, trying to punt out from behind his goal, had his kick blocked by Maree of Tech and covered by Breckenridge of California to give Tech the safety that won the game.

TOMMY LEWIS

However, Lewis' action wasn't as costly as that of wrong-way Riegels. The off-the-bench tackle didn't figure in the outcome of the game, but Moegel was denied the right of actually running the full distance. The Rice star had covered 57 yards, pulling away from all opposition, when Lewis, who had earlier scored Alabama's only touchdown, came off the bench to stop Moegel 38 yards short of a touchdown. Referee Cliff Shaw ruled the touchdown to count, nullifying Lewis' appearance on the field. The fans really got a charge out of it just the same, and Lewis suddenly became the most-talked-about player of the New Year's bowls.

The Alabama-Rice incident brings to mind a similar case of the middle 1920s when a teen-aged colored boy named Dave Franklin saved the old Monroe Tigers, a combination of Ouachita and city high school students, a victory over Ruston High School. Dave, popularly known as "Botts" for several years, was the waterboy for the Monroe team, and the Tigers were leading 6-0.

Suddenly a Ruston back broke into the clear from deep in his own end of the field and headed along the sideline before the Monroe players' bench. Dave was screaming at the full capacity of his lungs in that shrill voice of his: "Somebody stop 'em! Somebody, stop 'em!" There was no one anywhere near stopping 'em until Dave came off the sidelines and did the stopping. Dave will tell you he didn't make a tackle, but "jes sorta tripped 'em."

Dave's intervention in that high school game was a decisive one whereas the Cotton Bowl tackle was not. The little colored boy's appearance on the field saved the victory for Monroe and ruined Ruston's chance to tie for the ruling in the prep game was different in those days from that which applied at Dallas Friday. The Ruston touchdown was not allowed, but Monroe was penalized half the distance of the field for having "twelve men on the field." Ruston couldn't score and the Tigers went on to win, 6-0.

And what about Dave? Yes, he's still around. He's been grounds keeper at Legion Memorial Stadium here for the past four years. He was clubhouse boy for the old Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League when they were playing at the old Casino Park, and he was football trainer at Northeast Louisiana State when it was known as Ouachita Junior College.

Fifty thousand fans were on hand for the post - holiday card and the seven furlong battle between seven candidates.

The fractional times were .22 4-5, .45, 1.08 4-5 and 1.20⅗.

Winning a net purse of $16,000, Imbros rewarded the bettors with a payoff across the board of $7.10, $3.80 and $3.30. He beat out Abe Hirschberg's Berseem in a photo finish, with Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Joe Jones third. Berseem paid $3 and $2.50, and Jee Jones $54.90.

Imbros broke first down the chute and held on to the lead, with Berseem, ridden by 1953 riding champion Willie Shoemaker aboard, next.

Calumet farm's Chanlea made one move toward contention but fell back. Eric Gerin got Joe Jones up from dead last with a drive in the stretch to win the show position.

Others in the race were Karim, Rejected and Merryman.

Tag 'Sugar' As 'Lemon'

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 —UP—Two New Orleans sports writers, with tongue in cheek, but a little prodding on the side, had this advice for the Sugar Bowl committee Saturday:

"Remember Texas Tech."

Both had advised, begged and pleaded with the selection committee to bring the Red Raiders from Lubbock to the Sugar Bowl Classic (for money and football).

Said Sports Editor Bill Keefe of the Times-Picayune:

"Too bad Texas Tech is not ranked as an accredited school. What a game the two Techs (Georgia and Texas) would have made."

Said Hap Glaude of the Item: "Remember Texas Tech gentlemen." His column, "Looking 'em over," was headlined "Bowl report: (1) Rose; (2) Orange; (3) Lemon." The latter referred to the Sugar Bowl. A headline in his paper said "The city slicker sold W. Virginia the Huey Long bridge."

Texas Tech romped 35-13 over Auburn; and Georgia Tech, with the grace of its reserves, held the score to 42 to 19 over West Virginia.

Even then Tech shattered six major Sugar Bowl records.

Keefe's column continued: "I'm not at all sure the Texans would have beaten Tech. Not by a jugful. Magnificent teamwork, superb coaching and talent like Pepper Rodgers and those pass-catching ends, together with speed and an alert defense—Texas Tech would have run into a great football team Friday, no doubt.

"The concern of Bobby Dodd in keeping down the score was so obvious it provoked laughs...

"There's another side to think about, though. Rodgers probably could have set a record for completed passes that would have smashed all modern forward passing marks for any game." (He hit 16 of 19 passes in the first half alone, for 195 yards.)

Carolina Eleven Handed Surprise In Elks Classic

GREENVILLE, N. C., Jan. 2 (AP)—Morris Harvey upset East Carolina College, 12-0, here today in the first Elks Bowl football game. The scores came on a three-yard off tackle thrust and a 28-yard pass in the first half.

A crowd of about 5,500 saw the West Virginians make good in their two best scoring chances.

East Carolina took an 8-1 record into the game while Morris Harvey had a 5-4-1 mark. It was Morris Harvey's third consecutive bowl victory after appearances in the 1951 Burley Bowl at Johnson City, Tenn., and the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., in 1950.

Halfback Bob Fetty scored first for Morris Harvey in the first quarter, capping an 84-yard drive. Quarterback Bob Maxwell passed to end Bob Spenik for the other touchdown.

Proceeds of the game will benefit the Elk's Eastern North Carolina Boys' Camp.

Score by quarters:

Morris Harvey scoring: Touchdowns—Fetty, Spenik.

English Runner To Attend U. S. College

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Gordon Pirie, England's challenger to Emil Zatopek, is almost certain to be studying and running for either Oklahoma, Georgetown or "a West Coast university" next autumn.

The lean, tall, knobby-kneed distance runner confirmed today he "is seriously considering several scholarship offers to American colleges."

Pirie, who trains on daily gallops of 25 to 30 miles, declined to say which schools were in the bidding. But a knowing source close to Pirie said Georgetown, the University of Oklahoma and a big track college on the West Coast are the principals.

When asked specifically about those colleges Pirie admitted "that is certainly right at the truth of the matter."

110 Personal Fouls Called In Prep Tilt

GRAFTON, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Things were pretty well fouled up last night in the basketball game between Grafton High and Weston.

A total of 110 personal fouls were called. Each team lost four starters via the foul route, plus some subs.

Cavazos Delights Gator Bowl Fans With Great Runs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Gator Bowl fans won't soon forget Texas Tech halfback Bobby Cavazos, an honest - to - goodness cowboy who runs with a football like a quarterhorse chasing a steer.

More than any other factor, the capers of Cavazos represented the difference between Texas Tech and Auburn in their New Year's Day clash. Coaches Dewitt Weaver of Tech and Ralph Jordan of Auburn agreed on that.

Tech was the favorite, but not even the staunchest Texas seriously figured the Red Raiders would whip Auburn by such a one-sided score as 35-13.

Cavazos, who branded calves during his Christmas holidays for his dad, a foreman on the famous King Ranch, put his name on three touchdowns yesterday — tying a Gator Bowl record.

He averaged almost 10.8 yards every time he ran the ball, collecting 141 yards in 13 carries. He thrilled the 32,000 fans with two sparkling displays of broken field running. He scampered 59 yards for one touchdown and started Tech on another with a 35-yard spring.

After the 35-yarder, he went on to score by snaring a 26-yard pass from Jack Kirkpatrick and hitting the line twice for four and five yards.

His 59-yard jaunt erased the record of 39 yards set by Leslie Palmer of N. C. State in the 1947 Gator Bowl.

But Cavazos wasn't the only Tech star. Vic Spooner, an end from Colquitt, Ga., blocked a Fob James punt, giving Cavazos a chance to score from the 15, which the elusive halfback did in two smashes. Spooner also scored once by recovering the ball in the end zone after teammate Don Lewis fumbled at the two.

And there was end Paul Erwin, who had to score his touchdown twice. With the ball at Auburn's 48; Erwin took a long pass from Kirkpatrick, faked the Auburn defenders completely out of position, and ran about 30 yards for what looked like a touchdown. But a Tech offside penalty moved the ball back to Tech's 47, and on the next play Kirkpatrick and Erwin teamed up again. Erwin once more fooled Auburn's deep men, and this time it counted.

Kirkpatrick set a record by making good five straight conversions.

Lewis Only Person Irked About Off-Bench-Tackle

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Cotton Bowl squads—Rice and Alabama—departed for their homes today but the memory of the tackle from the bench lived on and will be the thing that pinpoints the 1954 game in which Rice beat the Crimson Tide 28-6.

Tommy Lewis, the Alabama fullback who leaped onto the field and floored Dicky Moegle, Rice halfback off on a touchdown run, appeared to be worrying more about it than anybody.

He apologized to everybody, was told that it didn't matter—it was just the impulsive act of a college boy, and to forget it. The act didn't actually figure in the result of the game anyway.

The Dallas News had a front page editorial in which it said: "Texans know competitive spirit. We thrive on it. It might not be a bad idea to drop Tommy Lewis a line over at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and let him know he hasn't lost his last friend. He's quite a fighter—and we like them that way in Texas."

Coaches Ness Neely of Rice and Harold (Red) Drew of Alabama brushed it off and said it was best forgotten. The incident wasn't even mentioned last night at the awards dinner when it was announced that Alabama would take $85,000 home and Rice would get $75,000 from the $152,000 each received for playing in the Cotton Bowl. Each school pays a percentage back to its conference. They also pay their expenses from their "take."

The Alabama squad left by plane this morning an hour after the Rice squad entrained for Houston.

Howard Grubbs, secretary of the Cotton Bowl who departed tonight for Cincinnati to attend the N.C.A.A. Convention, observed: "Well, we got more publicity out of that than anything that might have happened."

A casualty of the game was Cotton Bowl President Otto Eisenlohr—he lost his voice yelling when Rice, his ala mater, won the contest and remained undefeated in bowl competition over the 16-year period it has been playing in the post-season games.

The twelfth man tackle isn't new to the southwest. It happened in a Baylor-Wake Forest game at Waco in 1952 but the one here is believed to be the first in a bowl game.

Ciesielski Due To Play Again At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 2 (AP)—The Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association announced today the purchase of catcher Larry Ciesielski from Buffalo.

Ciesielski was the first string receiver on Little Rock's 1951 pennant winner in the class AA Southern Association. He was promoted to Buffalo, a triple-A club, last spring but came back to the Travelers on option in June.

When Buffalo later took another catcher for an emergency replacement, Ciesielski quit for the season.

General Manager Ray Winder of the Travelers said he expects Ciesielski to resume playing next spring.

Oklahoma's Students Get Holiday For Win

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)— Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, today announced a holiday from classes for all students Monday in celebration of the Sooners' football victory over Maryland in the Orange Bowl.

Immediately after Oklahoma downed Maryland, 7-0, on New Year's Day, the "Ruff Neks," men's pep squad of the university, called upon Dr. Cross, who was here for the game, and suggested the holiday.

The university president later issued an executive order declaring Monday a holiday.

Dallas, Beaumont In 2-Man Baseball Swap

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Dallas traded Jim (Buzz) Clarkson, its hard-hitting third baseman, to Beaumont today for Ed Knoick, righthanded pitcher.

The trade, one of the first of the Texas League winter deals, was announced by Allen Russell, Beaumont owner, who came here to confer with Dallas club officials.

Clarkson hit .330 and slugged 18 home runs in the Dallas pennant drive last season. Knoick appeared in 35 games, pitched 13 complete games, finished 10, won 11 and lost 13 and had an earned run average of 3.87 with the last-place Beaumont club.

Sugar Bowl Foes To Collect Near $125,000 Apiece

March Of Dimes Richer To Tune Of $25,000 Cut

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Georgia Tech and West Virginia each will receive an estimated $125,000 for their parts in the 1954 Sugar Bowl football game with the March of Dimes Campaign already enriched by $25,000.

It will be approximately 10 days before the exact sums given the two universities will be determined but the March of Dimes received its contribution before Tech defeated the Mountaineers 42-19, in the biggest point making splurge in the 20 years of the bowl.

The Sugar Bowl organization contributed to the March of Dimes from the monies received for the TV and radio rights of the game. Except for the out-and-out charity, such as today's East-West encounter, it is believed that only the Sugar Bowl from among the New Year's grid shows shares its receipts with a charity.

There is a possibility the payoff to the two universities may go as high as $130,000. Only a few more than 70,000 of the 82,000 seats in Tulane Stadium were occupied during the game but Fred Digby, general manager of the Sugar Bowl, said his records show that more than 75,000 tickets were sold.

He said Georgia Tech returned 5,000 and West Virginia 4,500 tickets just prior to the game but that approximately half of these had been sold. The late flurry, however, made an accurate check difficult.

In a brief post-morten, both coaches agreed that it was Georgia Tech's speed and West Virginia's lack of it that made possible the heavy scoring. Art Lewis, coach of the Mountaineers, admitted he rigged up the eight-man line to stop Tech's end sweeps.

Tech's Pepper Rodgers passed over this arrangement for 233 yards in the first half before Lewis could change it.

During the second half, Tech was able to gain only 35 more yards via the air when the Mountaineers contracted their front wall and strengthened their secondary. That opened the door for the Engineers' famed end sweeps.

Georgia Tech's easy victory revived the furore over the selection of the Mountaineers. Hap Glaudi, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, suggested today in his column that the results be posted in the record book under the heading of the "Lemon Bowl."

It was the first time since World War II that reserved tickets were available to would-be spectators on the day of the game.

Paddy DeMarco Handed Victory In Dupas Match

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn jumped into higher lightweight title contention tonight by scoring a 10-round split decision over Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in a nationally televised match.

DeMarco, rated ninth among lightweights, weighed 138½. Dupas, the third ranking lightweight, weighed 139.

DeMarco finished strong in the late rounds to upset the flashy 18-year-old high school boy. Outsped in the fight's early rounds, DeMarco carried the fight to Dupas in the last three to earn the close decision.

Judge Francis Kercheval gave Dupas six rounds and DeMarco four. Judge Pete Giaruso gave DeMarco six and Dupas four. Referee Eddie (Kid) Wolfe gave DeMarco the verdict, five rounds to three with two even.

Dupas, starting his first regulation 10-round match, surprised fans by mixing it with the hard-punching DeMarco. He fought off DeMarco's rushes in the early rounds by beating the Brooklyn puncher at his own game in the infighting.

Dupas, rated one of the fastest men in his division, was clearly superior at long distance fighting and opened up cuts over DeMarco's nose and left eye in the first round.

Obviously bothered by the cuts, DeMarco was even more bewildered by early speed but he cut down Dupas's lead by rushing him into the ropes in the final three rounds in trying for a knockout.

DeMarco entered the ring a decided underdog. The approximately 8,000 fans paid a gross gate of about $18,000.

Pipe Of Peace Scores Victory

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2. (AP)—W. Hal Bishop's Pipe of Peace staved off a stretch drive by Stepchild to take a length and a half victory in the $5,000 Good Cheer Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds today.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann paced Pipe of Peace through the field of nine and took the lead at the turn to the wire. The winning time over the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:46 4-5.

Five lengths behind Stepchild in third place was Futuresque.

Pipe of Peace paid $14, $6 and $3.60. Stepchild returned $5 and $3.20, and Futuresque paid $3.

Bowl Aces Unite Talents For Senior Grid Contest

Curtis Brothers Meet Kelley, Mobley Tuesday

Jack and George Curtis, grappling favorites in allio's Arena, again team up in a tag team match Tuesday against Rex Mobley and "Irish Jack" Kelley. The feature is slated for a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Included on the program are two short preliminaries between rival team members, scheduled for ten minutes time limit, and requiring only one fall to win. Bill Barney is scheduled to referee.

The Curtis brothers, who fought their first bout in many months here last week before a near-capacity crowd, won two of three falls from veteran Jack "Stinger" Steele and his partner, Al Massey. This week, they will have an equally tough match with the veteran Mobley and old mat rival, "Irish Jack."

The sleepy - eyed villain, who lost a match to former tag partner Pat "Big Boy" Cronin, thereby forfeiting his southern wrestling privileges, remained out of this circuit for the duration of '53. Since this is a new year, Kelley is of the opinion that his suspension has ended, and desired another Monroe match. Since his previous opposition, the Curtis boys had just returned to the circuit, Promoter Kallio figured it was a very good time to permit Kelley's return.

His partner, former light - heavy champion Mobley, has always been a popular matman here, but has displayed occasional signs of villainy, such as when he slugged opponent Bill Barney on the ropes two weeks ago and refused to break a second later, with referee Lov Scarbrough promptly disqualifying him. He may deign to resort to illegal maneuvers against Jack and George Curtis, since his local popularity takes a back seat anyway when they're wrestling here.

The fight should be another crowd - pleaser, with favorites Jack and George again battling a formidable pair in scientific veteran Mobley and rough, tough villainous Kelley.

BACK AGAIN on Kallio's mat, is big "Irish Jack" Kelley, (above) who teams with Rex Mobley in a feature two-fall-to-win relay match against Jack and George Curtis Tuesday night.

Texas Loop Will Elect Successor To Alvin Gardner

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Texas League will meet here next Saturday to elect a new president and secretary and adopt a 161-game schedule.

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the league for 24 years, and Milton Price, secretary and also executive vice-president, have resigned to devote their time to private business.

All the eight clubs of the league prevailed on them to remain in office at least until the expiration of their contracts, which have two years to run, but they have indicated they will not reconsider.

"I am committed to continue with Mr. Gardner in our oil business and am happy to do it," Price said.

John Reeves, former president of the Fort Worth club; Howard Green, president of the Big State League, and Grayle Howlett, president of the Tulsa club, are most prominently mentioned among those likely to be named to the presidency. The secretary's post may not be filled.

Andre Registers Surprise Victory In Lee Handicap

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—River Divide Farm's Andre surprised a whooping crowd of 14,984 at Tropical Park today to win the $15,000-added Robert E. Lee Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth by three and one-half lengths.

Andre, who finished sixth in the Christmas Handicap, was razor-sharp today and whipped eight other speedy thoroughbreds in the richest race of the current meeting.

With apprentice Gene Martin, riding the five-year-old son of Pavot out of Miss Ferdinand, was away with the pack and was never worse than fourth. He ran the mile and a sixteenth in the good time of 1:44 1-5 over a fast track.

Andre carried 117 pounds and paid $18.50, $8.90 and $5.10. Marked Game, a Florida-bred, was second, paying $16 and $7 while Alerted finished third and paid $3.70 to show.

Count Cain was fourth and Elixir, the favorite at 2-1, got away to a bad start and beat only one horse.

Andre earned $12,100 of the gross purse of $17,500 for his owner, Robert J. Dienst of Columbus, Ohio.

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 2. (AP)—Some of the stars of the New Year's Day bowl games and the other yearend all-star contests will pool their football talents in the fifth annual Senior Bowl game here next Saturday.

In this grand windup to a topsy-turvy collegiate season, 47 performers on the North and South squads turn pro since they get cash along with glory for their afternoon activities.

Paul Brown and Steve Owen, who'll coach the opposing teams, already are on hand to greet their charges who'll fly in tomorrow from the various bowl sites.

For some of the bowl players it'll mean continuing their New Year's Day rivalry. But opposing Rose and Gator Bowl performers will line up on the same side for the All-Star contest here.

U. C. L. A. halfback Bill Stits, for instance, will play in the same backfield with Billy Wells, whose flying feet helped pump Michigan State to victory at Pasadena. Wells is bringing with him teammates Don Dohoney, All America end, and Center Jim Neal.

Five Gator Bowl players who bumped heads at Jacksonville, Fla. will work together on the South squad here. Bobby Cavazos, who scored three touchdowns in Texas Tech's 35-13 rout of Auburn, will bring along teammate Jim Williams, a tackle. From Auburn are coming three Mobile boys, backs Vince Dooley and Bobby Duke and center Ed Baker.

From the Orange Bowl are coming two members of the winning Oklahoma team — All-America guard J. D. Roberts and tackle Roger Nelson. Losing Maryland is sending fullback Ralph Felton and tackle Bob Morgan. Geography and sectional sentiment are giving way to squad balance in this one with the Oklahoma players being assigned to the South and the Maryland players going to the North.

Owen, outgoing coach of the professional New York Giants, will get four players from Alabama's Cotton Bowl team, including fullback Tommy Lewis, who staged that now famous off-the-bench tackle. Others are end Bud Willis, center Ralph Carrigan and tackle Billy Shipp.

No doubt Owen would also like to have Dickey Moegle, Rice's will o'the wisp halfback who ran Alabama ragged. But Moegle is only a junior and isn't eligible for this all senior contest.

It will also be a repeat lineup for West Virginia and Georgia Tech players who opposed each other in the Sugar Bowl. Tommy Allman, West Virginia fullback, will play with the North against Tech's fullback Glenn Turner and end Dave Davis.

Offsetting the strength Brown will draw from the East - West game, however, will be some top drawer talent Owen inherits from the winning South teams in Montgomery's Blue - Gray game and Miami's North - South contest played earlier. Among these are L. S. U.'s Jerry Marchand, Georgia's Zeke Bratkowski and Mississippi's Crawford Mims.

'We're No. One', Chants Sooners After Bowl Win

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—With the crowd scattered and the music stilled, Maryland and Oklahoma football teams had a day to themselves today for swimming, shopping, visiting — and second guessing Oklahoma's 7-0 victory in yesterday's Orange Bowl game.

"We lost, but we think we played a good game," was the word heard around the Maryland camp, and no one questioned it. A sports writer commented "they took their whipping like men."

The Terps bemoaned the injury which deprived them of their sparkplug, Bernie Faloney, who played briefly in the third quarter against Oklahoma. It would have been different with Faloney, they said.

Oklahomans were jubilant. Not only had they stopped Maryland one foot from the goal line in the first period and again at the six yard line in the second, but they took the ball 80 yards in the second to a touchdown. Halfback Larry Grigg covered the last 25 yards to score.

The Sooners, ranktd fourth in the Associated Press poll , chanted "we're No. 1 now" as they discussed the victory over Maryland, which was given first place in the poll. The westerners held up a single finger to emphasize their claim to the national football crown.

It was the first time in 51 games that Maryland had been blanked. The last time was in 1948 when Vanderbilt won 34-0. Oklahoma last drew a zero in 1945 when Oklahoma A. and M. won 47-0. That was 85 games back, counting the Orange Bowl.

The Marylanders took time out from after - the - game relaxation to elect co-captains for the next football season. They chose John Irvine, 21, first string center from Evans City, Pa., and Dick Bielski, 20, their No. 2 fullback from Baltimore for the honor.

Haggerty Steps Down As Coach Of Loyola Quint

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 —UP— Tom Haggerty, basketball coach at Loyola University since 1950, has left his coaching job because of ill health, Father Donnelly, president of Loyola, announced Saturday.

Haggerty notified Loyola officials Friday that his "health condition has been getting progressively worse during the past six months" and necessitated his leaving the city for immediate hospitalization.

He was expected to enter Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington. D.C.

Track Coach Jim McCafferty has been appointed temporarily to take Haggerty's place, Father Donnelly said. The new coach was former assistant coach under Jack Orsley and Haggerty until last year.

Haggerty compiled a record of 56 victories against 40 defeats while at Loyola. His current team has won seven games and been beaten only once.

Father Donnelly said that when Haggerty left the armed services at the end of the war he was granted full disability.

He was forced to step down from his coaching job because of the recurrence of a physical ailment that hospitalized him for months while in the service.

Solons Give 4-For-2 In Chattanooga Deal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Washington today traded three pitchers, a first baseman and an outfielder for two Cubans of the Senators' Chattanooga farm club.

Calvin Griffith, executive vice president of the Washington team, announced he was sending to Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association pitchers Julimo Moreno, James Pearce and Zeke Zeisz, first baseman Roy Hawes and outfielder Glen Varner.

In return, the Senators will get Julio Becquer and Juan Delis.

Lion Cagers Take Two From Rayville Hornets

By TED HECKATHORN

The Ouachita High cage teams swept a twin-bill from Rayville High here last night, with the home five winning, 53-39; and the Lion lassies, 44-23.

Larry Barnes, Ouachita Coach Herbert Holliman's veteran ace, was the difference in the boys' tussle, sinking 13 field goals and six free throws for a total of 32 points. The Lion forward was held to only 12 markers in the first half, which ended with Ouachita leading, 20-17.

But the second half was all Barnes, as the flashy maroon-clad forward began to connect from all angles, dropping in 11 points in the third, and nine more in the fourth to lead the Lions in their 33-22 second half scoring.

Doyle Holstead, big Ouachita center, controlled both boards all evening and played a whiz of a game defensively, sinking four goals for eight points and second high score for the winners.

Alvin Thomas paced the Hornets' floor attack, scoring 13 points to become second high scorer for the tilt. All of his 13 came in the first half, as he was bottled up completely by the Lion defense in his playing portion of the second.

Charles Moore easily was the best defenseman for the invaders, although he saw no action until the final period.

Rayville never led, although they tied Ouachita 11-11 at the end of the first, 15-15 midway in the second, and were only trailing by three points at halftime. Their chief obstacle in the second half was their consistent missing of most shots—some easy attempts.

In the girls game, the Ouachita sextette led all the way, despite a slow start. It was only after six minutes of the first quarter had expired that the winners finally sank a field goal, a layup by Charlotte Brown, playing forward during the first half, and at her accustomed guard slot in the second.

Sharpshooting Rhetha Norman, with her deadly hook shots, led the Lion girls and took high-scoring honors for the game, with 22, although she didn't get in until the second quarter. Sinking five consecutive net swishers in that period, her only weakness seemed to be that one of her shots touched the hoop before falling through.

Miss Brown and Cathy Kleinschmit were ball-hawink defensive stalwarts for the winners; while Carol Downes was the outstanding guard for Rayville, whose leading point - makers were Patsy Adcock, with eight, and Joann Sorey, with seven.

Sugar Bowl Foes To Collect Near $125,000 Apiece

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Georgia Tech and West Virginia each will receive an estimated $125,000 for their parts in the 1954 Sugar Bowl football game with the March of Dimes Campaign already enriched by $25,000.

It will be approximately 10 days before the exact sums given the two universities will be determined but the March of Dimes received its contribution before Tech defeated the Mountaineers 42-19, in the biggest point making splurge in the 20 years of the bowl.

The Sugar Bowl organization contributed to the March of Dimes from the monies received for the TV and radio rights of the game. Except for the out-and-out charity, such as today's East-West encounter, it is believed that only the Sugar Bowl from among the New Year's grid shows shares its receipts with a charity.

There is a possibility the payoff to the two universities may go as high as $130,000. Only a few more than 70,000 of the 82,000 seats in Tulane Stadium were occupied during the game but Fred Digby, general manager of the Sugar Bowl, said his records show that more than 75,000 tickets were sold.

He said Georgia Tech returned 5,000 and West Virginia 4,500 tickets just prior to the game but that approximately half of these had been sold. The late flurry, however, made an accurate check difficult.

In a brief post-morten, both coaches agreed that it was Georgia Tech's speed and West Virginia's lack of it that made possible the heavy scoring. Art Lewis, coach of the Mountaineers, admitted he rigged up the eight-man line to stop Tech's end sweeps.

Tech's Pepper Rodgers passed over this arrangement for 233 yards in the first half before Lewis could change it.

During the second half, Tech was able to gain only 35 more yards via the air when the Mountaineers contracted their front wall and strengthened their secondary. That opened the door for the Engineers' famed end sweeps.

Georgia Tech's easy victory revived the furore over the selection of the Mountaineers. Hap Glaudi, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, suggested today in his column that the results be posted in the record book under the heading of the "Lemon Bowl."

It was the first time since World War II that reserved tickets were available to would-be spectators on the day of the game.

Paddy DeMarco Handed Victory In Dupas Match

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn jumped into higher lightweight title contention tonight by scoring a 10-round split decision over Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in a nationally televised match.

DeMarco, rated ninth among lightweights, weighed 138½. Dupas, the third ranking lightweight, weighed 139.

DeMarco finished strong in the late rounds to upset the flashy 18-year-old high school boy. Outsped in the fight's early rounds, DeMarco carried the fight to Dupas in the last three to earn the close decision.

Judge Francis Kercheval gave Dupas six rounds and DeMarco four. Judge Pete Giaruso gave DeMarco six and Dupas four. Referee Eddie (Kid) Wolfe gave DeMarco the verdict, five rounds to three with two even.

Dupas, rated one of the fastest men in his division, was clearly superior at long distance fighting and opened up cuts over DeMarco's nose and left eye in the first round.

Obviously bothered by the cuts, DeMarco was even more bewildered by early speed but he cut down Dupas's lead by rushing him into the ropes in the final three rounds in trying for a knockout.

DeMarco entered the ring a decided underdog. The approximately 8,000 fans paid a gross gate of about $18,000.

Pipe Of Peace Scores Victory

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2. (AP)—W. Hal Bishop's Pipe of Peace staved off a stretch drive by Stepchild to take a length and a half victory in the $5,000 Good Cheer Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds today.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann paced Pipe of Peace through the field of nine and took the lead at the turn to the wire. The winning time over the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:46 4-5.

Five lengths behind Stepchild in third place was Futuresque.

Pipe of Peace paid $14, $6 and $3.60. Stepchild returned $5 and $3.20, and Futuresque paid $3.

Bowl Aces Unite Talents For Senior Grid Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 2. (AP)—Some of the stars of the New Year's Day bowl games and the other yearend all-star contests will pool their football talents in the fifth annual Senior Bowl game here next Saturday.

In this grand windup to a topsy-turvy collegiate season, 47 performers on the North and South squads turn pro since they get cash along with glory for their afternoon activities.

Paul Brown and Steve Owen, who'll coach the opposing teams, already are on hand to greet their charges who'll fly in tomorrow from the various bowl sites.

For some of the bowl players it'll mean continuing their New Year's Day rivalry. But opposing Rose and Gator Bowl performers will line up on the same side for the All-Star contest here.

U. C. L. A. halfback Bill Stits, for instance, will play in the same backfield with Billy Wells, whose flying feet helped pump Michigan State to victory at Pasadena. Wells is bringing with him teammates Don Dohoney, All America end, and Center Jim Neal.

Five Gator Bowl players who bumped heads at Jacksonville, Fla. will work together on the South squad here. Bobby Cavazos, who scored three touchdowns in Texas Tech's 35-13 rout of Auburn, will bring along teammate Jim Williams, a tackle. From Auburn are coming three Mobile boys, backs Vince Dooley and Bobby Duke and center Ed Baker.

From the Orange Bowl are coming two members of the winning Oklahoma team — All-America guard J. D. Roberts and tackle Roger Nelson. Losing Maryland is sending fullback Ralph Felton and tackle Bob Morgan. Geography and sectional sentiment are giving way to squad balance in this one with the Oklahoma players being assigned to the South and the Maryland players going to the North.

Owen, outgoing coach of the professional New York Giants, will get four players from Alabama's Cotton Bowl team, including fullback Tommy Lewis, who staged that now famous off-the-bench tackle. Others are end Bud Willis, center Ralph Carrigan and tackle Billy Shipp.

No doubt Owen would also like to have Dickey Moegle, Rice's will o'the wisp halfback who ran Alabama ragged. But Moegle is only a junior and isn't eligible for this all senior contest.

It will also be a repeat lineup for West Virginia and Georgia Tech players who opposed each other in the Sugar Bowl. Tommy Allman, West Virginia fullback, will play with the North against Tech's fullback Glenn Turner and end Dave Davis.

Offsetting the strength Brown will draw from the East - West game, however, will be some top drawer talent Owen inherits from the winning South teams in Montgomery's Blue - Gray game and Miami's North - South contest played earlier. Among these are L. S. U.'s Jerry Marchand, Georgia's Zeke Bratkowski and Mississippi's Crawford Mims.

Curtis Brothers Meet Kelley, Mobley Tuesday

Jack and George Curtis, grappling favorites in allio's Arena, again team up in a tag team match Tuesday against Rex Mobley and "Irish Jack" Kelley. The feature is slated for a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Included on the program are two short preliminaries between rival team members, scheduled for ten minutes time limit, and requiring only one fall to win. Bill Barney is scheduled to referee.

The Curtis brothers, who fought their first bout in many months here last week before a near-capacity crowd, won two of three falls from veteran Jack "Stinger" Steele and his partner, Al Massey. This week, they will have an equally tough match with the veteran Mobley and old mat rival, "Irish Jack."

The sleepy - eyed villain, who lost a match to former tag partner Pat "Big Boy" Cronin, thereby forfeiting his southern wrestling privileges, remained out of this circuit for the duration of '53. Since this is a new year, Kelley is of the opinion that his suspension has ended, and desired another Monroe match. Since his previous opposition, the Curtis boys had just returned to the circuit, Promoter Kallio figured it was a very good time to permit Kelley's return.

His partner, former light - heavy champion Mobley, has always been a popular matman here, but has displayed occasional signs of villainy, such as when he slugged opponent Bill Barney on the ropes two weeks ago and refused to break a second later, with referee Loy Scarbrough promptly disqualifying him. He may deign to resort to illegal maneuvers against Jack and George Curtis, since his local popularity takes a back seat anyway when they're wrestling here.

The fight should be another crowd - pleaser, with favorites Jack and George again battling a formidable pair in scientific veteran Mobley and rough, tough villainous Kelley.

BACK AGAIN on Kallio's mat, is big "Irish Jack" Kelley, (above) who teams with Rex Mobley in a feature two-fall-to-win relay match against Jack and George Curtis Tuesday night.

Texas Loop Will Elect Successor To Alvin Gardner

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Texas League will meet here next Saturday to elect a new president and secretary and adopt a 161-game schedule.

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the league for 24 years, and Milton Price, secretary and also executive vice-president, have resigned to devote their time to private business.

All the eight clubs of the league prevailed on them to remain in office at least until the expiration of their contracts, which have two years to run, but they have indicated they will not reconsider.

"I am committed to continue with Mr. Gardner in our oil business and am happy to do it," Price said.

John Reeves, former president of the Fort Worth club; Howard Green, president of the Big State League, and Grayle Howlett, president of the Tulsa club, are most prominently mentioned among those likely to be named to the presidency. The secretary's post may not be filled.

Andre Registers Surprise Victory In Lee Handicap

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—River Divide Farm's Andre surprised a whooping crowd of 14,984 at Tropical Park today to win the $15,000-added Robert E. Lee Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth by three and one-half lengths.

Andre, who finished sixth in the Christmas Handicap, was razor-sharp today and whipped eight other speedy thoroughbreds in the richest race of the current meeting.

With apprentice Gene Martin, riding the five-year-old son of Pavot out of Miss Ferdinand, was away with the pack and was never worse than fourth. He ran the mile and a sixteenth in the good time of 1:44 1-5 over a fast track.

Andre carried 117 pounds and paid $18.50, $8.90 and $5.10. Marked Game, a Florida-bred, was second, paying $16 and $7 while Alerted finished third and paid $3.70 to show.

Count Cain was fourth and Elixir, the favorite at 2-1, got away to a bad start and beat only one horse.

'We're No. One', Chants Sooners After Bowl Win

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—With the crowd scattered and the music stilled, Maryland and Oklahoma football teams had a day to themselves today for swimming, shopping, visiting — and second guessing Oklahoma's 7-0 victory in yesterday's Orange Bowl game.

"We lost, but we think we played a good game," was the word heard around the Maryland camp, and no one questioned it. A sports writer commented "they took their whipping like men."

The Terps bemoaned the injury which deprived them of their sparkplug, Bernie Faloney, who played briefly in the third quarter against Oklahoma. It would have been different with Faloney, they said.

Oklahomans were jubilant. Not only had they stopped Maryland one foot from the goal line in the first period and again at the six yard line in the second, but they took the ball 80 yards in the second to a touchdown. Halfback Larry Grigg covered the last 25 yards to score.

The Sooners, ranktd fourth in the Associated Press poll, chanted "we're No. 1 now" as they discussed the victory over Maryland, which was given first place in the poll. The westerners held up a single finger to emphasize their claim to the national football crown.

It was the first time in 51 games that Maryland had been blanked. The last time was in 1948 when Vanderbilt won 34-0. Oklahoma last drew a zero in 1945 when Oklahoma A. and M. won, 47-0. That was 85 games back, counting the Orange Bowl.

The Marylanders took time out from after - the - game relaxation to elect co-captains for the next football season. They chose John Irvine, 21, first string center from Evans City, Pa., and Dick Bielski, 20, their No. 2 fullback from Baltimore for the honor.

Haggerty Steps Down As Coach Of Loyola Quint

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 —UP— Tom Haggerty, basketball coach at Loyola University since 1950, has left his coaching job because of ill health, Father Donnelly, president of Loyola, announced Saturday.

Haggerty notified Loyola officials Friday that his "health condition has been getting progressively worse during the past six months" and necessitated his leaving the city for immediate hospitalization.

He was expected to enter Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington, D.C.

Track Coach Jim McCafferty has been appointed temporarily to take Haggerty's place, Father Donnelly said. The new coach was former assistant coach under Jack Orsley and Haggerty until last year.

Haggerty compiled a record of 56 victories against 40 defeats while at Loyola. His current team has won seven games and been beaten only once.

Father Donnelly said that when Haggerty left the armed services at the end of the war he was granted full disability.

He was forced to step down from his coaching job because of the recurrence of a physical ailment that hospitalized him for months while in the service.

Lion Cagers Take Two From Rayville Hornets

By TED HECKATHORN

The Ouachita High cage teams swept a twin-bill from Rayville High here last night, with the home five winning, 53-39; and the Lion lassies, 44-23.

Larry Barnes, Ouachita Coach Herbert Holliman's veteran ace, was the difference in the boys' tussle, sinking 13 field goals and six free throws for a total of 32 points. The Lion forward was held to only 12 markers in the first half, which ended with Ouachita leading, 20-17.

But the second half was all Barnes, as the flashy maroon-clad forward began to connect from all angles, dropping in 11 points in the third, and nine more in the fourth to lead the Lions in their 33-22 second half scoring.

Doyle Holstead, big Ouachita center, controlled both boards all evening and played a whiz of a game defensively, sinking four goals for eight points and second high score for the winners.

Alvin Thomas paced the Hornets' floor attack, scoring 13 points to become second high scorer for the tilt. All of his 13 came in the first half, as he was bottled up completely by the Lion defense in his playing portion of the second.

Charles Moore easily was the best defenseman for the invaders, although he saw no action until the final period.

Rayville never led, although they tied Ouachita 11-11 at the end of the first, 15-15 midway in the second, and were only trailing by three points at halftime. Their chief obstacle in the second half was their consistent missing of most shots—some easy attempts.

In the girls game, the Ouachita sextette led all the way, despite a slow start. It was only after six minutes of the first quarter had expired that the winners finally sank a field goal, a layup by Charlotte Brown, playing forward during the first half, and at her accustomed guard slot in the second.

Sharpshooting Rhetha Norman, with her deadly hook shots, led the Lion girls and took high-scoring honors for the game, with 22, although she didn't get in until the second quarter. Sinking five consecutive net swishers in that period, her only weakness seemed to be that one of her shots touched the hoop before falling through.

Miss Brown and Cathy Kleinschmit were ball-hawink defensive stalwarts for the winners; while Carol Downes was the outstanding guard for Rayville, whose leading point - makers were Patsy Adcock, with eight, and Joann Sorey, with seven.

Cotton Futures Prices Gain In Uneven Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The cotton futures market plodded an uneven course this week.

Prices went up, down, and up again in the uneventful dealings, and finished out the holiday-shortened session with net gains all along the line. Futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange posted net advances ranging from 55 cents to $1.50 a bale.

Traders tended to mark time, prior to the reconvening of Congress. Bulls got some encouragement from reports that the Washington administration has given up the idea of a two-price system—one for cotton purchased in this country and a lower price level for U. S. cotton purchased abroad. Mill interests had strenuously objected to the plan as discriminating in favor of foreign textile operators. Bullish sentiment also derived support from indications that the export situation may take a turn for the better soon.

Traders took in stride the mid-December parity price announced during the week by the Department of Agriculture. The price—34.35 cents a pound—was pretty much what the trade had expected.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau said that if the mid January price is the same as the mid December figure, a guaranteed minimum average loan rate of 30.92 cents a pound would be in prospect on seven-eighths inch middling 1954 crop cotton.

Estimated exports of lint cotton in the week ended Dec. 26 dropped rather sharply from the previous week but were only moderately smaller than in the same week last year. They approximated 50,000 bales vs 92,000 a week ago and 58,000 a year ago. Exports for the current season through Dec. 26 are estimated at 1,110,000 bales compared with 1,413,000 at the same time last year.

Oil Workers Union May Ask For 36-Hour Week If Layoffs Continue

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—UP—The oil workers international union may ask for a share-the-work, 36-hour week if layoffs in the petroleum industry become general.

Union President O. A. Knight, in a statement to the United Press Saturday from his Denver headquarters, said:

"Thus far industry layoffs have been limited in extent and area, but, if reductions in force by oil companies become general we plan to ask for a shorter work week so as to spread the available unemployment among as many men as possible."

A union spokesman, quoting the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said that at least 4,000 oil field and refinery workers have been laid off since the industry's acute over-supply situation developed last fall.

He said this figure probably is "conservative" because the government's figures are based only on reports from 145 companies, most of them large operators. He said this tends to leave out small producers and refineries "where the layoff reduction is most conspicuous."

Principal layoff areas are Kansas, Oklahoma and inland Texas. There also have been some in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. But the union's chief concern is the closing down of small refineries, while large ones expand, causing dislocation of workers.

In addition, the spokesman said, some companies are hiring contractors who use casual day-to-day workers. Still another factor is technological advances which don't allow for expansion of employment in keeping with expansion in production.

Knight's statement came in the wake of an industry warning by Continental Oil Co., that the nation's refiners and importers should take "prompt action" to help correct the over-supply situation which is described as recurrent.

"Self-imposed restraints on the part of both refinery operators and companies importing crude oil are the key to the problem," it said.

Conoco, nevertheless, foresaw a growing demand for oil products. So did President Eugene Holman of Standard Oil (of New Jersey) who predicted a 4 per cent rise in consumption over 1953.

But Holman also saw some soft spots which will mean "even more intense competition" calling for better products, more research, better marketing, more business efficiency and old-fashioned hit-'em hard salesmanship.

The OWIU's if-and-when course was charged earlier this month at a meeting in New York of the National Coalition of Oil Unions, over which Knight presided.

The coalition adopted a collective bargaining program for the coming months with these basic objectives:

1. Elimination of the contracting out of work normally done by employes represented by oil unions.

2. Start of an immediate 36-hour week in layoff areas and standby clauses for a 36-hour week in other areas where they may be layoffs.

3. The end, where ever possible, of overtime work to further spread employment.

4. More pension improvements to bring about retirement at an earlier age and increase pensions.

5. Increases in basic wages high enough to maintain present living standards and to compensate for added productivity of workers.

Tidelands Issue Again Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (Special)—The United States Supreme Court which has twice before wrestled with the tidelands issue before ruling for the federal government is again studying the question, though under somewhat different circumstances.

Nevertheless, the high tribunal may issue a ruling soon that could slow - up renewed off-shore oil developments in the Gulf of Mexico and conceivably reopen for years the long fight between the states of Texas, Louisiana and California and the federal government over control and ownership of the submerged lands off their coasts out to historic boundaries.

Before the court today are suits filed by both the states of Alabama and Rhode Island challenging the validity of the act of Congress earlier this year which, in effect, overruled the previous decisions of the Supreme Court giving the federal government paramount rights over the off-shore lands, and asserting that title to these lands out to historic boundaries is in the states adjoining them.

The Supreme Court can, if it so desires, refuse to consider these petitions and may do so soon after the 1954 session opens January 4. If so, the legal and legislative battle over control and ownership of the tidelands would finally end. It is considered extremely doubtful that any other state would challenge the tidelands act before the high court if it ruled against consideration of the Alabama and Rhode Island suits. Likewise, the Arkansas suit along similar lines, but filed with the federal district court here, though potentially subject to eventual appeal to the Supreme Court, would probably meet the same fate when it reached the Supreme Court, made up of essentially the same membership.

Should the Supreme Court, however, decide to hear arguments and rule upon either the Alabama or Rhode Island suits, it would almost certainly mean a slow-down in oil development activities in the Gulf of Mexico, which have been renewed since May 22, when Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the states' tidelands bill approved by Congress.

Such a decision by the high tribunal would not necessarily mean that later it would rule that the tidelands act is unconstitutional. But it would certainly impose another legal cloud over the leases which have been issued for development and drilling in the off-shore lands, and would probably mean an interruption in the new operations. The interruption could last for many months, for if the court decided to hear arguments on the suits and render a new decision, it is likely that the decision could not possibly be handed down before early summer, just before the Court recesses, or even next fall.

Should the Supreme Court consider the suits and finally rule that the act of May 22 was invalid and the Congress had no right to grant full title to the off-shore lands to the respective states, it would probably mean an abrupt end to all operations in the Gulf.

It is questionable whether Congress would even again accept such a decision as final, but the oil companies as holding states leases in the Gulf and off the shore of California, would almost certainly follow the action they took when the previous decisions of the Court were handed down and halt all drilling and other development activities.

This halt in operations would probably extend through the long period, based upon past experience, that Congress would require to find another method of asserting state ownership to these submerged lands.

Many legal experts, after studying the decisions of the high tribunal in the Texas, Louisiana and particularly the California cases, believe that the court in effect declared that if Congress desired, it had the authority to grant full title to these lands to the respective states. If the nine jusices of the court still feel the same way, they will probably turn down the suits.

But lawyers, members of Congress and other observers of the decisions of the Supreme Court throughout its history, admit that one of life's greatest hazards is to try to predict what the court will do in any particlar case or petition.

Pope Urges TV To Avoid Evils Of Movie Shows

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII warned television today not to send into the home the picture of "pleasure, passion and evil" he said too often appears on the movie screen.

He called television "both a precious and dangerous instrument because of the deep reaction it is destined to exert" on public and private life.

The pontiff made the observations in a statement to Italian Roman Catholic bishops on the eve of the first regular broadcasts by Italy's government-controlled television network. Programs will go on the air tomorrow from Milan, Rome and Turin.

Experimental broadcasts have been made irregularly for two years. There are estimated to be only about 15,000 TV sets in the country.

"We recognize fully this new conquest of science," the Pope said. "It is not difficult to understand the innumerable advantages of television and the many services it can provide man for his perfection." He added:

"In these days the cinema, sports and the hard necessities of daily work tend to keep family members away from home more and more of the time and to upset the natural development of family life. Television can serve to bring the family together again in the home and to keep them from the dangers of undesirable companions and unhealthy places."

The pontiff said television also could exert a "beneficial influence in relation to the culture and popular education of the people" and for spreading religious teachings. But he went on:

"This must not make us blind to another aspect of this important and delicate subject.

"If it is true that television, well regulated, constitutes a means of spreading Christian education, it is also not without dangers because of the abuses and profanities for which it can be used.

"Unlike the theater and the cinema, whose audiences are limited to those who wish to attend, television comes into the home and is seen by persons of all ages and both sexes and with different cultural and moral backgrounds. Television programs are, in the most part, made up of films and theatrical spectacles and the number that fully satisfy Christian morality is still too small."

Proposed Hikes In Postal Rates Meet Opposition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Administration demands for a quarter billion dollar increase in postal rates may produce the first explosive reaction in the highly-charged session of the Congress opening Wednesday.

The House Postoffice Committee, after much heel-dragging and wrangling, broke off public hearings on Postmaster General Summerfield's requests in the closing days of last session.

In a rebuff to Summerfield, the rate matter was laid over until this session with the general understanding that it would be the committee's first order of business when Congress reconvenes.

The initial blow-off may come when Chairman Rees (R-Kan) summons his committee into closed-door session to deal with the rate bill in accordance with the understanding reached last July.

It is no secret that a sizeable number of members, Republicans and Democrats alike, would like to ditch the bill or at least scale it down.

Opinions expressed privately by House members returning to Washington seemed to minimize the chances of any large-scale rate increase soon.

There appeared little likelihood the House Postoffice Committee—or the House itself, for that matter—will readily accede to Summerfield's request to raise the cost of mailing a first class letter from three to four cents.

There was some possibility, however, the committee might approve small or moderate increases in second class charges for newspapers, magazines and other publications. The third and final 10 per cent increase of a cumulative three-year 30 per cent hike previously voted on this class of mail goes into effect this year. Many members feel that's enough.

Most probable source of additional revenue for the postoffice department is from increases on third class mailing rates, which apply principally to advertising and other forms of business mail.

Complicating controversy are proposals to raise the pay of postal and other government workers.

Thirteen pay raises bills have been introduced, ranging from a $400-a-year across-the-board increase by Rep. St. George (R-NY) to an $1,100-a-year bill by Rep. Klein (D-NY). The St. George bill would add nearly one billion dollars a year to the federal payroll, and Klein's bill proportionately more.

Rep. Gubser (R-Calif) also has announced that if a postal rate increase is approved, he will seek to tie to it a pay raise for postal workers.

With the postoffice department operating at a 600 million dollar a year deficit, Summerfield has asked increases on every type of postal service except parcel post to bring in an estimated $240,625,000 in added revenue.

He has succeeded, meanwhile, in cutting the department's bookkeeping losses by charging up air mail and other "subsidy" costs to other government agencies, and has added direct revenues expected to equal 100 million dollars a year through higher parcel post charges.

Big Parish Delegation Expected At Alexandria Cotton Session Monday

A strong Ouachita Parish representation is expected at the Louisiana Farm Bureau-sponsored meeting of state cotton growers opening 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Bentley Hotel in Alexandria.

The meeting, called for the purpose of clarifying the cotton acreage allocation program, and getting 'growers' views on needs for changes in existing laws, is open to all state farmers. However, emphasis has been placed on the attendance of cotton growers regardless of whether or not they are affiliated with the Farm Bureau.

Heading one of the delegations from Ouachita Parish will be John Filhoil, president of the Parish Farm Bureau Unit, and its secretary, Paul Ransom.

Assistant Ouachita Parish county agent, W. B. Aycock, Jr., said Saturday that he had been contacting growers in this area urging their attendance. He expressed belief that the turnout from here would be good, although he said that it would be difficult to estimate the number of persons.

From neighboring Richland Parish, one of the delegations will be headed by James Parrish, who heads that parish's Farm Bureau Unit. Parrish attended the recent belt-wide meeting on cotton problefs at Fort Worth, and will assist in presenting at the Monday meeting some of the recommendations prepared there.

L. L. Lovell of Rapides Parish who attended a recent cotton meeting in Chicago, will also be present at the Alexandria meeting.

Parrish stated recently that if Congress will accept proposals prepared by the Farm Bureau, Louisiana will gain from 100,000 to 120,000 extra acres of cotton.

Among the recommendations prepared at the Fort Worth Farm Bureau meeting, which will be presented for growers' consideration at the Alexandria session, are these:

Increase in national cotton acreage allotment by prorating an additional 3,089,552 acres (the difference between the announced allotment of 17,910,448 acres and 21,000,000 acres) to the states on the basis of the present law, and then adding on acreage for further adjustments in state allotments as follows:

(a) 157,500 acres to be used for increasing acreages allotted to Arizona, California, and New Mexico in proportion to the base acreages determined by the U.S.D.A. for the distribution of allotments to these states under the present law.

(b) 157,000 acres to be used for increasing the acreages allotted to the cotton states east of New Mexico according to the needs of these states for additional acreages to adjust individual farm allotments for hardship on the basis set forth below.

(c) The acreage necessary to insure that no state is cut more than 34 per cent from its 1952 planted acreage...

The recommendations contain a number of other points aimed at easing problems faced by growers as a result of cotton acreage allocations.

Negro Home Burns, Owner Is Injured

A West Monroe Negro suffered burns when his house, located on Benson Street, was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. Another house, next door, was also burned before firemen were able to get to the scene.

The Negro, Rufus Rockermore was taken to Charity Hospital, where he was given emergency treatment and released.

The West Monroe Fire Department received a call to 413 and 415 Benson Street at 5:55 a.m. Saturday. Upon arrival, the firemen discovered the houses were enveloped in flames. Attempts to save either of the buildings were futile.

Farmerville Man Arrested In Hit, Run Case

A Farmerville man was being held in the Monroe City jail in lieu of a $1,000 bond after being charged with hit and run and careless and reckless driving and causing an accident which injured a Monroe Negro minister.

The man, Emory Chapman, 43, Route 2, Farmerville, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs W. H. Bell and W. E. Wilhite and Patrolman Ocie D. Howard of the Monroe police department. The arrest was made in a West Monroe tavern.

Chapman is charged with being the driver of an automobile which rammed into the rear end of another vehicle in the 2500 block of Louisville Avenue. The accident occurred around 7 p.m. according to a police report.

Injured were Rev. Joseph Newman, 213 Cedar Street, and his wife. Rev. Newman suffered a bruised head, chest and right leg, while his wife was bruised about the body.

The accident occurred when Rev. Newman's automobile, a 1950 Cadillac, was going west on Louisville. Chapman is charged with being the driver of a 1953 Ford which smashed into the rear of the Cadillac.

BLANCH FOOD FOR FREEZING

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (U.P.)—Foods specialist Frances Cook warns that vegetables must be blanched or scalded before freezing. Otherwise, the color, texture and flavor may change after a few months storage. Miss Cook, with the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, suggested placing the vegetables in a fine mesh basket which can be dipped into a boiling kettle. Overblanching, however, is just as damaging as failing to blanch.

METHODICAL THEFT

SALEM, Ore. (U.P.)—A prowler with an obvious bent for the mechanical stole into the garage of Robert Gill here, carefully hung "blackout" paper and cloth curtains over the garage windows, lifted the hood and removed from Gill's new 1953 ranch wagon: the radiator, generator, carburetor, fuel pump, voltage regulator and distributor.

Parish-Wide Stock Law To Be Enforced

Plans for the enforcement of a parishwide stock law, passed by the Ouachita Parish police jury earlier this year, are being formulated by the sheriff department, Sheriff Bailey Grant stated Saturday morning. The law, center of a bitter controversy among police jurors, formally went into effect Friday, January 1.

Just how the enforcement of the law would be handled was not made public, but indications pointed to some sort of pound, where animals would be placed.

The Louisiana state police at present operates a truck which circulates around the state picking up horses from certain areas. All animals thus taken are placed in a special pasture, near West Monroe, where they are kept for a limited time. After that a sale is held when all are disposed of. Should the owner of the animals desire to get the animals back, he can do so by paying $10 plus $1 per day the animal is held.

It is expected that the sheriff department may undertake a similar method of ridding the roads of stock, although Sheriff Grant has made no committment. However, as expressed by the police jury in its official action in passing the ordinance, the department must keep the roads clear of all stock.

An old - fashioned music fest was put on for the benefit of the West Monroe Lions Club last week, when they sang out the old year and gave hearty welcome to incoming 1954.

Lion Gene Williams informed the members that he has secured a real live, noisy and tin-can hungry goat, which will be boarded out on absentees from the club.

It will be presented this week to Absentee Delma Carter and no telling who will get it next time it is passed out.

S. E. Holloway, Jr., general chairman for the 1954 March of Dimes campaign, has divided the work up in nine divisions, staffed by capable committees.

We are pleased to see that Capt. Roger C. White Jr., recently returned prisoner of war, will be chairman of the business gifts division. We look to see a first class job completed by this well known and popular young man.

Everyone is asked to give more than ever in 1954 for there are now reported and on record 66,000 cases throughout the nation and the need is unusually great this year.

Our congratulations to the first baby of 1954. We are sure that little Lenelda Jordan will prove the delight of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loule Jordan, for she has a wonderful start over all the rest that are to come.

William Noland Benoit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baron Benoit, tried to beat out competition but he arrived just 15 minutes later than did Lenelda.

Another birth of interest happened just too soon to capture a prize. It was Kathleen Holmes, born December 27 at St. Francis. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zell Smith, Jr., 207 Loop road.

Sheriff's Office Sends Annual Report To F. B. I.

An annual report of activities of the Ouachita parish sheriff department indicates that the local law enforcement agency is far above the national average in solving crimes committed within its jurisdiction. The report, which is made up by Warren Sievers, identification officer, is given Sheriff Bailey Grant, who in turn forwards it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

While the report shows the list of major crimes committed in Ouachita parish and the per cent of these crimes solved by arrest during the year 1953, it does not include crimes committed in either the City of Monroe or the West Monroe city limits.

Solved completely were all cases of murder, manslaughter, negligent homicide, aggravated assault and battery and auto theft. Other crimes and the percentage of them solved are: rape, 90 per cent; robbery 50 per cent; burglary, 72 per cent, theft (over $50 in value) 42 per cent; and theft (under $50 in value) 49 per cent.

According to national standards, compiled by the FBI, the average is 42 per cent of all crimes. The Ouachita parish sheriff department reports indicated the average for the past year was slightly over 66 per cent, which is believed to be one of the highest in the South if not the entire nation.

Also reflecting favorably on the local department is the 72 per cent solving of all burglaries, while the national average is 46 per cent.

When contacted for a statement on the annual report, Sheriff Grant said "the credit record lies in the teamwork of the deputy sheriffs and the cooperation they have received from the general public in their investigations. I should like to publicly commend them for the work as I have already done personally.

"It is a record of which I, along with the entire force, can be and am extremely proud," he concluded.

It was pointed out that those crimes committed within the two city limits, Monroe and West Monroe, are not listed on the sheriff department report. Numerous cases have occurred during the past year when the department is called in to aid in an investigation, often resulting in the solving of the crime. However, in the report to the FBI, the credit for solving these crimes goes to the various city enforcement agencies.

The list was tabulated from monthly reports sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in Washington, D. C.

Cotton Futures Prices Gain In Uneven Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The cotton futures market plodded an uneven course this week.

Prices went up, down, and up again in the uneventful dealings, and finished out the holiday-shortened session with net gains all along the line. Futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange posted net advances ranging from 55 cents to $1.50 a bale.

Traders tended to mark time, prior to the reconvening of Congress. Bulls got some encouragement from reports that the Washington administration has given up the idea of a two-price system—one for cotton purchased in this country and a lower price level for U. S. cotton purchased abroad. Mill interests had strenuously objected to the plan as discriminating in favor of foreign textile operators. Bullish sentiment also derived support from indications that the export situation may take a turn for the better soon.

Traders took in stride the mid-December parity price announced during the week by the Department of Agriculture. The price—34.35 cents a pound—was pretty much what the trade had expected.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau said that if the mid January price is the same as the mid December figure, a guaranteed minimum average loan rate of 30.92 cents a pound would be in prospect on seven-eighths inch middling 1954 crop cotton.

Estimated exports of lint cotton in the week ended Dec. 26 dropped rather sharply from the previous week but were only moderately smaller than in the same week last year. They approximated 50,000 bales vs 92,000 a week ago and 58,000 a year ago. Exports for the current season through Dec. 26 are estimated at 1,110,000 bales compared with 1,413,000 at the same time last year.

Oil Workers Union May Ask For 36-Hour Week If Layoffs Continue

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—UP—The oil workers international union may ask for a share-the-work, 36-hour week if layoffs in the petroleum industry become general.

Union President O. A. Knight, in a statement to the United Press Saturday from his Denver headquarters, said:

"Thus far industry layoffs have been limited in extent and area, but, if reductions in force by oil companies become general we plan to ask for a shorter work week so as to spread the available unemployment among as many men as possible."

A union spokesman, quoting the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said that at least 4,000 oil field and refinery workers have been laid off since the industry's acute over-supply situation developed last fall.

He said this figure probably is "conservative" because the government's figures are based only on reports from 145 companies, most of them large operators. He said this tends to leave out small producers and refineries "where the layoff reduction is most conspicuous."

Principal layoff areas are Kansas, Oklahoma and inland Texas. There also have been some in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. But the union's chief concern is the closing down of small refineries, while large ones expand, causing dislocation of workers.

In addition, the spokesman said, some companies are hiring contractors who use casual day-to-day workers. Still another factor is technological advances which don't allow for expansion of employment in keeping with expansion in production.

Knight's statement came in the wake of an industry warning by Continental Oil Co., that the nation's refiners and importers should take "prompt action" to help correct the over-supply situation which is described as recurrent.

"Self-imposed restraints on the part of both refinery operators and companies importing crude oil are the key to the problem," it said.

Conoco, nevertheless, foresaw a growing demand for oil products. So did President Eugene Holman of Standard Oil (of New Jersey) who predicted a 4 per cent rise in consumption over 1953.

But Holman also saw some soft spots which will mean "even more intense competition" calling for better products, more research, better marketing, more business efficiency and old-fashioned hit-'em hard salesmanship.

The OWIU's if-and-when course was charged earlier this month at a meeting in New York of the National Coalition of Oil Unions, over which Knight presided.

The coalition adopted a collective bargaining program for the coming months with these basic objectives:

1. Elimination of the contracting out of work normally done by employes represented by oil unions.
2. Start of an immediate 36-hour week in layoff areas and standby clauses for a 36-hour week in other areas where they may be layoffs.
3. The end, where ever possible, of overtime work to further spread employment.
4. More pension improvements to bring about retirement at an earlier age and increase pensions.
5. Increases in basic wages high enough to maintain present living standards and to compensate for added productivity of workers.

Tidelands Issue Again Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (Special)—The United States Supreme Court which has twice before wrestled with the tidelands issue before ruling for the federal government is again studying the question, though under somewhat different circumstances.

Nevertheless, the high tribunal may issue a ruling soon that could slow - up renewed off-shore oil developments in the Gulf of Mexico and conceivably reopen for years the long fight between the states of Texas, Louisiana and California and the federal government over control and ownership of the submerged lands off their coasts out to historic boundaries.

Before the court today are suits filed by both the states of Alabama and Rhode Island challenging the validity of the act of Congress earlier this year which, in effect, overruled the previous decisions of the Supreme Court giving the federal government paramount rights over the off-shore lands, and asserting that title to these lands out to historic boundaries is in the states adjoining them.

The Supreme Court can, if it so desires, refuse to consider these petitions and may do so soon after the 1954 session opens January 4. If so, the legal and legislative battle over control and ownership of the tidelands would finally end. It is considered extremely doubtful that any other state would challenge the tidelands act before the high court if it ruled against consideration of the Alabama and Rhode Island suits. Likewise, the Arkansas suit along similar lines, but filed with the federal district court here, though potentially subject to eventual appeal to the Supreme Court, would probably meet the same fate when it reached the Supreme Court, made up of essentially the same membership.

Should the Supreme Court, however, decide to hear arguments and rule upon either the Alabama or Rhode Island suits, it would almost certainly mean a slow-down in oil development activities in the Gulf of Mexico, which have been renewed since May 22, when Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the states' tidelands bill approved by Congress.

Such a decision by the high tribunal would not necessarily mean that later it would rule that the tidelands act is unconstitutional. But it would certainly impose another legal cloud over the leases which have been issued for development and drilling in the off-shore lands, and would probably mean an interruption in the new operations. The interruption could last for many months, for if the court decided to hear arguments on the suits and render a new decision, it is likely that the decision could not possibly be handed down before early summer, just before the Court recesses, or even next fall.

Should the Supreme Court consider the suits and finally rule that the act of May 22 was invalid and the Congress had no right to grant full title to the off-shore lands to the respective states, it would probably mean an abrupt end to all operations in the Gulf.

It is questionable whether Congress would even again accept such a decision as final, but the oil companies as holding states leases in the Gulf and off the shore of California, would almost certainly follow the action they took when the previous decisions of the Court were handed down and halt all drilling and other development activities.

This halt in operations would probably extend through the long period, based upon past experience, that Congress would require to find another method of asserting state ownership to these submerged lands.

Many legal experts, after studying the decisions of the high tribunal in the Texas, Louisiana and particularly the California cases, believe that the court in effect declared that if Congress desired, it had the authority to grant full title to these lands to the respective states. If the nine jusices of the court still feel the same way, they will probably turn down the suits.

But lawyers, members of Congress and other observers of the decisions of the Supreme Court throughout its history, admit that one of life's greatest hazards is to try to predict what the court will do in any particlar case or petition.

Pope Urges TV To Avoid Evils Of Movie Shows

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII warned television today not to send into the home the picture of "pleasure, passion and evil" he said too often appears on the movie screen.

He called television "both a precious and dangerous instrument because of the deep reaction it is destined to exert" on public and private life.

The pontiff made the observations in a statement to Italian Roman Catholic bishops on the eve of the first regular broadcasts by Italy's government-controlled television network. Programs will go on the air tomorrow from Milan, Rome and Turin.

Experimental broadcasts have been made irregularly for two years. There are estimated to be only about 15,000 TV sets in the country.

"We recognize fully this new conquest of science," the Pope said. "It is not difficult to understand the innumerable advantages of television and the many services it can provide man for his perfection." He added:

"In these days the cinema, sports and the hard necessities of daily work tend to keep family members away from home more and more of the time and to upset the natural development of family life. Television can serve to bring the family together again in the home and to keep them from the dangers of undesirable companions and unhealthy places."

The pontiff said television also could exert a "beneficial influence in relation to the culture and popular education of the people" and for spreading religious teachings. But he went on:

"This must not make us blind to another aspect of this important and delicate subject.

"If it is true that television, well regulated, constitutes a means of spreading Christian education, it is also not without dangers because of the abuses and profanities for which it can be used.

"Unlike the theater and the cinema, whose audiences are limited to those who wish to attend, television comes into the home and is seen by persons of all ages and both sexes and with different cultural and moral backgrounds. Television programs are, in the most part, made up of films and theatrical spectacles and the number that fully satisfy Christian morality is still too small."

Proposed Hikes In Postal Rates Meet Opposition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Administration demands for a quarter billion dollar increase in postal rates may produce the first explosive reaction in the highly-charged session of the Congress opening Wednesday.

The House Postoffice Committee, after much heel-dragging and wrangling, broke off public hearings on Postmaster General Summerfield's requests in the closing days of last session.

In a rebuff to Summerfield, the rate matter was laid over until this session with the general understanding that it would be the committee's first order of business when Congress reconvenes.

The initial blow-off may come when Chairman Rees (R-Kan) summons his committee into closed-door session to deal with the rate bill in accordance with the understanding reached last July.

It is no secret that a sizeable number of members, Republicans and Democrats alike, would like to ditch the bill or at least scale it down.

Opinions expressed privately by House members returning to Washington seemed to minimize the chances of any large-scale rate increase soon.

There appeared little likelihood the House Postoffice Committee—or the House itself, for that matter—will readily accede to Summerfield's request to raise the cost of mailing a first class letter from three to four cents.

There was some possibility, however, the committee might approve small or moderate increases in second class charges for newspapers, magazines and other publications. The third and final 10 per cent increase of a cumulative three-year 30 per cent hike previously voted on this class of mail goes into effect this year. Many members feel that's enough.

Most probable source of additional revenue for the postoffice department is from increases on third class mailing rates, which apply principally to advertising and other forms of business mail.

Complicating controversy are proposals to raise the pay of postal and other government workers.

Thirteen pay raises bills have been introduced, ranging from a $400-a-year across-the-board increase by Rep. St. George (R-NY) to an $1,100-a-year bill by Rep. Klein (D-NY). The St. George bill would add nearly one billion dollars a year to the federal payroll, and Klein's bill proportionately more.

Rep. Gubser (R-Calif) also has announced that if a postal rate increase is approved, he will seek to tie to it a pay raise for postal workers.

With the postoffice department operating at a 600 million dollar a year deficit, Summerfield has asked increases on every type of postal service except parcel post to bring in an estimated $240,625,000 in added revenue.

He has succeeded, meanwhile, in cutting the department's bookkeeping losses by charging up air mail and other "subsidy" costs to other government agencies, and has added direct revenues expected to equal 100 million dollars a year through higher parcel post charges.

Woman Asphyxiated

PASCAGOULA, Miss., Jan. 2—UP—Mrs. Clyde Salser, 18, was found dead by her husband Friday and a coroner's jury ruled she died of asphyxiation.

Coroner James I. Grimsley said Mrs. Salser was found slumped in a chair when her husband came home from work. She had been dead about 10 hours, Grinsley said.

COLLECTS FROM SELF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—A Fort Worth insurance firm founder, whose company has paid out millions of dollars in premiums the past 50 years, found himself on the receiving end. William Glen Walker, now 85, took out an ordinary life policy at the age of 55. Recently, he collected a $4,000 check from his firm.

Big Parish Delegation Expected At Alexandria Cotton Session Monday

A strong Ouachita Parish representation is expected at the Louisiana Farm Bureau-sponsored meeting of state cotton growers opening 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Bentley Hotel in Alexandria.

The meeting, called for the purpose of clarifying the cotton acreage allocation program, and getting 'growers' views on needs for changes in existing laws, is open to all state farmers. However, emphasis has been placed on the attendance of cotton growers regardless of whether or not they are affiliated with the Farm Bureau.

Heading one of the delegations from Ouachita Parish will be John Filhoil, president of the Parish Farm Bureau Unit, and its secretary, Paul Ransom.

Assistant Ouachita Parish county agent, W. B. Aycock, Jr., said Saturday that he had been contacting growers in this area urging their attendance. He expressed belief that the turnout from here would be good, although he said that it would be difficult to estimate the number of persons.

From neighboring Richland Parish, one of the delegations will be headed by James Parrish, who heads that parish's Farm Bureau Unit. Parrish attended the recent belt-wide meeting on cotton problefs at Fort Worth, and will assist in presenting at the Monday meeting some of the recommendations prepared there.

L. L. Lovell of Rapides Parish who attended a recent cotton meeting in Chicago, will also be present at the Alexandria meeting.

Parrish stated recently that if Congress will accept proposals prepared by the Farm Bureau, Louisiana will gain from 100,000 to 120,000 extra acres of cotton.

Among the recommendations prepared at the Fort Worth Farm Bureau meeting, which will be presented for growers' consideration at the Alexandria session, are these:

Increase in national cotton acreage allotment by prorating an additional 3,089,552 acres (the difference between the announced allotment of 17,910,448 acres and 21,000,000 acres) to the states on the basis of the present law, and then adding on acreage for further adjustments in state allotments as follows:

(a) 157,500 acres to be used for increasing acreages allotted to Arizona, California, and New Mexico in proportion to the base acreages determined by the U.S.D.A. for the distribution of allotments to these states under the present law.

(b) 157,000 acres to be used for increasing the acreages allotted to the cotton states east of New Mexico according to the needs of these states for additional acreages to adjust individual farm allotments for hardship on the basis set forth below.

(c) The acreage necessary to insure that no state is cut more than 34 per cent from its 1952 planted acreage...

The recommendations contain a number of other points aimed at easing problems faced by growers as a result of cotton acreage allocations.

Farmerville Man Arrested In Hit, Run Case

A Farmerville man was being held in the Monroe City jail in lieu of a $1,000 bond after being charged with hit and run and careless and reckless driving and causing an accident which injured a Monroe Negro minister.

The man, Emory Chapman, 43, Route 2, Farmerville, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs W. H. Bell and W. E. Wilhite and Patrolman Ocie D. Howard of the Monroe police department. The arrest was made in a West Monroe tavern.

Chapman is charged with being the driver of an automobile which rammed into the rear end of another vehicle in the 2500 block of Louisville Avenue. The accident occurred around 7 p.m. according to a police report.

Injured were Rev. Joseph Newman, 213 Cedar Street, and his wife. Rev. Newman suffered a bruised head, chest and right leg, while his wife was bruised about the body.

The accident occurred when Rev. Newman's automobile, a 1950 Cadillac, was going west on Louisville. Chapman is charged with being the driver of a 1953 Ford which smashed into the rear of the Cadillac.

BLANCH FOOD FOR FREEZING

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (U.P.)—Foods specialist Frances Cook warns that vegetables must be blanched or scalded before freezing. Otherwise, the color, texture and flavor may change after a few months storage. Miss Cook, with the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, suggested placing the vegetables in a fine mesh basket which can be dipped into a boiling kettle. Overblanching, however, is just as damaging as failing to blanch.

METHODICAL THEFT

Negro Home Burns, Owner Is Injured

A West Monroe Negro suffered burns when his house, located on Benson Street, was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. Another house, next door, was also burned before firemen were able to get to the scene.

The Negro, Rufus Rockermore was taken to Charity Hospital, where he was given emergency treatment and released.

The West Monroe Fire Department received a call to 413 and 415 Benson Street at 5:55 a.m. Saturday. Upon arrival, the firemen discovered the houses were enveloped in flames. Attempts to save either of the buildings were futile.

Parish-Wide Stock Law To Be Enforced

Plans for the enforcement of a parishwide stock law, passed by the Ouachita Parish police jury earlier this year, are being formulated by the sheriff department, Sheriff Bailey Grant stated Saturday morning. The law, center of a bitter controversy among police jurors, formally went into effect Friday, January 1.

Just how the enforcement of the law would be handled was not made public, but indications pointed to some sort of pound, where animals would be placed.

The Louisiana state police at present operates a truck which circulates around the state picking up horses from certain areas. All animals thus taken are placed in a special pasture, near West Monroe, where they are kept for a limited time. After that a sale is held when all are disposed of. Should the owner of the animals desire to get the animals back, he can do so by paying $10 plus $1 per day the animal is held.

It is expected that the sheriff department may undertake a similar method of ridding the roads of stock, although Sheriff Grant has made no committment. However, as expressed by the police jury in its official action in passing the ordinance, the department must keep the roads clear of all stock.

fellow could tell which bus was which. Now one has to make a guess or go clear around the squint at a high level on the front end to know designations," declared the judge to Mr. Dembenski.

An old - fashioned music fest was put on for the benefit of the West Monroe Lions Club last week, when they sang out the old year and gave hearty welcome to incoming 1954.

Lion Gene Williams informed the members that he has secured a real live, noisy and tin-can hungry goat, which will be boarded out on absentees from the club.

It will be presented this week to Absentee Delma Carter and no telling who will get it next time it is passed out.

S. E. Holloway, Jr., general chairman for the 1954 March of Dimes campaign, has divided the work up in nine divisions, staffed by capable committees.

We are pleased to see that Capt. Roger C. White Jr., recently returned prisoner of war, will be chairman of the business gifts division. We look to see a first class job completed by this well known and popular young man.

Everyone is asked to give more than ever in 1954 for there are now reported and on record 66,000 cases throughout the nation and the need is unusually great this year.

Our congratulations to the first baby of 1954. We are sure that little Lenelda Jordan will prove the delight of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Jordan, for she has a wonderful start over all the rest that are to come.

William Noland Benoit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baron Benoit, tried to beat out competition but he arrived just 15 minutes later than did Lenelda.

Another birth of interest happened just too soon to capture a prize. It was Kathleen Holmes, born December 27 at St. Francis. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zell Smith, Jr., 207 Loop road.

Sheriff's Office Sends Annual Report To F. B. I.

An annual report of activities of the Ouachita parish sheriff department indicates that the local law enforcement agency is far above the national average in solving crimes committed within its jurisdiction. The report, which is made up by Warren Sievers, identification officer, is given Sheriff Bailey Grant, who in turn forwards it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

While the report shows the list of major crimes committed in Ouachita parish and the per cent of these crimes solved by arrest during the year 1953, it does not include crimes committed in either the City of Monroe or the West Monroe city limits.

Solved completely were all cases of murder, manslaughter, negligent homicide, aggravated assault and battery and auto theft. Other crimes and the percentage of them solved are: rape, 90 per cent; robbery 50 per cent; burglary, 72 per cent, theft (over $50 in value) 42 per cent; and theft (under $50 in value) 49 per cent.

According to national standards, compiled by the FBI, the average is 42 per cent of all crimes. The Ouachita parish sheriff department reports indicated the average for the past year was slightly over 66 per cent, which is believed to be one of the highest in the South if not the entire nation.

Also reflecting favorably on the local department is the 72 per cent solving of all burglaries, while the national average is 46 per cent.

When contacted for a statement on the annual report, Sheriff Grant said "the credit record lies in the teamwork of the deputy sheriffs and the cooperation they have received from the general public in their investigations. I should like to publicly commend them for the work as I have already done personally.

"It is a record of which I, along with the entire force, can be and am extremely proud," he concluded.

It was pointed out that those crimes committed within the two city limits, Monroe and West Monroe, are not listed on the sheriff department report. Numerous cases have occurred during the past year when the department is called in to aid in an investigation, often resulting in the solving of the crime. However, in the report to the FBI, the credit for solving these crimes goes to the various city enforcement agencies.

The list was tabulated from monthly reports sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in Washington, D. C.

JAKE USSERY
MOD Cards Chairman

Ussery Named To Chairman Dimes Card Division

Jake Ussery, well known throughout the Twin Cities and Ouachita Parish, will head the March of Dimes Cards in the current fund raising campaign of the March of Dimes drive. The announcement of Ussery as division chairman, was made known Saturday by S. E. Holloway, general chairman of the campaign.

Ussery is the fifth official to be announced in the current drive, which opened formally Saturday and will continue through January 31. Previously announced were Ben Marshall, campaign treasurer; John F. Kelso, Jr., coin collector chairman; Roger C. White, Jr., special business gifts chairman; and Sylvestor Breard, clubs and organizations chairman.

It is to be announced are three division chairmen, including the leaders in the Mothers March on Polio, one of the highlights of the fund drive. These will be announced "immediately," Holloway said.

The announcement that Ussery had accepted the special division chairmanship brings to near-completion the team which Holloway will depend upon for the successful conclusion of the March of Dimes drive. The general chairman has indicated that this year's drive will be "one of if not the most important of the sixteen year history since this is expected to be a 'year of decision' for those fighting infantile paralysis."

By this statement Holloway referred to the report that results of an experimental polio vaccine will become known this year and the use on a large scale of gamma globulin, the blood fraction which can protect temporarily against paralysis.

TO AID THE BLIND

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 2—UP—J. I. Rankin of Fulton has been named director of services for the blind in the State Welfare Department, Welfare Commissioner J. A. Shigpen announced Saturday.

Rankin succeeds Mrs. Addie McBryde, who retired after 25 years at that post.

2 Investigated As Suspects In Arson Charges

Albert David Moy, Negro, Route 4, Box 80, West Monroe and Melvin Wade, Negro of the same address are being held in the Ouachita Parish Jail, pending investigations of arson charges, the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department reported Saturday morning.

Also involved in the case is a Negro juvenile, who is being held by the parish juvenile authorities.

Monroe police stated that Moy reported his automobile, a 1947 Blue Ford sedan, bearing Louisiana license numbers 432-409 as being stolen from the front of Carroll Gym on Renwick Street, shortly after 8 p.m. New Year's night, the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department received a call to investigate a burning automobile on Whites Ferry Road. The burning automobile which was found approximately 200 yards north of the Whites Ferry Bridge was identified as Moy's automobile.

Moy, Wade and the juvenile were all reported to have been found at the scene of the burning vehicle.

JAKE USSERY

Ussery Named To Chairman Dimes Card Division

Jake Ussery, well known throughout the Twin Cities and Ouachita Parish, will head the March of Dimes Cards in the current fund raising campaign of the March of Dimes drive. The announcement of Ussery as division chairman, was made known Saturday by S. E. Holloway, general chairman of the campaign.

Ussery is the fifth official to be announced in the current drive, which opened formally Saturday and will continue through January 31. Previously announced were Ben Marshall, campaign treasurer; John F. Kelso, Jr., coin collector chairman; Roger C. White, Jr., special business gifts chairman; and Sylvestor Breard, clubs and organizations chairman.

[illegible] to be announced are three division chairmen, including the leaders in the Mothers March on Dimes, one of the highlights of the fund drive. These will be announced "immediately," Holloway said.

The announcement that Ussery had accepted the special division chairmanship brings to near-completion the team which Holloway will depend upon for the successful conclusion of the March of Dimes drive. The general chairman has indicated that this year's drive will be "one of if not the most important of the sixteen year history since this is expected to be a 'year of decision' for those fighting infantile paralysis."

By this statement Holloway referred to the report that results of an experimental polio vaccine will become known this year and the use on a large scale of gamma globulin, the blood fraction which can protect temporarily against paralysis.

TO AID THE BLIND

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 2—UP—J. I. Rankin of Fulton has been named director of services for the blind in the State Welfare Department, Welfare Commissioner J. A. Shigpen announced Saturday.

Rankin succeeds Mrs. Addie McBryde, who retired after 25 years at that post.

2 Investigated As Suspects In Arson Charges

Albert David Moy, Negro, Route 4, Box 80, West Monroe and Melvin Wade, Negro of the same address are being held in the Ouachita Parish Jail, pending investigations of arson charges, the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department reported Saturday morning.

Also involved in the case is a Negro juvenile, who is being held by the parish juvenile authorities.

Monroe police stated that Moy reported his automobile, a 1947 Blue Ford sedan, bearing Louisiana license numbers 432-409 as being stolen from the front of Carroll Gym on Renwick Street, shortly after 8 p.m. New Year's night, the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department received a call to investigate a burning automobile on Whites Ferry Road. The burning automobile which was found approximately 200 yards north of the Whites Ferry Bridge was identified as Moy's automobile.

Moy, Wade and the juvenile were all reported to have been found at the scene of the burning vehicle.

$14,000 IN A YEAR
THE DAYS are gone when a "few thousand" a year salary was enough for a man to take care of his family, buy a new car, and "salt some away for the future."
IF YOU are a middle-aged man who has reached the "ceiling" on your earnings and now want to make good in a new field, we can make you a fine offer to join our organization, where top men are paid up to $22,000 in a year.
IN SPITE of shortages in other businesses, our volume is expanding at a terrific rate. We have an opening in the Monroe area for a man over 45. The man we want must be high grade (not high pressure), ambitious and sincere. Earnings are paid in advance, no investment is needed, no collections, no deliveries.
WRITE A personal letter to our President, Dept. C-5, P. O. Box 711, Fort Worth 1, Texas.

MAN TO earn $150 and up per week. Long needed invention. Advertised worldwide. Prospects are everywhere. Full or part time. Exclusive. No investment. Free samples. Write Red Comet, Inc., Dept. 254-J, Littleton, Colo.

WHICH TWIN HAS
THE Toni? Well, quite frankly, neither has! . . . But they've everything else! Here are two "brand, spanking-new" homes directly across the street from Millsaps Grammar school & only ½ block from the new West Monroe High School with these features: both have 3 bedrooms; vented panel-ray heat; separate dining area; roomy living room; carport and storage; 42" attic fans; and new metal blinds throughout! They're 1118 sq. feet big and priced at $11,385 with FHA financing and located at 506 & 510 Cryer St.
ON TV TODAY!
THIS ONE'S spectacular and for good reasons! It's of solid brick construction with a Roman brick fireplace wall in the living room . . . the living room also has wall-to-wall carpet . . . There are two spacious bedrooms and a unique den (one wall is brick) . . . it's heated with central heating . . . It has a white crushed marble room . . . paneled dining area and "to boot" it's on a corner lot on Sandel Drive. The price is $16,795. Will show at your convenience!
AIN'T NOTHIN' TO .....
SNEEZE AT, that is a 6-room home only 3 years young for only $1300 down! Here's a home so tempting you'll want to move right in . . . for it contains among it's 1138 sq. feet of living area, such features as: 2 bedrooms and a paneled den or third bedroom . . . 42" attic fan . . . spacious living room with fireplace and gas-burning logs . . . floor furnace . . . separate dining room and a zestful kitchen . . . metal blinds. It's located on a 60-foot lot at 1612 S. 4th. It's vacant . . . Wanta' look?
"THE MOST"
BEDROOMS FOR the "least" price in town! The foregoing describes 708 S. 5th in W. Monroe to a "T", for not only 4 bedrooms but also: well proportioned living room with fireplace & logs; separate dining room; a flawless kitchen; nice large aluminum screened porch; sparkling hardwood floors; house is in excellent condition inside & out; has separate garage and 81x150 foot lot. It's valued by the FHA for $14,000, but it's selling for only $13,000 with $1800 down. Tired of your cramped quarters?
I'M BEGGING
FOR AN owner! I'm brand new with these features: 1456 sq. feet; brick veneer; 5 rooms, an enchanting kitchen with space even for a deep freeze; an elegant Roman brick planting box and fireplace; central heating; pink tile bath with shower; enclosed garage and a 112x100 foot lot. I'm on Azalea Drive and priced for immediate sale at only $12,000. Please!
YOU CAN'T AFFORD . . .
TO BUILD it . . . but you can afford to buy it when $6000 cash is all you need! Here's a solid masonry home on a 200x150 foot corner lot that is the very essence of elegance with 3 tremendous bedrooms, a restful den; comfortable living room with Roman brick fireplace wall; central heating; life-time roof; double garage; an easily accessible kitchen with breakfast area and door leading to back yard; distinctive tile bath with tub and tile shower stall; for a refreshing change . . . let us show you this one on Broadmoor Blvd.
DECEIVING?
WELL, In a way . . . yes! For you'd imagine that 209 Circle Drive in W. Monroe, on a massive 75x245 foot lot, would cost a lot more than $7250! But it doesn't and look what it buys: 5-rooms with 2 bedrooms, separate dining room . . . hardwood floors . . . wall paper in good condition and a host of other fine features. $1250 down is all the cash you need. Call for appointment today!
THE HOME YOU'D OWN
IF YOU had all the money in the world! Sounds like a joke, but it ain't, for this pace-setting brick on a corner lot at 4208 Lee Ave. leaves nothing to be desired. It has 2 bedrooms, a nifty den . . . unusually attractive bath with colored fixtures & shower . . . A "step-saving" kitchen with natural woodwork cabinets and a splashboard . . . it has a separate dining area and a soothing breezeway on the back leading onto the carport & storage. It's priced at $12,363 with FHA financing available.
"A FAMILY HOME"
NOT ALL homes fit this description, but 322 Stewart in W. Monroe invented it! One family was extremely happy here, but they've moved to New Orleans and now possess one house too many! This faultless home has a host of "livable" features. Features such as: 3 bedrooms all with closets galore . . . a bath and a half . . . one hall is enclosed in closets . . . the kitchen is roomy and leads out onto a 12'x20' breezeway . . . storeroom is plumbed for washer and wired for a dryer! All of this is on a corner lot and it's just been redecorated. It's priced at $11,500. Let us show you today.
HOW ARE YOU FIXED
FOR SPACE? Wouldn't it be nice to have enough bedrooms to go around? If that's the case, 705 Filhiol takes the cake! For here is a 6-room, 3 bedroom home on a 70x150 foot lot with these noteworthy features: unique solid maple floors; tile bath with tub and shower stall; floor furnace & attic fan; both the walls & ceiling are insulated; copper pipes; gutters & downspouts and a garage. It's priced at $12,500 with FHA financing available!
PRICE CONSCIOUS?
WOULD BE believe me if I told you we've a 5-room, 3-year old home on an 89x208 foot lot for only $8274? Well if it sounds unreasonable, we've "got the goods" at 603 Splane Drive, in W. M. A captivating 5-room home with these features: it's on a corner lot; 30 gal. heater; copper pipes; one bedroom has walk-in closet; disappearing stair to attic; located just a block from Highland Grammar School. $1274 down turns the key.
BENDING YOUR EAR
AND FOR a good reason for this distinctive home at 510 Sherrouse needs a happy family to enjoy it's many features. Such as: 2 roomy bedrooms; tremendous living and dining room; living room has fireplace; there are 2 baths (one has separate dressing room); the kitchen is loaded with metal cabinets and also a dishwasher; kitchen also has roomy breakfast area and door opening onto carport for convenience in bringing in groceries. All the foregoing is on a 105'x 150 well landscaped lot and priced at $15,000 with G. I. financing if desired. It's vacant, so why not take a "peep" today?
YOU'D BE FOOLISH
TO BUILD when this matchless home at 1408 Cedar in Sunshine Heights can be bought so reasonably! Here's a 6-room, 3-bedroom home on a well shaded 100x150 foot lot that's a perfect delight with a host of unusual features . . . Such as: one bedroom has a huge walk-in closet; it has (2) floor furnaces and attic fan . . . Separate living and dining room . . . Covered walkway leading from carport to front of house . . . carport also opens into the kitchen . . . and last but not least, it's barely a year old and already financed. The price is $11,664. Call for appointment!

WHICH TWIN HAS
THE Toni? Well, quite frankly, neither has! . . . But they've everything else! Here are two "brand, spanking-new" homes directly across the street from Millsaps Grammar school & only ½ block from the new West Monroe High School with these features: both have 3 bedrooms; vented panel-ray heat; separate dining area; roomy living room; carport and storage; 42" attic fans; and new metal blinds throughout! They're 1118 sq. feet big and priced at $11,385 with FHA financing and located at 506 & 510 Cryer St.

ON TV TODAY!
THIS ONE'S spectacular and for good reasons! It's of solid brick construction with a Roman brick fireplace wall in the living room . . . the living room also has wall-to-wall carpet . . . There are two spacious bedrooms and a unique den (one wall is brick) . . . it's heated with central heating . . . It has a white crushed marble room . . . paneled dining area and "to boot" it's on a corner lot on Sandel Drive. The price is $16,795. Will show at your convenience!

AIN'T NOTHIN' TO .....
SNEEZE AT, that is a 6-room home only 3 years young for only $1300 down! Here's a home so tempting you'll want to move right in . . . for it contains among it's 1138 sq. feet of living area, such features as: 2 bedrooms and a paneled den or third bedroom . . . 42" attic fan . . . spacious living room with fireplace and gas-burning logs . . . floor furnace . . . separate dining room and a zestful kitchen . . . metal blinds. It's located on a 60-foot lot at 1612 S. 4th. It's vacant . . . Wanta' look?

"THE MOST"
BEDROOMS FOR the "least" price in town! The foregoing describes 708 S. 5th in W. Monroe to a "T", for not only 4 bedrooms but also: well proportioned living room with fireplace & logs; separate dining room; a flawless kitchen; nice large aluminum screened porch; sparkling hardwood floors; house is in excellent condition inside & out; has separate garage and 81x150 foot lot. It's vacated by the FHA for $14,000, but it's selling for only $13,000 with $1800 down. Tired of your cramped quarters?

I'M BEGGING
FOR AN owner! I'm brand new with these features: 1456 sq. feet; brick veneer; 5 rooms, an enchanting kitchen with space even for a deep freeze; an elegant Roman brick planting box and fireplace; central heating; pink tile bath with shower; enclosed garage and a 112x100 foot lot. I'm on Azalea Drive and priced for immediate sale at only $12,000. Please!

YOU CAN'T AFFORD...
TO BUILD it . . . but you can afford to buy it when $6000 cash is all you need! Here's a solid masonry home on a 200x 150 foot corner lot that is the very essence of elegance with 3 tremendous bedrooms, a restful den; comfortable living room with Roman brick fireplace wall; central heating; life-time roof; double garage; easily accessible kitchen with breakfast area and door leading to back yard; distinctive tile bath with tub and tile shower stall; for a refreshing change . . . let us show you this one on Broadmoor Blvd.

DECEIVING?
WELL. In a way . . . yes! For you'd imagine that 209 Circle Drive in W. Monroe, on a massive 75x245 foot lot, would cost a lot more than $7250! But it doesn't and look what it buys: 5-rooms with 2 bedrooms, separate dining room . . . hardwood floors . . . wall paper in good condition and a host of other fine features. $1250 down is all the cash you need. Call for appointment today!

THE HOME YOU'D OWN
IF YOU had all the money in the world! Sounds like a joke, but it ain't, for this pace-setting brick on a corner lot at 4208 Lee Ave. leaves nothing to be desired. It has 2 bedrooms, a nifty den . . . unusually attractive bath with colored fixtures & shower . . . A "step-saving" kitchen with natural woodwork cabinets and a splashboard . . . it has a separate dining area and a soothing breezeway on the back leading onto the carport & storage. It's priced at $12,363 with FHA financing available.

"A FAMILY HOME"
NOT ALL homes fit this description, but 322 Stewart in W. Monroe invented it! One family was extremely happy here, but they've moved to New Orleans and now possess one house too many! This faultless home has a host of "livable" features. Features such as: 3 bedrooms all with closets galore . . . a bath and a half . . . the hall is encased in closets . . . the kitchen is roomy and leads out onto a 12'x20' breezeway . . . storeroom is plumbed for washer and wired for a dryer! All of this is on a corner lot and it's just been redecorated. It's priced at $11,500. Let us show you today.

HOW ARE YOU FIXED
FOR SPACE? Wouldn't it be nice to have enough bedrooms to go around? If that's the case, 705 Filhiol takes the cake! For here is a 6-room, 3 bedroom home on a 70x150 foot lot with these noteworthy features: unique solid maple floors; tile bath with tub and shower stall; floor furnace & attic fan; both the walls & ceiling are insulated; copper pipes; gutters & downspouts and a garage. It's priced at $12,500 with FHA financing available!

PRICE CONSCIOUS?
WOULD BE believe me if I told you we've a 5-room, 3-year old home on an 89x208 foot lot for only $8274? Well if it sounds unreasonable, we've "got the goods" at 602 Splane Drive, in W. M. A captivating 5-room home with these features: it's on a corner lot; 30 gal. heater; copper pipes; one bedroom has walk-in closet; disappearing stair to attic; located just a block from Highland Grammar School. $1274 down turns the key.

Kappa Delta Alumnae Fete New Pledges At Luncheon

Five new pledges were named guests of honor when local Kappa Delta alumnae entertained at their fourth annual holiday luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country club. Those honored were Miss Carolyn Bolton of Bastrop, Miss Betty Carpenter of Jones, and Miss Linda Davis, students at L.S.U.; Miss Martha Nell Chappell of West Monroe, and Miss Linda Thompson, students at Louisiana Tech.

Miss Carpenter represents the third generation of her family to belong to Kappa Delta at LSU. Also present at the luncheon were her grandmother, Mrs. Ed T. Brodnax of Jones, and her aunts, Mrs. W. T. Barham and Miss Millicent Brodnax of Bastrop.

White crysanthemums in a crystal epergne marked the center of the table, from which graduated white candles and ivy extended to each end. The green and white theme was further developed in the place cards, which featured the design of KD's Christmas seal for 1953.

On display were the program and favors from the national KD convention, held this summer in Biloxi, Miss. Of particular interest were the corsages made of pecans, sugar cubes, and cotton which were the favors at the Louisiana dinner.

Mrs. Jack Taylor served as toastmistress and presided over the short business session which followed the luncheon. The girls home from school were asked to give a brief resume of the activities of the active chapters.

Mrs. Thomas Boyd Grayson of Baton Rouge gave a report of the activities of KD alumnae in that city, and Mrs. J. R. Phillips described Kappa Delta projects in Little Rock, Ark.

Other KD's present at the luncheon included Miss Amalie Nichols, Miss Ione Hill, Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson, Miss Peggy Frantom, Mrs. Austin Miller, Miss Tillie Cookston of Winnfield, Miss Anita O'Kelly, Mrs. Emmett Mitchell, Jr., Miss Pat Peterman, Mrs. W. Delta Beta Sigma Sorority Holds Ritual

Delta Beta Sigma held ritual for Miss Sandra Tooke recently in the home of Miss Gaye Olcott.

During Miss Tooke's "help" week, she did several charitable and community acts such as: taking a variety of candy to Cooley's Sanatorium, taking cookies to the Old Folk's Home for colored, working at the Red Cross, taking puzzles and magazines to the St. Joseph's Old Folks' Home, reading at the Charity Hospital and visiting with the children of the La. Baptist Children's Home.

P.-T. A. Should Share Teachers' Many Problems

NEW YORK (NEA) — Homemaker, novelist, lecturer, magazine writer — these words indicate the varied career of Virginia Chase, author of the recently published novel, "The End of the Week."

Miss Chase's background also happens to include 25 years of teaching. And it's teachers that her book is about.

"In 'The End of the Week' I hope to acquaint the reader with teachers as human beings. I have tried to tell a realistic story, not to present an argument. And to insure the realism I have had several teachers check every chapter."

Miss Chase was speaking from an easy chair in the library of her publisher's office. Already her earnestness had deepened the color of her direct, blue eyes.

While agreeing that teachers today are underpaid, Miss Chase contends that what teachers need even more than more money is acceptance. She means acceptance into the community as neighbors, not merely as teachers, and acceptance by the educational hierarchy as thinking people.

"The public knows little of one problem confronting teachers: so many are torn between the direction they receive and what they are teaching. On the one hand they are to allow their pupils self-expression and on the other they are subject to a seemingly endless procession of directives. The very people who teach self-expression, then, are often not free to practice it.

"Again, while they are expected to uphold all that is puritanical, they are not generally welcomed into the comfortable, safe society of the community. They are left to themselves."

The teachers' community within a community is portrayed in "The End of the Week." It is a disturbing picture. Miss Chase's hope is that it will be disturbing enough to be stimulating.

For one thing, Miss Chase hopes that parents will be stimulated to widen the scope of the PTA's. "As they are now," she said, "most of them are fifty per cent for the parents and fifty per cent for the pupils. The PTA's could help a great deal to improve both the working conditions and social lives of the teachers."

As revealed in this book, the teacher's life is one that will allow the development of too few teachers like Virginia Chase. Few will know the love and companionship of husband and children (she is Mrs. Wallace W. Perkins); the stimulation of addressing audiences from the lecture platform; the excitement of sharing their thoughts with thousands of readers.

Betty Richardson Becomes Bride Of Lt. Dan Trimble

One of the loveliest weddings of the season was that of Miss Betty Louise Richardson and Lt. j. g. Dan Medaries Trimble at seven-thirty o'clock Saturday, December 19 at the College Place Baptist Church. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg and Rev. H. L. Driskell read the nuptial vows at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Lester Clyde Richardson and the late Mr. Richardson. Lt. Trimble is the son of Mrs. Charles Street and the late Mr. William Whitfield Trimble.

Slender white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra covered with southern smilax and interspersed with velvet poinsettia blossoms and white bells formed a background for the wedding party. The choir rail was decorated with white aisle cloth and southern smilax with tapers. The double aisles were also marked with tall white candles, velvet poinsettias and smilax.

Mrs. C. L. Dillingham rendered a concert of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Don Hayem as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. C. E. Finley, the bride was lovely in a gown of white chantilly lace and skinner satin of French imported lace which curved around the hips and formed a flowing cathedral train. The collar was embroidered with seed pears. A full circular veil of imported illusion was gathered from a Chantilly lace wreath embroidered in seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid.

Miss Peggy Little of Atlanta, Ga., was maid of honor. Her gown was an American beauty red, featuring a fitted bodice of velvet and a bouffant tiered skirt of nylon tulle with a matching stole. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and poinsettias with small Christmas bells.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Grady Merriman, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Gerry Trimble, Mrs. O. W. Scott of Grenada, Miss. The bridesmaids' gowns were identical with the maid of honor's.

Miss Wanda Phillips, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. Morris Phillips, was flower girl. She wore a red net full-length gown fashioned from the bridesmaid's attire and carried a Christmas bell filled with flowers.

Candles were lighted by Shirley Ann Crow and Linda Trimble.

Bailey Tull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tull, was ring bearer.

William Phillips of Greenville, Miss., served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Marvin McConnell and Grady Merriman. Edward Morgan and Joe Street were ushers.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a floor-length gown of champagne colored lace embroidered with pearls and rhinestones with an orchid sequin hat and long white kid gloves. Her corsage was an orchid.

Mrs. Street, the groom's mother, was becomingly attired in a pink imported lace gown with matching gloves and an orchid corsage.

Reception Held

A reception was held in the home of the bride's mother immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table was artistically decorated with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature Christmas tree. White carnations and greenery were attractively interspersed with red and white Christmas bells.

A silver Christmas tree in the living room completed the yule theme of the wedding reception.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

For traveling, the bride changed to a navy blue suit bejewelled with rhinestones and pearls. The bride's hat was of winter white with matching jewels. Her accessories were of navy blue.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School, Northeast State College and Louisiana State University. She has served as an airline stewardess for several months.

Lt. Trimble is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast State College. He entered the navy as a flying midshipman in 1948. He received his commission in June of 1950 and recently returned from a tour of duty in the Far East.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Theis; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woolley; Mr. and Mrs. John Gaines; Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lynn; all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Richard McConnell of Springhill; Mrs. Jenny Ellis of Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Eileen Adair of Shreveport.

MRS. DAN MEDARIES TRIMBLE

MRS. W. L. PAYNE

Forbes-Payne Vows Said

The marriage of Miss Billie Marie Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Forbes, and W. L. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Payne, was solemnized at the Elmwood Baptist Church Saturday, December 19 at 5:00 p.m. Officiating at the most impressive ceremony was the Reverend John R. Cutrer of West Monroe, La. Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Mary Ethel Watts, senior classmate of the bride and accompanist for the soloists: Miss Elaine Pearce, another classmate, who sang "Because;" and Mrs. Ellis Autonberry, sister of the bride, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The wedding scene was framed in an attractive setting of magnolia leaves, red berries, lace fern, and palm. The glow of white candles arranged on white and green stands aided in creating an atmosphere of sacredness. Serving as candlelighters were Miss Janet Rinicker and Miss Katie Lee Burgess, both classmates of Miss Forbes. Under an arch entwined with magnolia leaves and red berries and adorned with a large white satin bow the couple met and pledged their troth in a double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, H. T. Forbes. Attending the groom was Ray Forbes, brother of the bride. Attired in a light blue tailored suit, Mrs. Johnny Davis, sister of Miss Forbes, served as matron of honor.

The bride wore a blue tailored suit with a rhinestone lapel pin and used white and black accessories. She carried an orchid with an arrangement of pink carnations.

Ushers were Miss Cecil Marie Kizer and Miss Sue Wiggins, both of the Elmwood Community.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Forbes. In the center of the bride's table were a three-tiered wedding cake and a crystal punch bowl filled with green punch. Mrs. Wilson Copes and Mrs. Eula James Moore, both sisters of the groom, served cake and punch, and Mrs. Louise Forbes served coffee to the numerous friends and relatives attending. Miss Ann Conway, another classmate of the bride, presided over the guest book.

For this occasion the bride's mother chose a most attractive orchid suit with pink accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations. The mother of the groom was becomingly attired in a black crepe dress and a white topper. Her corsage was white carnations.

Here's a delicious salad to serve with baked ham. Dice celery and add to diced canned pineapple; moisten with mayonnaise, spoon into lettuce cups and sprinkle with minced parsley. Or instead of the parsley garnish, sprinkle with chopped pecan nutmeats.

Once a week wipe off finger marks from doors, woodwork and painted walls, if you want to keep your house looking shipshape. Use a damp cloth wrung out of water in which you've dissolved some sudsy detergent.

To remove fruit or fruit juice stain from washable fabric, stretch stained part over bowl and pour water through it from height of two to three feet. Repeat if necessary; then launder. Use boiling water for white fabric, warm water for others.

Turner-Taylor Nuptials Are Heard In Franklin

A wedding which is of interest to a wide circle of friends here and in North Louisiana is that of Miss Grace Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Massie Turner of Franklin, and Mr. Joseph Edwin Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard Taylor, Sr. of West Monroe, in the First Baptist Church. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Wilburn S. Taylor, brother of the groom.

Baskets of white chrysanthemums against a background of palms decorated the church altar. The vows were spoken beneath an arch entwined with greenery from which wedding bells tied with white satin ribbons were suspended. Mrs. C. C. Duncan rendered a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Marguerite See as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a street length dress of powder blue faille with basque waist and elbow length sleeves and V-neckline with which she wore a pearl necklace. Her bridal bouquet was of orange blossoms and white chrysanthemums cascaded with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Joe Nitto was her sister's only attendant. She was wearing a suit of pearl grey with black accessories and a corsage of pink pom pon chrysanthemums. Mr. Joe Nitto served the groom as best man. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in a grey crepe model with grey accessories and corsage of pink chrysanthemums. The groom's mother chose for the occasion a grey gabardine suit with black accessories and corsage of peach chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. R. D. Wilson was in charge of the bride's book. The bride's table was covered with linen cut-work and centered with an attractive white arrangement with a small tree of wedding bells. After the young couple cut their wedding cake they left on a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. The bride traveled in a grey wool suit with black velvet accessories. The bride is a graduate of Franklin High School and attended Pitt University, Pittsburgh, Pa., and is presently employed as bookkeeper for Franklin Cigar and Tobacco Company. Mr. Taylor is a graduate of O. P. H. S. and B. M. I. of Monroe and is employed by Shell Oil Company of Franklin. They are at home at 1217 Weber Street, Franklin.

Hairnet Avoids Primping During Festive Parties

Haven't you observed that the girls who are forever primping at parties are not very popular? Constantly adjusting their jewelry, checking their coiffures or touching up their make-up, they seem too concerned with themselves to warrant the interest of others.

The popular girls, on the other hand, having groomed carefully at home, can devote themselves entirely to having, and being, fun.

There is less temptation to fuss if you are certain you look your best. So it is wise to take a little extra time with dressing.

Of course, the girl whose hair is very fine may complain that no matter how carefully she brushes and combs it, it is in disarray a short time later. Since the trend today is toward the sleek, neat look, that situation should not be tolerated.

But something can be done about it before it happens. Even baby-fine hair can be made to behave.

A lanolin-rich hair dressing added to the setting water will help greatly to keep the hair from flying wild. For added control of the little hairs that flutter on the forehead, a bit of the dressing should be patted on after the hair has been arranged for the evening.

For complete insurance, an invisible hairnet should be worn. Nothing tops a net for keeping unruly locks in check. When bought in the right size, it will not flatten the coiffure.

Betty Richardson Becomes Bride Of Lt. Dan Trimble

One of the loveliest weddings of the season was that of Miss Betty Louise Richardson and Lt. j. g. Dan Medaries Trimble at seven-thirty o'clock Saturday, December 19 at the College Place Baptist Church. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg and Rev. H. L. Driskell read the nuptial vows at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Lester Clyde Richardson and the late Mr. Richardson. Lt. Trimble is the son of Mrs. Charles Street and the late Mr. William Whitfield Trimble.

Slender white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra covered with southern smilax and interspersed with velvet poinsettia blossoms and white bells formed a background for the wedding party. The choir rail was decorated with white aisle cloth and southern smilax with tapers. The double aisles were also marked with tall white candles, velvet poinsettias and smilax.

Mrs. C. L. Dillingham rendered a concert of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Don Hayem as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. C. E. Finley, the bride was lovely in a gown of white chantilly lace and skinner satin of French imported lace which curved around the hips and formed a flowing cathedral train. The collar was embroidered with seed pears. A full circular veil of imported illusion was gathered from a Chantilly lace wreath embroidered in seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid.

Miss Peggy Little of Atlanta, Ga., was maid of honor. Her gown was an American beauty red, featuring a fitted bodice of velvet and a bouffant tiered skirt of nylon tulle with a matching stole. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and poinsettias with small Christmas bells.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Grady Merriman, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Gerry Trimble, Mrs. O. W. Scott of Grenada, Miss. The bridesmaids' gowns were identical with the maid of honor's.

Miss Wanda Phillips, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. Morris Phillips, was flower girl. She wore a red net full-length gown fashioned from the bridesmaid's attire and carried a Christmas bell filled with flowers.

Candles were lighted by Shirley Ann Crow and Linda Trimble.

Bailey Tull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tull, was ring bearer.

William Phillips of Greenville, Miss., served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Marvin McConnell and Grady Merriman. Edward Morgan and Joe Street were ushers.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a floor-length gown of champagne colored lace embroidered with pearls and rhinestones with an orchid sequin hat and long white kid gloves. Her corsage was an orchid.

Mrs. Street, the groom's mother, was becomingly attired in a pink imported lace gown with matching gloves and an orchid corsage.

Reception Held

A reception was held in the home of the bride's mother immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table was artistically decorated with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature Christmas tree. White carnations and greenery were attractively interspersed with red and white Christmas bells.

A silver Christmas tree in the living room completed the yule theme of the wedding reception.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

For traveling, the bride changed to a navy blue suit bejewelled with rhinestones and pearls. The bride's hat was of winter white with matching jewels. Her accessories were of navy blue.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School, Northeast State College and Louisiana State University. She has served as an airline stewardess for several months.

Lt. Trimble is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast State College. He entered the navy as a flying midshipman in 1948. He received his commission in June of 1950 and recently returned from a tour of duty in the Far East.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Theis; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woolley; Mr. and Mrs. John Gaines; Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lynn; all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Richard McConnell of Springhill; Mrs. Jenny Ellis of Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Eileen Adair of Shreveport.

MRS. DAN MEDARIES TRIMBLE

Turner-Taylor Nuptials Are Heard In Franklin

A wedding which is of interest to a wide circle of friends here and in North Louisiana is that of Miss Grace Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Massie Turner of Franklin, and Mr. Joseph Edwin Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard Taylor, Sr. of West Monroe, in the First Baptist Church. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Wilburn S. Taylor, brother of the groom.

Baskets of white chrysanthemums against a background of palms decorated the church altar. The vows were spoken beneath an arch entwined with greenery from which wedding bells tied with white satin ribbons were suspended. Mrs. C. C. Duncan rendered a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Marguerite See as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a street length dress of powder blue faille with basque waist and elbow length sleeves and V-neckline with which she wore a pearl necklace. Her bridal bouquet was of orange blossoms and white chrysanthemums cascaded with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Joe Nitto was her sister's only attendant. She was wearing a suit of pearl grey with black accessories and a corsage of pink pom pon chrysanthemums. Mr. Joe Nitto served the groom as best man. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in a grey crepe model with grey accessories and corsage of pink chrysanthemums. The groom's mother chose for the occasion a grey gabardine suit with black accessories and corsage of peach chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. R. D. Wilson was in charge of the bride's book. The bride's table was covered with linen cut-work and centered with an attractive white arrangement with a small tree of wedding bells. After the young couple cut their wedding cake they left on a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. The bride traveled in a grey wool suit with black velvet accessories. The bride is a graduate of Franklin High School and attended Pitt University, Pittsburgh, Pa., and is presently employed as bookkeeper for Franklin Cigar and Tobacco Company. Mr. Taylor is a graduate of O. P. H. S. and B. M. I. of Monroe and is employed by Shell Oil Company of Franklin. They are at home at 1217 Weber Street, Franklin.

Hairnet Avoids Primping During Festive Parties

Haven't you observed that the girls who are forever primping at parties are not very popular? Constantly adjusting their jewelry, checking their coiffures or touching up their make-up, they seem too concerned with themselves to warrant the interest of others.

The popular girls, on the other hand, having groomed carefully at home, can devote themselves entirely to having, and being, fun.

There is less temptation to fuss if you are certain you look your best. So it is wise to take a little extra time with dressing.

Of course, the girl whose hair is very fine may complain that no matter how carefully she brushes and combs it, it is in disarray a short time later. Since the trend today is toward the sleek, neat look, that situation should not be tolerated.

But something can be done about it before it happens. Even baby-fine hair can be made to behave.

A lanolin-rich hair dressing added to the setting water will help greatly to keep the hair from flying wild. For added control of the little hairs that flutter on the forehead, a bit of the dressing should be patted on after the hair has been arranged for the evening.

For complete insurance, an invisible hairnet should be worn. Nothing tops a net for keeping unruly locks in check. When bought in the right size, it will not flatten the coiffure.

MRS. W. L. PAYNE

The marriage of Miss Billie Marie Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Forbes, and W. L. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Payne, was solemnized at the Elmwood Baptist Church Saturday, December 19 at 5:00 p.m. Officiating at the most impressive ceremony was the Reverend John R. Cutrer of West Monroe, La. Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Mary Ethel Watts, senior classmate of the bride and accompanist for the soloists: Miss Elaine Pearce, another classmate, who sang "Because;" and Mrs. Ellis Autonberry, sister of the bride, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The wedding scene was framed in an attractive setting of magnolia leaves, red berries, lace fern, and palm. The glow of white candles arranged on white and green stands aided in creating an atmosphere of sacredness. Serving as candlelighters were Miss Janet Rinicker and Miss Katie Lee Burgess, both classmates of Miss Forbes. Under an arch entwined with magnolia leaves and red berries and adorned with a large white satin bow the couple met and pledged their troth in a double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, H. T. Forbes. Attending the groom was Ray Forbes, brother of the bride. Attired in a light blue tailored suit, Mrs. Johnny Davis, sister of Miss Forbes, served as matron of honor.

The bride wore a blue tailored suit with a rhinestone lapel pin and used white and black accessories. She carried an orchid with an arrangement of pink carnations.

Ushers were Miss Cecil Marie Kizer and Miss Sue Wiggins, both of the Elmwood Community.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Forbes. In the center of the bride's table were a three-tiered wedding cake and a crystal punch bowl filled with green punch. Mrs. Wilson Copes and Mrs. Eula James Moore, both sisters of the groom, served cake and punch, and Mrs. Louise Forbes served coffee to the numerous friends and relatives attending. Miss Ann Conway, another classmate of the bride, presided over the guest book.

For this occasion the bride's mother chose a most attractive orchid suit with pink accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations. The mother of the groom was becomingly attired in a black crepe dress and a white topper. Her corsage was white carnations.

The couple left immediately on their honeymoon.

Here's a delicious salad to serve with baked ham. Dice celery and add to diced canned pineapple; moisten with mayonnaise, spoon into lettuce cups and sprinkle with minced parsley. Or instead of the parsley garnish, sprinkle with chopped pecan nutmeats.

Once a week wipe off finger marks from doors, woodwork and painted walls, if you want to keep your house looking shipshape. Use a damp cloth wrung out of water in which you've dissolved some sudsy detergent.

To remove fruit or fruit juice stain from washable fabric, stretch stained part over bowl and pour water through it from height of two to three feet. Repeat if necessary; then launder. Use boiling water for white fabric, warm water for others.

MRS. WILLIAM ROY SNIDER

Snider-Russell Wedding Solemnized In Pineville

Of interest here and elsewhere in Louisiana was the wedding Friday in the First Baptist church, Pineville, of Miss Martha Ann Russell, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Lavelle Russell of Pineville, and Mr. William Roy Snider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dyer Snider of Delhi, La. The ceremony, which took place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, was performed by the bride's father.

Decorating the chancel of the church were baskets of soft white gladiola and pom pons and lighted tapers, placed against quantities of greenery which banked the altar. A program of music included solos by Mr. Mark Tullos of Winnfield, who sang "Through the Years," Mr. Charles Muller of Baton Rouge, who sang "Wonderful One" and Mr. Jim Norwood of Columbia, La., "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Eva Diel Fields was organist.

Bride's Gown

The bride entered the church with her brother, Cpl. Justin L. Russell, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white bridal satin and Chantilly lace, made with tight fitting bodice of lace and long sleeves tapering to points at her hands. The bouffant skirt, made with panels of lace, formed a long circular train. Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a coronet of satin and lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white orchid encircled with stephanotis on a muff of satin and tulle.

The maid of honor to the bride was Miss Elizabeth Ann Norred of Monroe, whose gown was of American Beauty nylon net over taffeta made with a bodice of matching velveteen with which she wore a stole. She wore a bandeau of white velveteen and carried roses on a muff of the velveteen.

The bridesmaids were Misses Iris O'Quinn of St. Landry, Maureen Tilton of Elizabeth, Lillian McKenzie of Pineville, Ethel Mae Voss of West Monroe, Mesdames Fern Spruill of New Orleans and Sidney Flewellen of Alexandria. The junior bridesmaids were Misses Sharon Amerine of Jena and Nancy Snider, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the maid of honor and they, too, carried roses on muffs of velveteen.

Mr. Jimmy Lewis of Delhi, served as best man. Ushers were Messrs. Welch Green, Jr., and John Allen Green of Simpson, Larry Kennedy of Winnfield, Sellars Aycock of Rayville, T. W. Terral of Jena, and Sidney Flewellen of Alexandria.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the Rev. and Mrs. Russell were hosts at a reception at their home on Lawrence Blvd. The bride's mother wore a dress of smoke blue taffeta, embroidered at the yoke with sequins and beads. At her shoulder she wore an orchid. Assisting her in receiving was the bridegroom's mother, whose dress was of mauve colored lace and nylon net over taffeta. She, too, wore an orchid. Greeting guests at the door were Mrs. J. G. Ray of Pineville, and Mrs. Fred Lafferty of Columbia, cousin of the bride.

The reception rooms were decorated with magnolia boughs and white blooms. The bridemaids placed their muffs at the base of the wedding cake, arranged at the center of the bride's table, which was overlaid with a cloth of satin. On either side of the cake silver candelabra held lighted tapers. Mrs. Frank Amerine of Jena, presided at the cake service. Pouring punch were Mrs. W. O. Ferguson of Monroe, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Paul Peters of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bride. Assisting in serving were Misses Glenda Brooks of Jena, Nancy Hearn of Shreveport, Cleta Faye Lanningham of Sterlington, Mesdames Ernie Duplechin and Frank Couch of Pineville. During the reception Miss Earline Richards played a program of piano music. Miss Beverly Wagner of Alexandria, presided at the guest register.

Later in the evening, Mr. Snider and his bride left for points along the Gulf Coast and Florida. She traveled in a suit of purple wool trimmed with black velveteen with which she wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After Jan. 1, they will make their home at 1411½ Donahue Ferry Road.

Use Christmas Perfume Gifts

If you are one of the fortunate women to whom Christmas brought a windfall of perfume and toilet water, how about adding this to your list of New Year's resolutions to use, not hoard, the fragrances.

It would seem, after all, that it is only fair to give one's giftbearers the pleasure of enjoying the scents.

Your perfume will go farther and be more effective if you apply it with an atomizer. It is a wise and inexpensive investment.

An atomizer will spray a lingering aura of scent about you without wasting any precious drops. And you will have no wasteful dribbling as from a flacon.

In addition to spraying the perfume over your arms, shoulders and hair, shower your lingerie with it. Your every movement will be scent - filled.

Your housework will be less tiring if you plan it well. Spread the work over several days; take many rest periods during the day; sit at work whenever possible and install kitchen equipment that requires little upkeep.

MR. AND MRS. REGINALD FUTCH

Futch-Peacock Vows Pledged In Home Ceremony

Miss Evelyn Peacock and Reginald Futch exchanged vows in an impressive home ceremony December 19 at 7 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. C. F. Gerald read the double ring vows. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. M. L. Peacock and Mrs. Olivia Futch is the mother of the bridegroom.

Tall baskets of white gladioli marked the improvised altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Milton O. Peacock. She was lovely in a mauve suit trimmed in purple pearls and rhinestones which formed a peplum on the right side of the coat. She wore a pink satin hat and veil with rhinestone clip and carried a white Bible centered with a purple orchid with white streamers.

Miss Laverne Cockrell, maid of honor, was attired in a pink wool jersey model trimmed in white. She wore a white winter felt hat with white carnations.

Eugene Cox served the groom as best man.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a black crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Futch, the groom's mother, was wearing a navy suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink camellias.

A reception was held at eight o'clock in the home of the groom's brother at 405 Circle drive.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cloth and centered with a reflector which held her bouquet. The wedding cake was placed opposite the punch bowl. Slender white tapers completed the table arrangement.

The couple spent the wedding trip in Dallas, Tex., and Shreveport.

They are now at home to their friends at 307 Mill street, West Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Business College.

The bridegroom graduated from Farmerville High School and Northeast State College.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Farrar of Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Peacock of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. Milton O. Peacock of Oxford, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Burkett of Kingsville, Tex.

Roamin' In The Rural

Homemaking can be a lot easier and will take a lot less time if the housewife gives a little thought to the little things which take up the homemaker's time, believes Euna Spielman, home demonstration agent, L.S.U. agricultural extension service.

"Wax dustpans so that dust and dirt will slide off easily," she advises. "Line wastebasket with paper bag or oilcloth. Place all damp kitchen garbage in the empty tin cans before putting it into the wastebasket. Coat the bottoms of the wastebasket and garbage container with paraffin to prevent them from rusting.

"To keep the tops of metal salt shakers from corroding, cover the inside of the tops with melted paraffin and then open the holes with a pin as the paraffin cools. Before cleaning a stove or furnace, rub soap under your fingernails to prevent dirt from getting under them. Paper doilies or paper napkins placed between fine china plates will help prevent scratching. Outing flannel or other cloth can also be used.

"Save steps by storing kitchen utensils near the place where they are first used. Near the stove, store frying pans, pancake turner, two-tine long fork, potato or food masher, ladle and cooling rack. Near the sink, store dishpan, dish draining rack, vegetable brush colander, and wire strainer. Near the mixing center, store rotary egg beater, mixing bowls, can opener, measuring spoons, custard cups, and casserole. Near the serving center, store the orange juicer and the bread or slicing knife," she recommends.

When you are baking drop biscuits, spread only the space where the biscuit will be placed with butter or margarine, instead of greasing the whole pan. Saves work when you're washing the pan!

Young Couple Pledge Vows In Home Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Purdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Purdy of Calhoun, and Bobby Joe Farr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Farr also of Calhoun, were married in a beautiful home ceremony performed by the Rev. E. L. Tanner.

Baskets of white mums marked the improvised altar in the Purdy's home. An artistic array of white carnations decorated the mantel.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a strapless white net waltz-length dress with a scalloped overskirt of imported lace and matching lace jacket with gondolets of white lace. She wore a crown of dwarf carnations with tube roses and white net with white satin shoes and carried a white Bible covered by carnations and tube roses.

Mrs. Bill Walker, matron of honor, was wearing a blue velvet ankle-length gown with a net overskirt and off the shoulder neckline.

Benny Hortman served the groom as best man.

At the reception which followed the wedding, the table was covered in a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by bride and groom figurines. Bouquets of pink carnations and pink chrysanthemums were placed at vantage points throughout the dining room.

Mrs. J. W. Griggs presided at the punch bowl. The guest book was kept by Miss Nell Griggs. Individual cakes embossed in pink also adorned the table.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Purdy wore a blue suit with black accessories. Mrs. Farr, the bridegroom's mother, wore a blue crepe model with black velvet accessories.

For traveling the bride changed to a black velvet suit with white cuffs and blouse. Her corsage was of white tube roses.

The couple will reside in Kingsville, Tex., where the groom is stationed with the U. S. Naval Air Corps.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. M. L. DeFreese; Mrs. R. J. Wills; Mrs. Earnest St. John; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen; Mrs. Catherine Lambert; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Medak; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Williamson; Mr. and Mrs. James Posten; all of Monroe; Mrs. Laverne Hale of Lake Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Zack Purdy of Meridian, Miss.; Mr. J. P. Purdy of Sulphur.

No Age Limit To Grooming

Good grooming implies both self-respect and consideration for others. Everyone prefers the company of those who are attractive to see as well as hear.

This is true of people regardless of their ages. Because one has grandchildren, there is no reason to think it is unnecessary or unbecoming to take care in grooming.

The older woman should be as concerned as her daughter that her hair is attractively arranged, that her hat is becoming and that her dress is dignified but not dowdy. Her shoes should be neither frivolous nor ungracefully sturdy.

Cosmetics can be used to avoid that faded look without acquiring a hard look in turn. A touch of powder, lipstick and eyebrow pencil can do wonders for the mature woman. Today cosmetics have such complete social acceptance that the woman who wears none at all is the one who now invites the stares.

Glass-Eyed Hog Dog Is Starred In Hotel Art Show

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Alice Caddy's Catahoula hog dog—glass-eye, leopard-type—is going on the road.

It's not her dog, really. Her husband, novelist Ben Lucien Burman, gave it melancholy fame in his books after he stumbled across it down in the Louisiana swamps. But Alice Caddy was the first person to put a Catahoula hound's portrait on paper, and by now she undoubtedly could draw one in her sleep.

What has started the hound traveling was the fact that it got hung, in the artistic sense, on the walls of the Alonquin Hotel, a New York hostelry noted for its literary and theatrical clientele but not necessarily for art.

This fall, however, the Alonquin was persuaded to lend its lobby walls to its first art exhibit, a one-woman show by Mrs. Burman which also marked the debut of her husband's newest book, "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver," one of the big literary hits of the year.

The fact that all the work in Mrs. Burman's show was taken from illustrations she has done for her husband's books since the days of "Steamboat Round the Bend" and "Blow for Landing" is no mere literary coincidence.

The Burmans have been a writer-illustrator team almost since the day, back in the 20s, when she had to lend Ben five cents for carfare to get uptown from Greenwich Village to find out he'd sold his first big-money short story.

Alice Caddy was going strong in those days, doing magazine covers and fashion illustrations. But she listened to the music of the steamboat whistles her husband keeps writing about, and first thing, she knew she was married and keeping house in North Africa, where Ben Burman wrote his first novel.

Not long after that, when they were traveling down the Mississipp Mrs. Burman got out her sketch pad and drew the river folk her husband talked with. His publisher asked for the sketches, and Alice Caddy became part of the family by-line.

Along with the Catahoula hound dog, Mrs. Burman likes best to draw any kind of an animal, plus the same sort of simple people her husband writes about.

Brought up in Canada, where she decided on an art career because she admired her grandfather's water colors, Mrs. Burman has a shy sense of humor which sparkles in sketches like the one of the Catahoula or the top-hatted fox she created for "High Water at Catfish Bend," a children's book her husband did last year.

"I'm anxious to do another children's book," she says. "But I wouldn't want to stop roaming."

While her husband is writing a book, Mrs. Burman thinks about the illustrations she'll do. "It takes me two months to get in the mood, then a month to do them," she explains.

But she takes sketch notes, just as her husband writes down background material. Nobody along the river or in the Cumberland Hills had ever minded this until last election day in Manchester, Ky., when she was dodging around the town square with her pad and pencil.

A hill woman, in town to vote, rushed to the mayor to tell him there was "a Russian spy in the square, going around taking people's pictures."

It is doubtful whether the Catahoula hound dog would interest the Russians much, but it is now starting to tour the country as an art show, along with the roustabouts, darkies, steamboats and hill people that were on exhibit in New York. With them travels the manuscript of "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver."

"We're calling it the Caddy-Burman train," Mrs. Burman pointed out.

Courtney H. Kelley served the groom as best man.

The bride's table at the reception which followed was overlaid with a handsome white lace cloth and centered by a three - tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The table also held a large punch bowl.

But she takes sketch notes, just as her husband writes down background material. Nobody along the river or in the Cumberland Hills had ever minded this until last election day in Manchester, Ky., when she was dodging around the town square with her pad and pencil.

A hill woman, in town to vote, rushed to the mayor to tell him there was "a Russian spy in the square, going around taking people's pictures."

It is doubtful whether the Catahoula hound dog would interest the Russians much, but it is now starting to tour the country as an art show, along with the roustabouts, darkies, steamboats and hill people that were on exhibit in New York. With them travels the manuscript of "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver."

"We're calling it the Caddy-Burman train," Mrs. Burman pointed out.

PATTERN M259

A Garland Faulkner Original

PROMINENT DESIGNER—SHAPE is the magic word of spring fashion. Even on a hanger the newest dresses have SHAPE. On you, their shapeliness accomplishes miracles of flattery. Here,in this design by exclusive American designer Garland Faulkner, gathered insets (easy to do) make the slender torso even more so. This inspired young man—who handles a curve, line, detail with supreme knowledge of anatomy—seams the bodice to make any waistline seem narrower than possible. Throw away the idea of a belt — it's the very newest look. In pure silk peau de soie, Mr. Faulkner's low-necked Original is supremely elegant for 4 P.M. and after. In tissue cotton or silk print, it's a dress to wear South now, for spring later on. With our exclusive conture pattern, you can be wearing your own Garland Faulkner Original just a short time from this minute.

Pattern M259 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 39-inch fabric.

Curles-Murray

FERRIDAY, — The wedding of Miss Lola Ann Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Murray, of Vidalia, to Bruce Ray Curlee, son of Mrs. Frances Turner of Natchez, Miss., was solemnized on December 26 at the home of the bride's parents at ten o'clock in the morning. The Rev. F. H. Morgan performed the double ring rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. W. R. Womack of Vidalia, sister of the bride served as matron of honor. Throughout the ceremony Miss Lynn Mikell played a program of traditional nuptial music. W. H. Mikell sang "The Lord's Prayer". W. R. Womack served as best man.

A reception was given at the home immediately following the service.

Following their wedding trip Mrs. Curlee will return to Mississippi Southern College, where she will resume her studies, while Mr. Curlee will continue to El Paso, Texas, where he is attending the National Guard Radar School, through a program of the United States Army.

Broil some canned peach halves and serve with bacon and eggs for Sunday brunch. Try them, too, with pancakes or French toast.

MR. AND MRS. EARL K. ROBERTS are shown at the reception which followed their wedding in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. E. Sanders. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney E. Roberts.

Home Ceremony Unites Young Couple Saturday

Miss Charlotte Gay Holley, daughter of Mrs. H. E. Sanders and Mr. W. B. Holley became the bride of Earl K. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney E. Roberts in a quiet home ceremony performed at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Jack Borden in the home of the bride's mother.

Greenery and holly were used to decorate the improvised altar.

Miss Virginia McIntosh was maid of honor. She wore a yellow net over taffeta with white carnations.

Courtney H. Kelley served the groom as best man.

The bride's table at the reception which followed was overlaid with a handsome white lace cloth and centered by a three - tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The table also held a large punch bowl.

For traveling the bride changed to a blue suit with matching accessories and white gloves.

Garden News

Fireside Thoughts Can Unfold In Spring Garden

January and February are two of the most pleasing and profitable months of the year in the Green Thumb calendar.

The gardener relaxes by the fireside and does all the chores in his head as he toasts his toes and dreams of the coming year's garden.

It's amazing the amount of effective work you can accomplish without moving a muscle. So draw up a chair, neighbor, and let's talk about plants and flowers in the front or "public area" of the garden, as landscape artists call it. We'll get around to the back yard later.

Well - groomed foundation plantings and a good lawn, of course, are the mainstays of front yard gardening, but most of us like some friendly, inviting color against the green.

As crocus and tulip fade, we tuck in a few flower plants here and there. With nine out of 10 new home owners, these usually are geraniums and pansies. While both are to be admired, a little imagination and variety is in order for a garden-style treat.

How about combining coleus, dwarf petunias and sweet alyssum in fan - shaped plantings between your foundation evergreens? Try one green and white coleus at the point of the fan, two dwarf petunias of pink or salmon tones and three plants of low growing compact white sweet alyssum at the street-side curve of the fan.

These plantings can be repeated in window boxes with some variegated ivy or Wandering Jew for a vine drop over to soften the stark lines of the box. The repetition of the plants from ground level upward will give a high style touch to your front of the house gardening. The window boxes also could take a few low-growing ageratum for accent.

This simple, inexpensive scheme is particularly effective on white Colonial or Cape Cod style houses. Your window boxes should be painted to match your shutters — if shutters there are. Of course, this is just one plan — you can vary it to suit your house needs.

The message is that you should do a little planning now. Spring will spring on us with a rush. The crocus and daffodil will pop up and do us proud — but then what?

It's time to thumb through the seed catalogue and do a little easy chair color designing and come up with something different yet simple and pretty come summer.

News From The Garden Center

Happy New Year and happy gardening to all is the wish from the Garden Center. One of the simple but effective New Year decorations on display this week is a hurricane lamp made of gilded chicken wire with a tall white candle inside, set on a base of cedar.

Around the base is a wide tailored bow of green ribbon with gold bells attached to the streamers. Gay noisemakers complete the picture. Another table decoration consists of tall white tapers with clusters of magnolia leaves at the base and trailers of silver ivy.

Just received is "An Eighteenth-Century Garland" by Louise B. Fisher, the flower and fruit arrangements of Colonial Williamsburg.

It is a joy to read Mrs. Fisher's account of the flower arrangements she makes, which are among the glories of Williamsburg.

In a manner as ingenuous as her bouquets, she tells what she uses and why. Behind them are the custom and authority of the past and she knows the past well.

To the curious gardener, Mrs. Fisher re-introduces many old friends among early American plant explorers: Peter Collinson and those English eighteenth-century gentleman botanists who sent forth our earliest plant hunters.

Rosebushes Make An Excellent Gift

If you are stuck for a suitable gift for a dear friend don't get panicky, sit down and figure out what his interests are.

Should your friend be a gardener the answer is an easy one and all you need to do is to write or phone your favorite nurseryman to send one or more rose plants at once--or a certificate announcing the arrival next spring of your gift plants.

For gardners, no gift could mean more than a present of the two All-American Rose Selections for 1954, Mojave and Lilibet. Roses are not gifts that pass with the moment; they will bloom in the garden for years to come.

All-America roses are inexpensive, and from a quality standpoint, are the finest in the horticultural field. The current winners are particularly attractive from a gift standpoint because they combine beauty with novelty and charm. Mojave is a hybrid tea of splendid form and color.

It is the most intense orange rose yet developed, and its tall upright plants produce long stems that are perfect for cutting and home arrangement. Lilibet, named for England's lovely queen, is a floribunda of dawn pink which is ideal for beds and borders.

Among the All-America winners with the most impressive records were such perennial favorites as Peace, Charlotte Armstrong, Rubaiyat, Mirandy, Nocturne, Tally-ho and K. T. Marshall. Among the non-winning varieties, Crimson Glory, Eclipse, New Yorker, Rex Anderson and Show Girl.

The pleasant mild autumn and early winter has kept the soil in perfect condition and other than the working in of a complete fertilizer and some organic material like old manure, rose, shrub or tree planting is possible—unless a sudden snowstorm makes digging impossible. Hence the old gardener's suggestion that roses planted now will be all ready to go ahead next spring when the soil warms up.

Hybrid Tea roses like Peace and Crimson Glory may win the blue ribbons at the show, but for all-summer satisfaction few roses can compare with the improved Floribunda roses of which World's Fair, Vogue, Lilibet and Fashion are among the finest.

Well chosen and well grown Floribundas will bloom from June until frost. In fact, as this is being written, the old gardener picked several half-opened buds from the three Fashion plants in the border. Not quite as colorful nor as large as June and September bloom but delightful nevertheless.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

January is a good time to take a look at your place and see how you can improve your landscaping. While the leaves are down, you will see at once where you need evergreens. Do you lose all privacy when the leaves drop in November? This can be remedied by planting evergreens in place of the non - evergreens. Especially where houses are close together, an evergreen tree or evergreen shrubs are needed to screen the windows of one house from the other. Even if residences are somewhat far apart, the different styles of houses which are next door to each other may call for a planting to prevent their being seen together. This is especially true where houses of contemporary design are next to those of some other style.

One of the commonest mistakes in landscaping is the too-large and extensive driveway—the kind that takes up nearly all the front yard or side yard. It is easy to lay out a new driveway which does not ruin the looks of your property. It is only on estates that people lay out circular driveways any more, and even estate owners know that a long driveway is costly to keep up. On small properties, the area you use to turn around can serve as an extra parking space for your intimate friends who come most often to see you. Guests who come to a party can park in the street. In our time, more and more people wish to drive up to their kitchen doors in their cars in order to unload food and packages. When you lay out your driveway, be careful not to make it look as if guests are supposed to come to the kitchen door, too. This is getting to be a problem with everyone. You can make the front or more formal entrance obvious to callers in several different ways. First of all, there must be a walk four feet wide. Anything less than four feet looks stingy and is not practical to walk on. Do not compromise with this dimension unless you wish to deemphasize a walk to some door and make it look very private and for one person only. The planting at the entrance for guests should be important looking enough to show that this is the entrance where you want them to enter the house. The steps, if any, and the door can also show this. A knocker or door bell can have a plate around it so that the eye can see that it is there and meant to be used. — All these things will help. Sometimes it is necessary also to erect a post and put an ornamental light on it. These, however, are mostly for informal places and can easily be overdone. If you already have a good looking front door, and someone has given you an outdoor lantern, you had better put up a post at the entrance to the driveway and put the lantern there instead of at the front door. Such a light out on the driveway can be turned on when guests are expected, to welcome them and guide them to the right house. Your name can also be put on the post if the letters are not too showy. In the country, such a light is a big help to strangers looking for your place. The light can shine on the mail box where your name is.

As you drive around looking at people's houses and landscaping, you will see that a surprising number of residences are still displaying laundry floating in the wind. For this there is absolutely no excuse. A long line of clothes can be reduced to the whirligig type of dryer even if you do not think clothes dry as fast as they do on a line. A screen of shrubs can hide either one. Garbage cans and trash containers can be hidden or made acceptable looking by enclosing them in a neat structure painted some color to harmonize with the surroundings. Dark green is bad because it cannot harmonize with anything in or out of Nature!

Does your flower border lack an evergreen background? If it does, you cannot escape the fact that six tulips will show up better with a dark green background than six hundred against plain air. All these evergreens and backgrounds do not necessarily have to make your place look "formal." Some gardeners are afraid to plant evergreens because they think these plants give their place a too pretentious formal appearance. Evergreens are the most important part of your landscape while the leaves are down, and that is a period of three or four months out of each year. You have a wide choice among many kinds of conifers, the cone bearing evergreens of the pine family and among the many broadleaf evergreens which belong to a number of families. Nothing is richer looking, winter or summer, than fine evergreens in the landscape. Here in the south, we should emphasize them because they make winter one of our best seasons.

This has been a great season for the winter irises. From your columnists patch four or five dozen blooms have been picked every few days all during the fall weeks from mid - October. During the colder weeks, many buds freeze, but they still keep coming out and trying to open. This will go on right up till the first week in March when the season finally comes to a close. Christmas roses are wonderful, too, but they do not put out as many blooms over as long a season as winter irises do.

Driving around the Twin Cities, I notice very little freeze damage to plants. Of course the susanqua and camellia blooms were killed and most of the buds that were showing color. The tighter buds show no damage. Even the dwarf gardenias that won't take very much freeze are not even touched.

Around the Garden

That poinsetta plant you enjoyed during the holiday season is probably beginning to rest now. Provide a dark place for your plant where it will not freeze. Water only enough to keep it alive until spring when you'll cut back the plant, water and place it in the sun. They can be set in the open ground in the spring when danger of freeze is gone.

When you thin out your verbena, be sure to share the plants with a neighbor. You'll have masses of color all Spring and Summer.

Be thinking about those shade trees before the planting season is gone. You may want an evergreen one such as magnolia, live oak, pine or holly. Some like the deciduous trees better. Among those are pecan, pin oak, tulip tree, maple, elm, gingko and ash. If there is any place where you can work in a pine thicket, it will repay you by furnishing you mulch for years to come. Please don't plant them in straight rows. Copy nature's way.

Vines are fine for filling in the blanks around a new place—positions to be taken over by shrubs later. Some of these are black-eyed Susan and balloon vine. Others are morning glory, cardinal climber, cyprus vine. Vines that climb by means of little tendrils are perfectly satisfied with a wire fence or any kind of trellis. Twiners on the other hand will happily skin up anything they can hang on to.

Vines need little pruning except for the removal of dead wood or scraggly growth. They are often trained to climb on pillars, stumps of dead trees, or living trees, to frame windows and doorways and to screen unsightly buildings. When used on trees, it is best for you to tie the vines loosely against the tree trunk several times until the vines reach the branches. Vines are not detrimental to adult trees. Other vines that are satisfactory are: clematis, gourd vine, red honeysuckle, wisteria, yellow jasmine and trumpet vine. Once established these vines will thrive with no attention beyond customary watering in time of drouth, and any training necessary to correct wayward tendencies. Many will self-sow year after year. Remember clematis likes lime in the soil, wants its feet in the shade, its head in the sun.

Get ready for rose planting. The plants in our nurseries are the finest I've seen in several years, and you'll find all your favorite varieties. We'll talk about roses more next Sunday.

Replenish Sheets

January is white sale month. You'll be buying sheets either percale or muslin. Read the label before buying so you'll get the size you need for your bed. Remember the size on the label is the torn length of the sheet before hemming. Since they are not preshrunk, you'll have to allow for that. A 108 inch sheet after hemming and laundering is about 98 to 100 inches. You'll notice your label states the thread count of the sheet. This is given as number of threads per square inch. For muslin this is usually 140. For percale 180 to 200. When laundry is paid for by weight, heavier sheets will increase the cost of the weekly washing. Some women believe it cheaper in the long run to buy lighter weight sheets and pay less in laundry bills, even though less wear can be expected from them.

Food Plentifuls

Good food buys for January are pecans, cabbage, grapefruit, eggs, beef, broilers, and fryers, frozen fish, dairy products, winter pears, raisins, dry lima beans, food fats and oils, peanuts and peanut butter, onions, particularly the yellow globe type, and potatoes.

In choosing potatoes, look for firm, smooth, well-shaped, clean ones, free from rot and blemishes. Green color on potatoes is caused by sunburn and will likely make them taste bitter. In estimating needs, one pound of potatoes will give you enough for 4 or 5 servings of half a cup each serving. New potatoes have more vitamin C. Louisiana yams provide you vitamin A in addition to vitamin C. Potatoes store best at from 60 to 70 degrees and that's about ordinary room temperature.

Removing Candle Wax Drippings

Since the holiday season has just past, and holidays mean candles, again the old project of removing wax drippings from linens must be handled. First scrape the wax drippings with a dull table knife. Then use a cleaning fluid to sponge the stain just as you would remove any grease spot. If any color is left, mix one part of rubbing alcohol with two parts of water and sponge the remaining color with this clean mixture.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—I have a gardenia plant and would like to know how to care for it. It is a year old and between two and three feet high.

A--It must be kept in a sunny cool window and the foliage sprayed daily with tepid water. It requires an acid soil, so water the soil once a month with ammonium sulfate, two teaspoons to a quart of water. Mealy bugs and red spider are most likely to appear, but weekly syringing of the foliage and dusting the under side of the leaves, once every two or three weeks with sulfur, will get rid of these pests. In summer just plant the pot and all outdoors in a sunny place. Cut back if the plant is getting too large.

GROWING PAINS

By ALBERT S. FULLING

Consistently successful gardeners trim their basic seed and plant order to those varieties which have yielded good results in the past.

It doesn't make sense to waste time and effort, money and garden space on failures.

But on the other hand, don't be afraid to try something new.

Give yourself one auventure in gardening each year—just for the fun of it.

Try growing lavender, or rubrum lillies, or Formosa lillies, or egg plant or even pumpkins. Pick your adventure—and give it a whirl.

A few years ago I invested a modest sum and a little time on the experiment of raising coleus, fibrous rooted begonia and geranium from seed. The setting was a south window for all the sun possible. A 100-watt electric bulb was a pinch hitter for Old Sol on dark winter days. At night the shade was pulled down on the window to keep out the chill.

Each seed packet carries explicit directions for planting. A long step to success in gardening is taken the day you learn to read and follow directions for planting and growing. The geranium seeds have to be soaked, then worked gently between the fingers to remove the outer husks. The coleus and begonia seeds require careful handling, but you'll manage nicely by following directions.

Two cautions in growing seeds indoors: the first concerns the soil, and the second, the old "damping off" bugaboo.

The texture of soil is important. It must be loose, mellow and fine enough to pass through a quarter-inch screen mesh. Mix one part garden loam, one part builder's sand, one part peat moss and screen. Do not use any fertilizer. An ordinary clay pot, the low, wide-mouthed kind florists use for spring bulbs, is handy.

Damping off is caused by fungi in the soil which attack the tiny seedlings and causes rot at the soil level. It can be controlled by sterilizing pots and soil, or pre-treating the seed with a protective dust available at your garden supply house.

Good garden books will tell you how to sterilize. There are several methods. Mine is to place the soil in an old cooking vessel, and bake in an oven for two hours at 400 to 450 degrees. I sterilize the pots by soaking overnight in a solution of ½ cup of formaldehyde to 1½ gallons of water. Let them dry and air for a few days.

You also can buy sterilized pots and soil and save the trouble.

Watering should never be done from above. Soak the pots in water until the surface darkens. Place some glass over the rim of the pot until after germination. Allow air occasionally.

These seeds are slow germinating. Be patient and you'll be rewarded.

Your neighbors may watch your experiment with interest, and predict the seedlings never will reach the blooming stage in season. But you can fool them and have a garden full of glory with plenty to spare.

And you can use the spares to make smart trades with neighbors who have other plant types to swap.

If you rinse silverware and dishes in a large pot, don't leave knives and other sharp instruments in the water. This can cause a nasty cut.

Fireside Thoughts Can Unfold In Spring Garden

January and February are two of the most pleasing and profitable months of the year in the Green Thumb calendar.

The gardener relaxes by the fireside and does all the chores in his head as he toasts his toes and dreams of the coming year's garden.

It's amazing the amount of effective work you can accomplish without moving a muscle. So draw up a chair, neighbor, and let's talk about plants and flowers in the front or "public area" of the garden, as landscape artists call it. We'll get around to the back yard later.

Well - groomed foundation plantings and a good lawn, of course, are the mainstays of front yard gardening, but most of us like some friendly, inviting color against the green.

As crocus and tulip fade, we tuck in a few flower plants here and there. With nine out of 10 new home owners, these usually are geraniums and pansies. While both are to be admired, a little imagination and variety is in order for a garden-style treat.

How about combining coleus, dwarf petunias and sweet alyssum in fan - shaped plantings between your foundation evergreens? Try one green and white coleus at the point of the fan, two dwarf petunias of pink or salmon tones and three plants of low growing compact white sweet alyssum at the street-side curve of the fan.

These plantings can be repeated in window boxes with some variegated ivy or Wandering Jew for a vine drop over to soften the stark lines of the box. The repetition of the plants from ground level upward will give a high style touch to your front of the house gardening. The window boxes also could take a few low-growing ageratum for accent.

This simple, inexpensive scheme is particularly effective on white Colonial or Cape Cod stlye houses. Your window boxes should be painted to match your shutters — if shutters there are. Of course, this is just one plan — you can vary it to suit your house needs.

The message is that you should do a little planning now. Spring will spring on us with a rush. The crocus and daffodil will pop up and do us proud — but then what?

It's time to thumb through the seed catalogue and do a little easy chair color designing and come up with something different yet simple and pretty come summer.

News From The Garden Center

Happy New Year and happy gardening to all is the wish from the Garden Center. One of the simple but effective New Year decorations on display this week is a hurricane lamp made of gilded chicken wire with a tall white candle inside, set on a base of cedar.

Around the base is a wide tailored bow of green ribbon with gold bells attached to the streamers. Gay noisemakers complete the picture. Another table decoration consists of tall white tapers with clusters of magnolia leaves at the base and trailers of silver ivy.

Just received is "An Eighteenth-Century Garland" by Louise B. Fisher, the flower and fruit arrangements of Colonial Williamsburg.

It is a joy to read Mrs. Fisher's account of the flower arrangements she makes, which are among the glories of Williamsburg.

In a manner as ingenuous as her bouquets, she tells what she uses and why. Behind them are the custom and authority of the past and she knows the past well.

To the curious gardener, Mrs. Fisher re-introduces many old friends among early American plant explorers: Peter Collinson and those English eighteenth-century gentleman botanists who sent forth our earliest plant hunters.

Rosebushes Make An Excellent Gift

If you are stuck for a suitable gift for a dear friend don't get panicky, sit down and figure out what his interests are.

Should your friend be a gardener the answer is an easy one and all you need to do is to write or phone your favorite nurseryman to send one or more rose plants at once—or a certificate announcing the arrival next spring of your gift plants.

For gardners, no gift could mean more than a present of the two All-American Rose Selections for 1954, Mojave and Lilibet. Roses are not gifts that pass with the moment; they will bloom in the garden for years to come.

All-America roses are inexpensive, and from a quality standpoint, are the finest in the horticultural field. The current winners are particularly attractive from a gift standpoint because they combine beauty with novelty and charm. Mojave is a hybrid tea of splendid form and color.

It is the most intense orange rose yet developed, and its tall upright plants produce long stems that are perfect for cutting and home arrangement. Lilibet, named for England's lovely queen, is a floribunda of dawn pink which is ideal for beds and borders.

Among the All-America winners with the most impressive records were such perennial favorites as Peace, Charlotte Armstrong, Rubaiyat, Mirandy, Nocturne, Tallyho and K. T. Marshall. Among the non-winning varieties, Crimson Glory, Eclipse, New Yorker, Rex Anderson and Show Girl.

The pleasant mild autumn and early winter has kept the soil in perfect condition and other than the working in of a complete fertilizer and some organic material like old manure, rose, shrub or tree planting is possible—unless a sudden snowstorm makes digging impossible. Hence the old gardener's suggestion that roses planted now will be all ready to go ahead next spring when the soil warms up.

Hybrid Tea roses like Peace and Crimson Glory may win the blue ribbons at the show, but for all-summer satisfaction few roses can compare with the improved Floribunda roses of which World's Fair, Vogue, Lilibet and Fashion are among the finest.

Well chosen and well grown Floribundas will bloom from June until frost. In fact, as this is being written, the old gardener picked several half-opened buds from the three Fashion plants in the border. Not quite as colorful nor as large as June and September bloom but delightful nevertheless.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

January is a good time to take a look at your place and see how you can improve your landscaping. While the leaves are down, you will see at once where you need evergreens. Do you lose all privacy when the leaves drop in November? This can be remedied by planting evergreens in place of the non - evergreens. Especially where houses are close together, an evergreen tree or evergreen shrubs are needed to screen the windows of one house from the other. Even if residences are somewhat far apart, the different styles of houses which are next door to each other may call for a planting to prevent their being seen together. This is especially true where houses of contemporary design are next to those of some other style.

One of the commonest mistakes in landscaping is the too-large and extensive driveway—the kind that takes up nearly all the front yard or side yard. It is easy to lay out a new driveway which does not ruin the looks of your property. It is only on estates that people lay out circular driveways any more, and even estate owners know that a long driveway is costly to keep up. On small properties, the area you use to turn around can serve as an extra parking space for your intimate friends who come most often to see you. Guests who come to a party can park in the street. In our time, more and more people wish to drive up to their kitchen doors in their cars in order to unload food and packages. When you lay out your driveway, be careful not to make it look as if guests are supposed to come to the kitchen door, too. This is getting to be a problem with everyone. You can make the front or more formal entrance obvious to callers in several different ways. First of all, there must be a walk four feet wide. Anything less than four feet looks stingy and is not practical to walk on. Do not compromise with this dimension unless you wish to deemphasize a walk to some door and make it look very private and for one person only. The planting at the entrance for guests should be important looking enough to show that this is the entrance where you want them to enter the house. The steps, if any, and the door can also show this. A knocker or door bell can have a plate around it so that the eye can see that it is there and meant to be used. — All these things will help. Sometimes it is necessary also to erect a post and put an ornamental light on it. These, however, are mostly for informal places and can easily be overdone. If you already have a good looking front door, and someone has given you an outdoor lantern, you had better put up a post at the entrance to the driveway and put the lantern there instead of at the front door. Such a light out on the driveway can be turned on when guests are expected, to welcome them and guide them to the right house. Your name can also be put on the post if the letters are not too showy. In the country, such a light is a big help to strangers looking for your place. The light can shine on the mail box where your name is.

As you drive around looking at people's houses and landscaping, you will see that a surprising number of residences are still displaying laundry floating in the wind. For this there is absolutely no excuse. A long line of clothes can be reduced to the whirligig type of dryer even if you do not think clothes dry as fast as they do on a line. A screen of shrubs can hide either one. Garbage cans and trash containers can be hidden or made acceptable looking by enclosing them in a neat structure painted some color to harmonize with the surroundings. Dark green is bad because it cannot harmonize with anything in or out of Nature!

Does your flower border lack an evergreen background? If it does, you cannot escape the fact that six tulips will show up better with a dark green background than six hundred against plain air. All these evergreens and backgrounds do not necessarily have to make your place look "formal." CENTENARY CHOIR — This great musical group to be presented by Wesley Foundation of Northeast State College in Brown Hall at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Centenary Choir Again To Give Concert Here

Centenary's famous choir, being presented at Northeast Louisiana State College, January 5 at 8 p. m., will delight all who attend assure those who have witnessed this finished production. It is brought here under sponsorship of the Wesley Foundation.

The Centenary College choir, known as Shreveport's Goodwill ambassadors, is the result of not just its director, Alvin C. "Cheesy" Voran, but of hundreds of citizens of Shreveport who have been real "angels" to the Centenarians.

These include the Lions Club of Shreveport, which annually sponsors the choir in a local concert, and many other individuals, all of whom do their part to make the whole choir the entertaining musical aggregation that has been acclaimed throughout the south.

Last year, the choir, always cognizant of the big part these benefactors have played in their success, staged a "thank-you" party for these unseen and unheralded helpers, taking them behind the scenes of the operation of the choir to show their appreciation in a concrete form.

It was during National Music Week, on May 6, that the visitors filed into the attic penthouse quarters of the choir, were served lunch by the 49 singing collegians and their director and then were presented an enlightening program on the workings of the choir.

Director Voran analyzed the choir from beginning to end, declaring, "It takes many, many details to make the Centenary College choir but all you see and hear is this — a man waving his hands and singers smiling and singing."

But the visitors saw more than just that during their visit to the Centenary campus. They were told of the music library, worth thousands of dollars, a $10,000 wardrobe for the choir, the annual singing camp held before the start of each school year and the many other necessary but unnoticed items that are needed before the choir is ready to sing out with "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

Many of the benefactors were paid tribute by name by Voran while others who preferred to remain anonymous were included in the overall thanks expressed by the director and his 49 collegians.

"To be real frank with you," Voran said near the end of the program, "the singers and I asked you here today to lavish on the living the grace of gratitude . . . This choir has a tremendous esprit de corps and a sense of deep, sincere gratitude to you . . . They are grand kids. You are great to us and that combination can't lose."

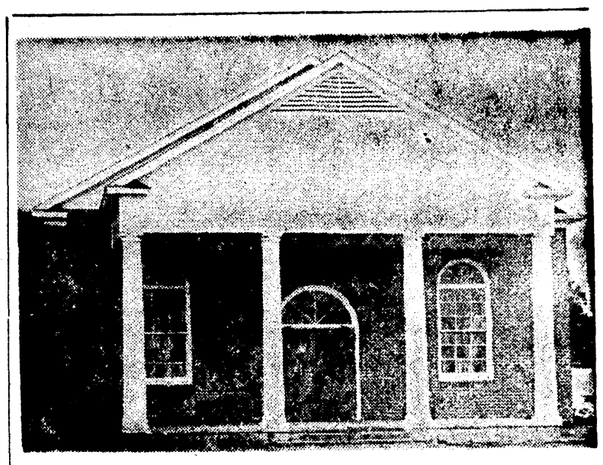
Science Talk Scheduled By Grace J. Noee

The solving of individual and collective problems through the understanding and application of God's spiritual laws will be the topic of a public lecture on Christian Science to be delivered in Monroe, January 4, by Grace Jane Noee of Chicago.

A member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mrs. Noee will speak under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist in Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, at 8 p.m. Her subject will be "Christian Science: Its Premise and Its Practice."

Mrs. Noee withdrew from business life in 1927 to devote herself to the practice of Christian Science heating. Prior to that time, she was head of a large food brokerage business in Chicago.

During her business career, she served as the first president of the Altrusa Club, an international organization of professional and executive business women.



START PROUD OF NEW CHURCH—Shown herewith is the $36,000 sanctuary, educational rooms in a wing not shown, that is now thrown open for service. While only a country church, its progress has been notable with Rev. James Deal as pastor. Today its membership is nearing the 500 mark.

Rural Ouachita Church At Start Makes Progress

The new Start Baptist Church, highway Eighty, east of Monroe, is now in use and causes admiration as it is a country church. Much credit is given to the pastor, Rev. James S. Deal, and to his loyal flock.

In the nine years that the pastor has been here, the church membership has been increased by 172, by baptism and 106 by letter. Today the total membership is 487. There are 269 enrolled in the Sunday school. The training union has 143 enrolled.

One new departure in Sunday school is that of young married people with 20 members.

The church has active W. M. A., Young People's Prayer groups, Royal Ambassadors, Sunbeams and Girls' Auxiliary as well as extension Sunday School and Mission S. S. Work.

A feature of interest is work in the Ouachita parish jail. The third Sunday each month there is a group that goes to the jail to conduct a service. They carry a portable organ along for music to be used in jail and at some funerals.

The new church cost $36,000 with handsom sanctuary painted in pale green with natural varnish and wainscoting. Windows are of stained glass. The baptistry shows a beautiful scene by a talented artist.

There are several Sunday School rooms, a nursery, kitchen, and a pastor's study in the two-story wings of the church. Many rooms are newly furnished, others are still to be so outfitted.

The Start Baptist Church enters the new year with enthusiasm and assurance that its progress will be continued through 1954.

Sunday Worship In Church Only Part Of Service

The service of a church to the city in which it is located geographically is far wider than the conducting of an 11 a. m. Sunday hour of worship and a few varied social and religious gatherings during the week, says a group of fourteen Methodist Church leaders in California under the chairmanship of Dr. George A. Warmer, Jr., of Oakland, California. This commission is preparing a report on "The Urban Church and the Larger Community" to be made to the Methodist Church's "convocation on Urban Life" in Columbus, Ohio, February 24 to 26.

One phase of this commission's study will be to outline ways and means through which a city church will "pioneer in community welfare, planning, and activity" rather than in "drifting" with the social - economic currents or in following the lead of other agencies such as government, school, business, etc. Questions to be answered include: How can the city church contribute to bridging the gap between labor and management? between the races and the varied cultural groups in a city? How can the church cooperate with agencies already serving the community — the city health department, the Red Cross, the service clubs? Can a church be a strong organization unless it also helps to stabilize and strengthen the community from which it draws its membership?

Dr. Warmer and his commission are also making a study of interracial city churches, of the democratic imprint of a church on its community, and of churches that have been successful in making an imprint on civic life. They are also asking "what is the 'community' to be served by a church? Is it geographic or is it wherever people have common interests?"

Cadwallader To Speak Again In College Pl. Church

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, announces that Rev. Chester S. Cadwallader, Jr., will again speak at this church, 301 Sherrouse, Sunday night.

He will show slides of his mission work in Central America in connection with his message. Reverend Cadwallader and family are in the States until February 15 when they are to return to Guatemala as missionaries.

He is to give addresses while in the States in Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas and Alabama.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to hear his talk Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Miguez Will Direct Youth In Argentina

A youth worker from Argentina, the Rev. Jose Miguez, is studying the Methodist program for youth in combination with courses at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn. He expects to use the information when he returns to direct Methodist youth work in the River Plate Conference, which includes Argentina and Uruguay.

Here on a "Crusade Scholarship" given by the Methodist Church, Mr. Miguez completed a year of study at Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Ga., before transferring to Nashville for his second year.

"I have learned to appreciate the ability for organization that American churches have," Mr. Miguez says. He adds that he has been impressed on campuses by the good libraries and laboratories for research.

The young minister has observed churches abroad also. As secretary of Christian education of his home conference, he attended the 1947 World Conference of Christian Youth in Oslo, Norway, the 1952 meeting of the International Missionary Council at Willingen, Germany, and the 1952 World Conference of Faith and Order, Lund, Sweden.

Dr. Aubrey Short To Address 3rd District Pastors

Dr. Aubrey Short, superintendent of Evangelism for the Louisiana Baptist convention, will be the main speaker at the District Three Baptist Pastor's meeting next Monday at 10:00 a.m. The meeting will convene at the Loch Arbor Baptist Church where Rev. Wayne Carpenter is the pastor.

Dr. Short has been working in his present position for nearly a year. He came to this state from Texas, where he held a very successful pastorate. Since his coming to Louisiana, he has held many evangelistic meetings and will lead in the huge simultaneous crusade of 1955 when Louisiana along with all Baptist churches in the western hemisphere will conduct a revival meeting in their churches.

Rev. A. T. Mitchell, president of the conference urged a full attendance. Dr. Tommy Welch will teach an exposition of the scriptures, Rev James Carraway will lead the opening devotional.

CENTENARY CHOIR — This great musical group to be presented by Wesley Foundation of Northeast State College in Brown Hall at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Centenary Choir Again To Give Concert Here

Centenary's famous choir, being presented at Northeast Louisiana State College, January 5 at 8 p. m., will delight all who attend assure those who have witnessed this finished production. It is brought here under sponsorship of the Wesley Foundation.

The Centenary College choir, known as Shreveport's Goodwill ambassadors, is the result of not just its director, Alvin C. "Cheesy" Voran, but of hundreds of citizens of Shreveport who have been real "angels" to the Centenarians.

These include the Lions Club of Shreveport, which annually sponsors the choir in a local concert, and many other individuals, all of whom do their part to make the whole choir the entertaining musical aggregation that has been acclaimed throughout the south.

Last year, the choir, always cognizant of the big part these benefactors have played in their success, staged a "thank-you" party for these unseen and unheralded helpers, taking them behind the scenes of the operation of the choir to show their appreciation in a concrete form.

It was during National Music Week, on May 6, that the visitors filed into the attic penthouse quarters of the choir, were served lunch by the 49 singing collegians and their director and then were presented an enlightening program on the workings of the choir.

Director Voran analyzed the choir from beginning to end, declaring, "It takes many, many details to make the Centenary College choir but all you see and hear is this — a man waving his hands and singers smiling and singing."

But the visitors saw more than just that during their visit to the Centenary campus. They were told of the music library, worth thousands of dollars, a $10,000 wardrobe for the choir, the annual singing camp held before the start of each school year and the many other necessary but unnoticed items that are needed before the choir is ready to sing out with "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

Many of the benefactors were paid tribute by name by Voran while others who preferred to remain anonymous were included in the overall thanks expressed by the director and his 49 collegians.

"To be real frank with you," Voran said near the end of the program, "the singers and I asked you here today to lavish on the living the grace of gratitude . . . This choir has a tremendous esprit de corps and a sense of deep, sincere gratitude to you . . . They are grand kids. You are great to us and that combination can't lose."

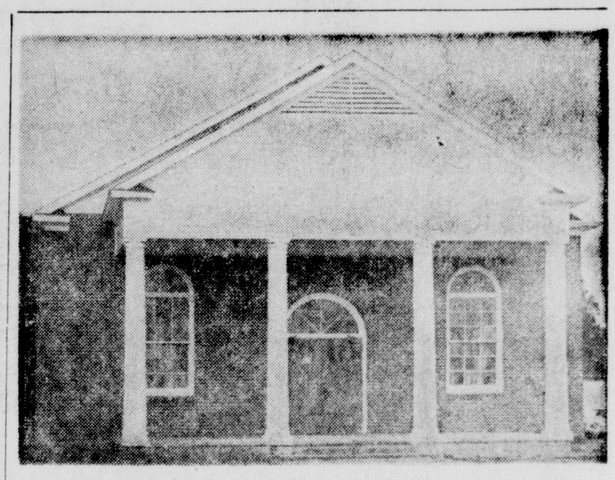
Science Talk Scheduled By Grace J. Noee

The solving of individual and collective problems through the understanding and application of God's spiritual laws will be the topic of a public lecture on Christian Science to be delivered in Monroe, January 4, by Grace Jane Noee of Chicago.

A member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mrs. Noee will speak under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist in Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, at 8 p.m. Her subject will be "Christian Science: Its Premise and Its Practice."

Mrs. Noee withdrew from business life in 1927 to devote herself to the practice of Christian Science heating. Prior to that time, she was head of a large food brokerage business in Chicago.

During her business career, she served as the first president of the Altrusa Club, an international organization of professional and executive business women.



START PROUD OF NEW CHURCH—Shown herewith is the $36,000 sanctuary, educational rooms in a wing not shown, that is now thrown open for service. While only a country church, its progress has been notable with Rev. James Deal as pastor. Today its membership is nearing the 500 mark.

Rural Ouachita Church At Start Makes Progress

The new Start Baptist Church, highway Eighty, east of Monroe, is now in use and causes admiration as it is a country church. Much credit is given to the pastor, Rev. James S. Deal, and to his loyal flock.

In the nine years that the pastor has been here, the church membership has been increased by 172, by baptism and 106 by letter. Today the total membership is 487. There are 269 enrolled in the Sunday school. The training union has 148 enrolled.

One new departure in Sunday school is that of young married people with 20 members.

The church has active W. M. A., Young People's Prayer groups, Royal Ambassadors, Sunbeams and Girls' Auxiliary as well as extension Sunday School and Mission S. S. Work.

A feature of interest is work in the Ouachita parish jail. The third Sunday each month there is a group that goes to the jail to conduct a service. They carry a portable organ along for music to be used in jail and at some funerals.

The new church cost $36,000 with handsom sanctuary painted in pale green with natural varnish and wainscoting. Windows are of stained glass. The baptistry shows a beautiful scene by a talented artist.

There are several Sunday School rooms, a nursery, kitchen, and a pastor's study in the two-story wings of the church. Many rooms are newly furnished, others are still to be so outfitted.

The Start Baptist Church enters the new year with enthusiasm and assurance that its progress will be continued through 1954.

Sunday Worship In Church Only Part Of Service

The service of a church to the city in which it is located geographically is far wider than the conducting of an 11 a. m. Sunday hour of worship and a few varied social and religious gatherings during the week, says a group of fourteen Methodist Church leaders in California under the chairmanship of Dr. George A. Warmer, Jr., of Oakland, California. This commission is preparing a report on "The Urban Church and the Larger Community" to be made to the Methodist Church's "convocation on Urban Life" in Columbus, Ohio, February 24 to 26.

One phase of this commission's study will be to outline ways and means through which a city church will "pioneer in community welfare, planning, and activity" rather than in "drifting" with the social - economic currents or in following the lead of other agencies such as government, school, business, etc. Questions to be answered include: How can the city church contribute to bridging the gap between labor and management? between the races and the varied cultural groups in a city? How can the church cooperate with agencies already serving the community — the city health department, the Red Cross, the service clubs? Can a church be a strong organization unless it also helps to stabilize and strengthen the community from which it draws its membership?

Dr. Warmer and his commission are also making a study of interracial city churches, of the democratic imprint of a church on its community, and of churches that have been successful in making an imprint on civic life. They are also asking "what is the 'community' to be served by a church? Is it geographic or is it wherever people have common interests?"

Cadwallader To Speak Again In College Pl. Church

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, announces that Rev. Chester S. Cadwallader, Jr., will again speak at this church, 301 Sherrouse, Sunday night.

He will show slides of his mission work in Central America in connection with his message. Reverend Cadwallader and family are in the States until February 15 when they are to return to Guatemala as missionaries.

He is to give addresses while in the States in Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas and Alabama.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to hear his talk Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Miguez Will Direct Youth In Argentina

A youth worker from Argentina, the Rev. Jose Miguez, is studying the Methodist program for youth in combination with courses at Scaritt College in Nashville, Tenn. He expects to use the information when he returns to direct Methodist youth work in the River Plate Conference, which includes Argentina and Uruguay.

Here on a "Crusade Scholarship" given by the Methodist Church, Mr. Miguez completed a year of study at Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Ga., before transferring to Nashville for his second year.

"I have learned to appreciate the ability for organization that American churches have," Mr. Miguez says. He adds that he has been impressed on campuses by the good libraries and laboratories for research.

The young minister has observed churches abroad also. As secretary of Christian education of his home conference, he attended the 1947 World Conference of Christian Youth in Oslo, Norway, the 1952 meeting of the International Missionary Council at Willingen, Germany, and the 1952 World Conference of Faith and Order, Lund, Sweden.

Dr. Aubrey Short To Address 3rd District Pastors

Dr. Aubrey Short, superintendent of Evangelism for the Louisiana Baptist convention, will be the main speaker at the District Three Baptist Pastor's meeting next Monday at 10:00 a.m. The meeting will convene at the Loch Arbor Baptist Church where Rev. Wayne Carpenter is the pastor.

Dr. Short has been working in his present position for nearly a year. He came to this state from Texas, where he held a very successful pastorate. Since his coming to Louisiana, he has held many evangelistic meetings and will lead in the huge simultaneous crusade of 1955 when Louisiana along with all Baptist churches in the western hemisphere will conduct a revival meeting in their churches.

Rev. A. T. Mitchell, president of the conference urged a full attendance. Dr. Tommy Welch will teach an exposition of the scriptures, Rev James Carraway will lead the opening devotional.

Methodists In Brownville To Conduct Revival

The Brownville Methodist Church, 1301 Alvin St., West Monroe, of which Rev. Tillman A. Brown is pastor, is starting a revival today. It will be continued through January 10.

Rev. James T. Harris, district superintendent, Monroe district, will bring the messages.

Services are to be held each night at 7:30 o'clock.

The public is cordially invited.

New Years Eve Is Setting Of Wedding

A New Year's Eve wedding took place at Cheniere last Thursday when Miss Mary Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Taylor, was married to William L. Pace, son of Herman Pace.

The bride's age was given as 15 and the groom 25 years old.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A taxi driver, John H. Sartori, not only took a couple to City Hall for a marriage license but later married them in his cab. Mary C. Kratzke and Sydney H. Dean accepted his offer after learning he also is a justice of the peace.

By Jimmy Fidler

Good Music Is Preference

HOLLYWOOD, December 26 — A mighty encouraging sign of our musical times is the fact that the public is showing a decided preference for good music, both in motion pictures and other media. If I may be permitted to coin a phrase, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith have developed a new and greater appreciation of "mink music," as contrasted to music of the "broadcloth" variety. And that's certainly a happy token guaranteeing a richer life for all concerned.

Be-Bop music is losing popularity with the great mass of Americans, I'm pleased to observe. Now the public is demonstrating a greater enjoyment of really fine and, at times, serious music, rather than the trash can type of composition. This trend is definitely in evidence in the music being used in movies, such as "Hans Christian Andersen," which I had the privilege of being identified with as musical director. And, speaking of "Hans Christian Andersen," members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences considered the picture good enough musically to give it a nomination in its class, if you'll pardon my synthetic modesty.

I can hear you asking what caused this trend towards good music? What inspired it? Well, there are various reasons. One is the natural tendency on the part of human beings to strive for something better, whether it is music or anything else. Another is the fact that fine music via radio and sometimes television has had the effect of developing public tastes along improved lines. And still another is that hundreds of thousands of service men, now returned to this country in many instances, have been exposed to good music for the first time in their lives and have acquired an appreciation of it.

America, in contrast to the Old World countries, lacks the advantage of centuries of enjoyment of serious music. But we are fast making up for lost time in this respect, judging from audiences attracted to motion pictures employing fine music, concerts and radio and television programs, as well as by new recordings.

Personally, I feel that every person associated with the music end of the motion picture industry has a firm obligation to help develop good taste in music—that they should take time out from their commercial chores to help in this respect. This can be accomplished, in part, through a concerted effort to explain the meaning of the music about to be played—by interpreting its story and moods. Then, the public, with a greater understanding of what the music is trying to say, will discover a new and broader enjoyment of it.

The quality of motion picture music is considerably improving, despite the restrictions imposed upon it by production requirements. Writing music for the movies is perhaps, in some respects, more of a challenge than writing other types of music, in which there are virtually no limitations and restrictions. Of course, there's always the haunting spectre of budgets, which, translated, means that old devil clock. And, of course, there is always the necessity of composing music for a given situation, tailoring music to fit specific requirements.

For example, I've just completed scoring "French Line," the Jane Russell picture, at RKO studios. But let me clarify my contribution to this picture, and others, such as my current assignment, the Martin and Lewis production, "Living It Up." Songs are written by various writers but the work of a musical director, such as myself, mostly involves arranging music for the production and conducting the orchestra which scores it later. The musical end of a film adds up to a collaboration between various elements.

Music, as I see it, should enhance and dramatize the telling of a story in pictures, rather than serve to distract audience attention from the plot. It should create atmosphere and mood and stimulate interest in the tale being unfolded, rather than function as a competitor for audience attention. It even can help amplify visual characterizations by inventing a musical background synchronized to the person being portrayed. Its language is international as it plays upon the emotions of the audiene.

Hollywood films are effectively serving as ambassadors of good music through reaching into the consciousness of audiences throughout the world. They are cultivating tastes hithertofore uncultivated. They are enriching the lives of millions of people through bringing to them broader cultural vistas. Our pictures should emphatically continue this policy, not only for cultural reasons but for commercial reasons, as well. It is the obligation of the motion picture industry to join in this significant movement to promote appreciation of "mink music."

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This is a reply to "Homely," who hates woman. At his age of 29, he is too legal-minded. When he has a date, he probably does nothing but talk about what a great lawyer he is. Can you imagine a girl having a good time listening to the law read to her all evening? Wake up, Homely, and when you do get a girl to date you, leave your legal mind in your office and stop showing off how smart you think you are. Looks don't mean a thing as I am ugly-homely, too, but for 16 years have been happily married to the best-looking girl in the crowd. — Smokey

PS — For a big-time lawyer (your attitude) you don't sound very intelligent.

Dear Ann Landers: Three of us girls in the office were really shocked when we read the letter signed by "Homely." He said he guessed he would have to go to Europe for a girl . . . well, as far as we are concerned he can join the Foreign Legion! No one will miss him. He not only hates women, he hates himself, the world and everyone in it. Why blame women because he is homely? — Three Girls

Dear Mrs. Landers: Maybe if "Homely" went to church to pray to meet a girl instead of to find one there, he would have more success. It isn't how a person looks that matters, but what he feels in his heart. — Lorraine

Dear Mrs. Landers: "Homely" has a problem that is common to most people in varying degrees. The majority are not good-looking but personality, good taste, charm and cleanliness get most of us by and are available to everyone.

A man who can successfully build a law practice and hold his own in the world of business should not find it so hard to get along in other ways. Too many of us are sorry for ourselves and need to turn our attention outward and away from little, common deficiences. — Helen B.

Dear Ann: "Homely" is all wrong. I have a 24-year-old daughter who has numerous girl friends. All of them say that "looks do not matter," they want a man who is clean and dependable, who is not afraid to work, who doesn't overdrink and who would treat them with respect. — M. G.

Dear Ann Landers: Like "Homely," I am beginning to feel as bitter toward men as he is toward women. I am average in looks, have a nice personality, don't drink or smoke but, because of a physical handicap, my chances of dating are nil . . . and, "Homely" thinks HE has a problem? — Miss M.

Mrs. Landers: I have just read the problem of, "Myers Hurt," (Yes I got it!), and I disagree with your answer. Why should the entire office staff suffer with one guy's illusion of grandeur? We got a fella like him, and working next to a boiler factory would be pleasant compared to his constant whistling and humming. When we ask him to stop he says that he likes it and doesn't have to. We're in sympathy with, "Myers Hurt," (Yes, I got it!).—OURZDEWTWO

It Takes Only Eight Weeks To Improve Your Figure

1953 went whizzing by so fast that I can hardly believe we are at the beginning of another year, but we are, and here it is, that great feeling of starting in on 12 brand new months.

These bits of time can make many changes in us if we apply ourselves to them. You may have procrastinated last year. You may have let your New Year's resolutions grow cold and meaningless although you were sincere when you made them. This year why not make them stick?

Why not lose that burdensome overweight which makes you look and feel so much older? Why not slim down the bulges which make you self-conscious? You can do it in a short time. Why not experience the feeling of zest which comes with exercise, a slim waist and correct weight? Why not really take care of your health this year? Why not see to it that you get enough sleep, eat correctly and get some exercise?

It is human to put off until tomorrow what we should begin today. Today we are too busy. Today we are too tired. Today we are too rushed but we will begin tomorrow or next week.

Somehow we never make that important beginning. Tomorrow we procrastinate until the next tomorrow, the weeks fly by and we are suddenly faced with the fact that another year has passed and we have accomplished nothing in the way of self-improvement. This can go on for a lifetime, and often does, unless you take measures now.

Each year at this time I offer you my Eight Week Self-Improvement Marathon to help you get over the hump. In just eight weeks you can make such a great improvement in yourself.

Most of my readers know about Marathon but in case some of you do not let me tell you a bit about it. Every year tens of thousands of women join Marathon to see how much improvement they can make in themselves in eight weeks under my direction. Later on many of them write to me, telling of their results. This is a big thrill for your Aunt Josie.

Later on in the summer I publish the results of some of the Marathon winners, without names, of course.

If you would like to join women all over the country in the exciting venture of becoming a more attractive YOU in eight weeks, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my Marathon booklet which includes a chart for recording your progress. A. unit in east Baton Rouge, member of the state executive council of classroom teachers from the sixth congressional district, consultant in a number of workshops throughout the state.

She also participates in many civic enterprises. At present she is a member of the board of directors of the United Givers Fund, of the budget committee of the Community Chest, and of the executive council of the Camp Fire Girls organization.

Preceding the meeting, there will be a coffee hour from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. in the First Baptist Church to honor Mrs. Kirby and other state officers invited to be present: Mrs. Lizzie Riser, Ruston, vice president; Mrs. Helen Ortis, West Monroe, secretary; Mrs. Violet Gates, Winnfield, treasurer; Mrs. Ione Hill, Monroe, fifth congressional district executive council member; Miss Ruth Johnson, retiring fifth district council member.

In Hollywood

Good Music Is Preference

HOLLYWOOD, December 26 — A mighty encouraging sign of our musical times is the fact that the public is showing a decided preference for good music, both in motion pictures and other media. If I may be permitted to coin a phrase, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith have developed a new and greater appreciation of "mink music," as contrasted to music of the "broadcloth" variety. And that's certainly a happy token guaranteeing a richer life for all concerned.

Be-Bop music is losing popularity with the great mass of Americans, I'm pleased to observe. Now the public is demonstrating a greater enjoyment of really fine and, at times, serious music, rather than the trash can type of composition. This trend is definitely in evidence in the music being used in movies, such as "Hans Christian Andersen," which I had the privilege of being identified with as musical director. And, speaking of "Hans Christian Andersen," members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences considered the picture good enough musically to give it a nomination in its class, if you'll pardon my synthetic modesty.

I can hear you asking what caused this trend towards good music? What inspired it? Well, there are various reasons. One is the natural tendency on the part of human beings to strive for something better, whether it is music or anything else. Another is the fact that fine music via radio and sometimes television has had the effect of developing public tastes along improved lines. And still another is that hundreds of thousands of service men, now returned to this country in many instances, have been exposed to good music for the first time in their lives and have acquired an appreciation of it.

America, in contrast to the Old World countries, lacks the advantage of centuries of enjoyment of serious music. But we are fast making up for lost time in this respect, judging from audiences attracted to motion pictures employing fine music, concerts and radio and television programs, as well as by new recordings.

Personally, I feel that every person associated with the music end of the motion picture industry has a firm obligation to help develop good taste in music—that they should take time out from their commercial chores to help in this respect. This can be accomplished, in part, through a concerted effort to explain the meaning of the music about to be played—by interpreting its story and moods. Then, the public, with a greater understanding of what the music is trying to say, will discover a new and broader enjoyment of it.

The quality of motion picture music is considerably improving, despite the restrictions imposed upon it by production requirements. Writing music for the movies is perhaps, in some respects, more of a challenge than writing other types of music, in which there are virtually no limitations and restrictions. Of course, there's always the haunting spectre of budgets, which, translated, means that old devil clock. And, of course, there is always the necessity of composing music for a given situation, tailoring music to fit specific requirements.

For example, I've just completed scoring "French Line," the Jane Russell picture, at RKO studios. But let me clarify my contribution to this picture, and others, such as my current assignment, the Martin and Lewis production, "Living It Up." Songs are written by various writers but the work of a musical director, such as myself, mostly involves arranging music for the production and conducting the orchestra which scores it later. The musical end of a film adds up to a collaboration between various elements.

Music, as I see it, should enhance and dramatize the telling of a story in pictures, rather than serve to distract audience attention from the plot. It should create atmosphere and mood and stimulate interest in the tale being unfolded, rather than function as a competitor for audience attention. It even can help amplify visual characterizations by inventing a musical background synchronized to the person being portrayed. Its language is international as it plays upon the emotions of the audiene.

Hollywood films are effectively serving as ambassadors of good music through reaching into the consciousness of audiences throughout the world. They are cultivating tastes hithertofore uncultivated. They are enriching the lives of millions of people through bringing to them broader cultural vistas. Our pictures should emphatically continue this policy, not only for cultural reasons but for commercial reasons, as well. It is the obligation of the motion picture industry to join in this significant movement to promote appreciation of "mink music."

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This is a reply to "Homely," who hates woman. At his age of 29, he is too legal-minded. When he has a date, he probably does nothing but talk about what a great lawyer he is. Can you imagine a girl having a good time listening to the law read to her all evening? Wake up, Homely, and when you do get a girl to date you, leave your legal mind in your office and stop showing off how smart you think you are. Looks don't mean a thing as I am ugly-homely, too, but for 16 years have been happily married to the best-looking girl in the crowd. — Smokey

PS — For a big-time lawyer (your attitude) you don't sound very intelligent.

Dear Ann Landers: Three of us girls in the office were really shocked when we read the letter signed by "Homely." He said he guessed he would have to go to Europe for a girl . . . well, as far as we are concerned he can join the Foreign Legion! No one will miss him. He not only hates women, he hates himself, the world and everyone in it. Why blame women because he is homely? — Three Girls

Dear Mrs. Landers: Maybe if "Homely" went to church to pray to meet a girl instead of to find one there, he would have more success. It isn't how a person looks that matters, but what he feels in his heart. — Lorraine

Dear Mrs. Landers: "Homely" has a problem that is common to most people in varying degrees. The majority are not good-looking but personality, good taste, charm and cleanliness get most of us by and are available to everyone.

'Here Come The Girls' Is Musical Comedy

A dazzling, opulent Technicolor film that bursts forth with lilting melodies and unbridled buffoonery is Paramount's brand new musical comedy, "Here Come the Girls." Starring Bob Hope Tony Martin, Arlene Dahl and Rosemary Clooney, this delightful celluloid package opened last night at the Paramount Theatre.

Besides the top-notch starring cast, "Here Come the Girls" sports a generous display of eye-catching show girls, numerous rich production scenes and an assortment of sprightly tunes all royally imbedded within its wonderful framework. Add to this rare array a story that gives the inimitable Bob Hope a glorious opportunity to unleash his usual barrage of gags and you have a film that is guaranteed to bedazzle, bewitch and otherwise entertain the "gloomiest gus" in town.

The film concerns Bob Hope, as the world's most "fouled up" chorus boy, who is suddenly catapulted to fame when he is used as a decoy for "Jack the Slasher," a homicidal killer who is out to assassinate any and all of Arlene Dahl's boy friends. Well, one howl leads to another and before the "madman" is captured Bob has let loose with some of the funniest shenanigans that we have witnessed in many a merry moon. Hope of course, is ably aided by a supporting cast that features such outstanding performers as Millard Mitchell, William Demarest, Fred Clark, and Robert Strauss.

Lovingly laced throughout the joyful proceedings are some outstanding musical interludes, with the fine golden voices of Tony Martin and Rosemary Clooney rendering the toe-tapping tunes in superb style. All of this tends to make "Here Come The Girls" one of the most outstanding song-and-dance films to have entered the local scene in recent memory.

Helen Hayes On Screen For Mother's March

Helen Hayes, one of America's top stage and screen actresses, is now a March of Dimes movie star.

Miss Hayes, who last appeared on Broadway in "Mrs. McThing" and in the movie "From Main Street to Broadway," is starred in a film entitled "Mothers' March on Polio."

The film paints a vivid picture of the work the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is doing in its patient aid and new polio prevention programs. These, together with programs of scientific research and professional education, will cost $75,000,000 in 1954.

The purpose of the film is to help mobilize the mothers of America for the one-night drive for polio funds, to be conducted late in January. The time will be set by local national foundation chapters in some 50,000 communities.

Miss Hayes, who is national chairman of women's activities for the National Foundation, has a personal interest in the March of Dimes. Her own daughter, 19-year-old Mary MacArthur, died of polio in 1949.

The RECORD SHOP

Too Much Like Al Joison

NEW YORK —(NEA)—One of '53's smaller sensations was Norman Brooks, the kid from Canada who sounds more like Al Jolson than Al Jolson did. But the most amazing thing about Brooks is his statement to me that "I would have made stardom sooner if I didn't sound like Jolson."

This isn't conceit. Brooks is about as swell - headed as a ruby-throated hummingbird. He just feels his Jolsonesque voice was a handicap, because he's been unable to be judged on his own ability.

He's tried to counteract it by inventing new styles, working at home with a tape recorder.

"I tried to croon," he says, "and then I played it back and it sounded like Jolson imitating Sinatra—or Sinatra imitating Jolson."

He thinks his own forte is the strong, dramatic ballad — the "Without-a-Song" type. But audiences always want the Jolson songs. Eventually he hopes his own repetoire will become established in the public mind.

Until he saw "The Jolson Story," incidentally, Norman Brooks had never even heard of Al Jolson.

Just in case the threatened musicians' strike comes off on Jan. 1, the record companies are cutting new material night and day. The strike would shut off new recordings completely, except for those made with only vocalists and no musical accompaniment.

James Caesar Petrillo s AFM now gets 8-10ths of a cent per record. They've asked for 2½ cents. The record companies say they can't afford that and the situation looks bad. The last AFM strike, back in '49, lasted 11 months. It could happen again.

The Popular Side: Robert Merrill is making pop records for RCA . . . Harmonicker Babe Didrickson Zaharias and singer Betty Dodd (both primarily golfers) have recorded "I Felt a Little Teardrop" for Mercury. It's about as musical as a sand-trap. Perhaps they should've recorded "Mashie's in De Cold, Cold Ground" . . . Columbia has issued "Little Fugitive, a record re-creation of the delightful film, with kid star Richie Andrusco telling the story.

Whaling Story Is Background For New Movie

Robert Taylor, Stewart Granger and Ann Blyth are the stars of this compelling film version of Ben Ames Williams' best-seller novel of thrills and adventure on a whaling expedition. With much of the picture filmed on location in Jamaica in the British West Indies, its breathtaking beauty of tropical settings in Technicolor offers striking contrast to the tumultuous action which takes place as the story unfolds from its beginning in the New Bedford harbor of 1857 and continues through the whaling thrills and the curious romance of a tropical island to the powder-charged mutiny on the "Nathan Ross."

Robert Taylor is seen as Joel Shore, who sails for the Gilbert Islands in search of whales and also to find his brother, Mark, who supposedly jumped ship on its previous voyage. He finds Mark, and the remarkable adventures which caused his disappearance are now unfolded in a series of flashbacks. He has left a fortune in pearls in an island lagoon and now wants Joel to aid him in retrieving them. It is the latter's refusal to risk his ship in this quest which precipitates not only the ferocious mutiny but also the romantic conflict between Mark, Joel and Priscilla, the young bride whom Joel and Priscilla, the young bride whom Joel has brought on the voyage. The crisis is resolved with both brothers proving themselves of heroic mold.

"All the Brothers Were Valiant" boasts a gallery of impressive acting performances. Robert Taylor and Stewart Granger as the two seafaring brothers, seemingly at odds but inwardly holding an admiration for each other, give strength and validity to their respective performances, the first as the courageous brother seeking to vindicate the honor of his family; the second as the reckless adventurer. Ann Blyth offers as understanding portrayal of the young wife too inexperienced to know her own m—. Betta St. John is vastly appealing as the native girl who falls in love with Mark during his tropical island sojourn, and there are excellent supporting characterizations on the part of Keenan Wynn as the brutal Jose Silva, James Whitmore as the unscrupulous and greedy Fetcher, Kurt Kasznar as Quint, Lewis Stone as Capt. Holt and Robert Burton as Asa Worthen.

This vivid adventure-drama was directed by Richard Thorpe and was produced by Pandro S. Berman, the director-producer team responsible for "Ivanhoe" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," two of M-G-M's greatest successes. "All the Brothers Were Valiant" gives them their third hit in a row.

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Try curried turkey, made in a chafing dish, for a fireside supper during the winter season. Use leftover turkey if you wish. Make the sauce with a can of condensed cream of chicken soup, thinned with a small amount of milk and seasoned with a tablespoon of curry powder. Serve the condiments — salted almonds, shredded coconut, chopped hard-cooked egg, chutney, chopped green onion and crumbled cooked bacon—in a lazy Susan.

'Here Come The Girls' Is Musical Comedy

A dazzling, opulent Technicolor film that bursts forth with lilting melodies and unbridled buffoonery is Paramount's brand new musical comedy, "Here Come the Girls." Starring Bob Hope Tony Martin, Arlene Dahl and Rosemary Clooney, this delightful celluloid package opened last night at the Paramount Theatre.

Besides the top-notch starring cast, "Here Come the Girls" sports a generous display of eye-catching show girls, numerous rich production scenes and an assortment of sprightly tunes all royally imbedded within its wonderful framework. Add to this rare array a story that gives the inimitable Bob Hope a glorious opportunity to unleash his usual barrage of gags and you have a film that is guaranteed to bedazzle, bewitch and otherwise entertain the "gloomiest gus" in town.

The film concerns Bob Hope, as the world's most "fouled up" chorus boy, who is suddenly catapulted to fame when he is used as a decoy for "Jack the Slasher," a homicidal killer who is out to assassinate any and all of Arlene Dahl's boy friends. Well, one howl leads to another and before the "madman" is captured Bob has let loose with some of the funniest shenanigans that we have witnessed in many a merry moon. Hope of course, is ably aided by a supporting cast that features such outstanding performers as Millard Mitchell, William Demarest, Fred Clark, and Robert Strauss.

Lovingly laced throughout the joyful proceedings are some outstanding musical interludes, with the fine golden voices of Tony Martin and Rosemary Clooney rendering the toe-tapping tunes in superb style. All of this tends to make "Here Come The Girls" one of the most outstanding song-and-dance films to have entered the local scene in recent memory.

Helen Hayes On Screen For Mother's March

Helen Hayes, one of America's top stage and screen actresses, is now a March of Dimes movie star.

Miss Hayes, who last appeared on Broadway in "Mrs. McThing" and in the movie "From Main Street to Broadway," is starred in a film entitled "Mothers' March on Polio."

The film paints a vivid picture of the work the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is doing in its patient aid and new polio prevention programs. These, together with programs of scientific research and professional education, will cost $75,000,000 in 1954.

The purpose of the film is to help mobilize the mothers of America for the one-night drive for polio funds, to be conducted late in January. The time will be set by local national foundation chapters in some 50,000 communities.

Miss Hayes, who is national chairman of women's activities for the National Foundation, has a personal interest in the March of Dimes. Her own daughter, 19-year-old Mary MacArthur, died of polio in 1949.

Following Mary's death, two of her young actress friends, together with a group of prominent show people, set up the Mary MacArthur Memorial Fund to lend a hand in the polio fight. Miss Hayes and her husband Charles MacArthur help support this work.

The RECORD SHOP

Too Much Like Al Jolson

NEW YORK —(NEA)—One of '53's smaller sensations was Norman Brooks, the kid from Canada who sounds more like Al Jolson than Al Jolson did. But the most amazing thing about Brooks is his statement to me that "I would have made stardom sooner if I didn't sound like Jolson."

This isn't conceit. Brooks is about as swell - headed as a ruby-throated hummingbird. He just feels his Jolsonesque voice was a handicap, because he's been unable to be judged on his own ability.

He's tried to counteract it by inventing new styles, working at home with a tape recorder.

"I tried to croon," he says, "and then I played it back and it sounded like Jolson imitating Sinatra—or Sinatra imitating Jolson."

He thinks his own forte is the strong, dramatic ballad — the "Without-a-Song" type. But audiences always want the Jolson songs. Eventually he hopes his own repetoire will become established in the public mind.

Until he saw "The Jolson Story," incidentally, Norman Brooks had never even heard of Al Jolson.

Just in case the threatened musicians' strike comes off on Jan. 1, the record companies are cutting new material night and day. The strike would shut off new recordings completely, except for those made with only vocalists and no musical accompaniment.

James Caesar Petrillo s AFM now gets 8-10ths of a cent per record. They've asked for 2½ cents. The record companies say they can't afford that and the situation looks bad. The last AFM strike, back in '49, lasted 11 months. It could happen again.

The Popular Side: Robert Merrill is making pop records for RCA . . . Harmonicker Babe Didrickson Zaharias and singer Betty Dodd (both primarily golfers) have recorded "I Felt a Little Teardrop" for Mercury. It's about as musical as a sand-trap. Perhaps they should've recorded "Mashie's in De Cold, Cold Ground" . . . Columbia has issued "Little Fugitive, a record re-creation of the delightful film, with kid star Richie Andrusco telling the story.

Whaling Story Is Background For New Movie

An arresting romantic triangle with brother pitted against brother, a bloodcurdling ship's mutiny, a spectacular whale hunt in which a boat is crushed like a match box, an attack by island savages, the devotion of a native girl to a white man — these are the action highlights of M-G-M's turbulent and excitement-packed Technicolor drama, "All the Brothers Were Valiant," current attraction at the Jim Theatre.

Robert Taylor, Stewart Granger and Ann Blyth are the stars of this compelling film version of Ben Ames Williams' best-seller novel of thrills and adventure on a whaling expedition. With much of the picture filmed on location in Jamaica in the British West Indies, its breathtaking beauty of tropical settings in Technicolor offers striking contrast to the tumultuous action which takes place as the story unfolds from its beginning in the New Bedford harbor of 1857 and continues through the whaling thrills and the curious romance of a tropical island to the powder-charged mutiny on the "Nathan Ross."

Robert Taylor is seen as Joel Shore, who sails for the Gilbert Islands in search of whales and also to find his brother, Mark, who supposedly jumped ship on its previous voyage. He finds Mark, and the remarkable adventures which caused his disappearance are now unfolded in a series of flashbacks. He has left a fortune in pearls in an island lagoon and now wants Joel to aid him in retrieving them. It is the latter's refusal to risk his ship in this quest which precipitates not only the ferocious mutiny but also the romantic conflict between Mark, Joel and Priscilla, the young bride whom Joel and Priscilla, the young bride whom Joel has brought on the voyage. The crisis is resolved with both brothers proving themselves of heroic mold.

"All the Brothers Were Valiant" boasts a gallery of impressive acting performances. Robert Taylor and Stewart Granger as the two seafaring brothers, seemingly at odds but inwardly holding an admiration for each other, give strength and validity to their respective performances, the first as the courageous brother seeking to vindicate the honor of his family; the second as the reckless adventurer. Ann Blyth offers as understanding portrayal of the young wife too inexperienced to know her own m—. Betta St. John is vastly appealing as the native girl who falls in love with Mark during his tropical island sojourn, and there are excellent supporting characterizations on the part of Keenan Wynn as the brutal Jose Silva, James Whitmore as the unscrupulous and greedy Fetcher, Kurt Kasznar as Quint, Lewis Stone as Capt. Holt and Robert Burton as Asa Worthen.

This vivid adventure-drama was directed by Richard Thorpe and was produced by Pandro S. Berman, the director-producer team responsible for "Ivanhoe" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," two of M-G-M's greatest successes. "All the Brothers Were Valiant" gives them their third hit in a row.

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Try curried turkey, made in a chafing dish, for a fireside supper during the winter season. Use leftover turkey if you wish. Make the sauce with a can of condensed cream of chicken soup, thinned with a small amount of milk and seasoned with a tablespoon of curry powder. Serve the condiments — salted almonds, shredded coconut, chopped hard-cooked egg, chutney, chopped green onion and crumbled cooked bacon—in a lazy Susan.

2 new Low-Friction "Deep-Block" engines!

GREATEST ENGINE ADVANCES SINCE THE ORIGINAL FORD V-8

The new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8

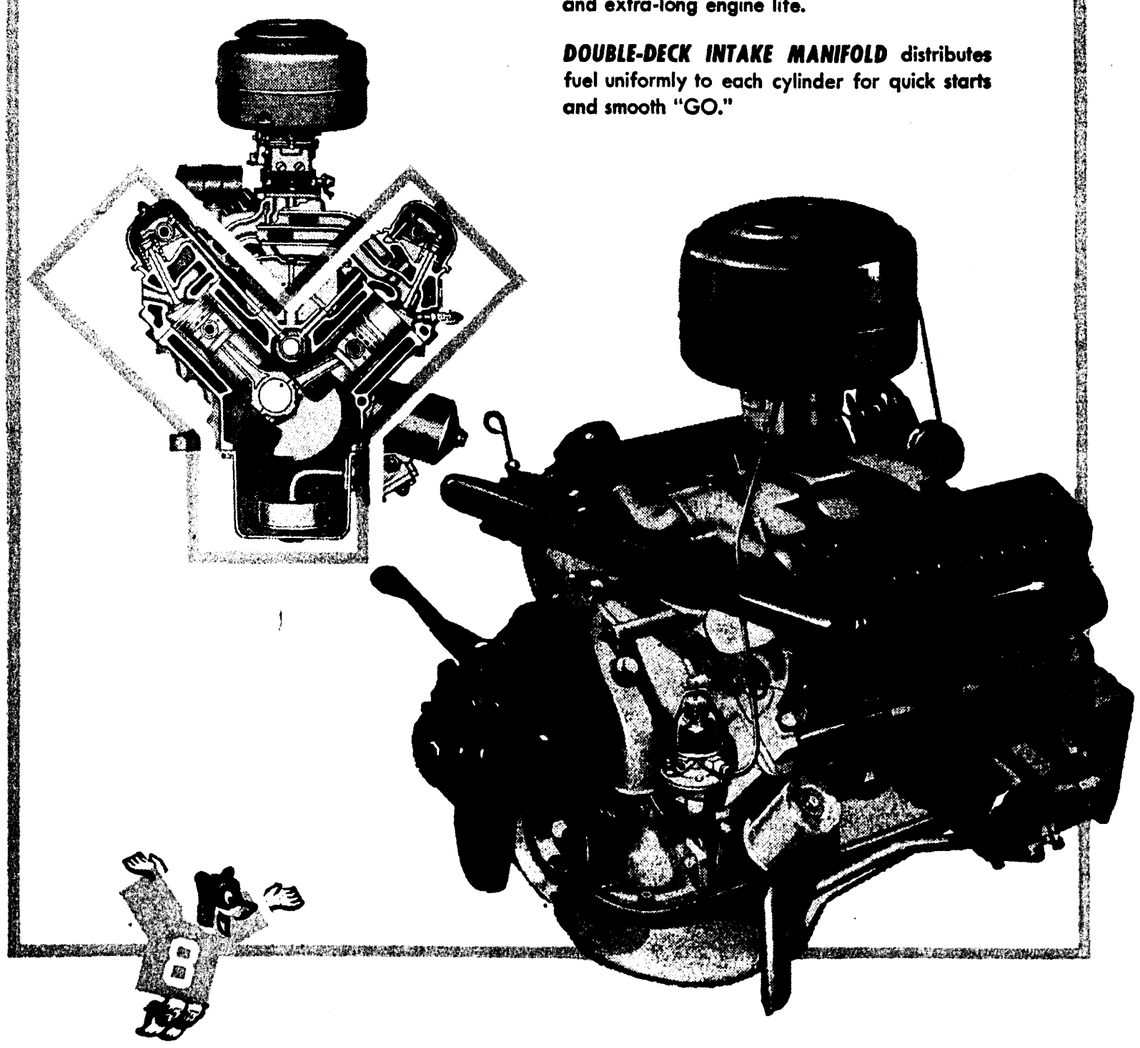
OVERHEAD VALVES are free-breathing for maximum power . . . "free-turning" to seat tightly and maintain high compression.

SHORT-STROKE, LOW-FRICTION DESIGN means less internal friction . . . more usable power from every drop of gasoline.

HIGH-TURBULENCE COMBUSTION CHAMBERS thoroughly mix fuel and air for faster, more efficient combustion.

DEEP-CAST "Y" BLOCK, with skirt that extends well below crankshaft, provides greater strength and rigidity for smoother, quieter performance and extra-long engine life.

DOUBLE-DECK INTAKE MANIFOLD distributes fuel uniformly to each cylinder for quick starts and smooth "GO."



The new 115-h.p. I-block SIX

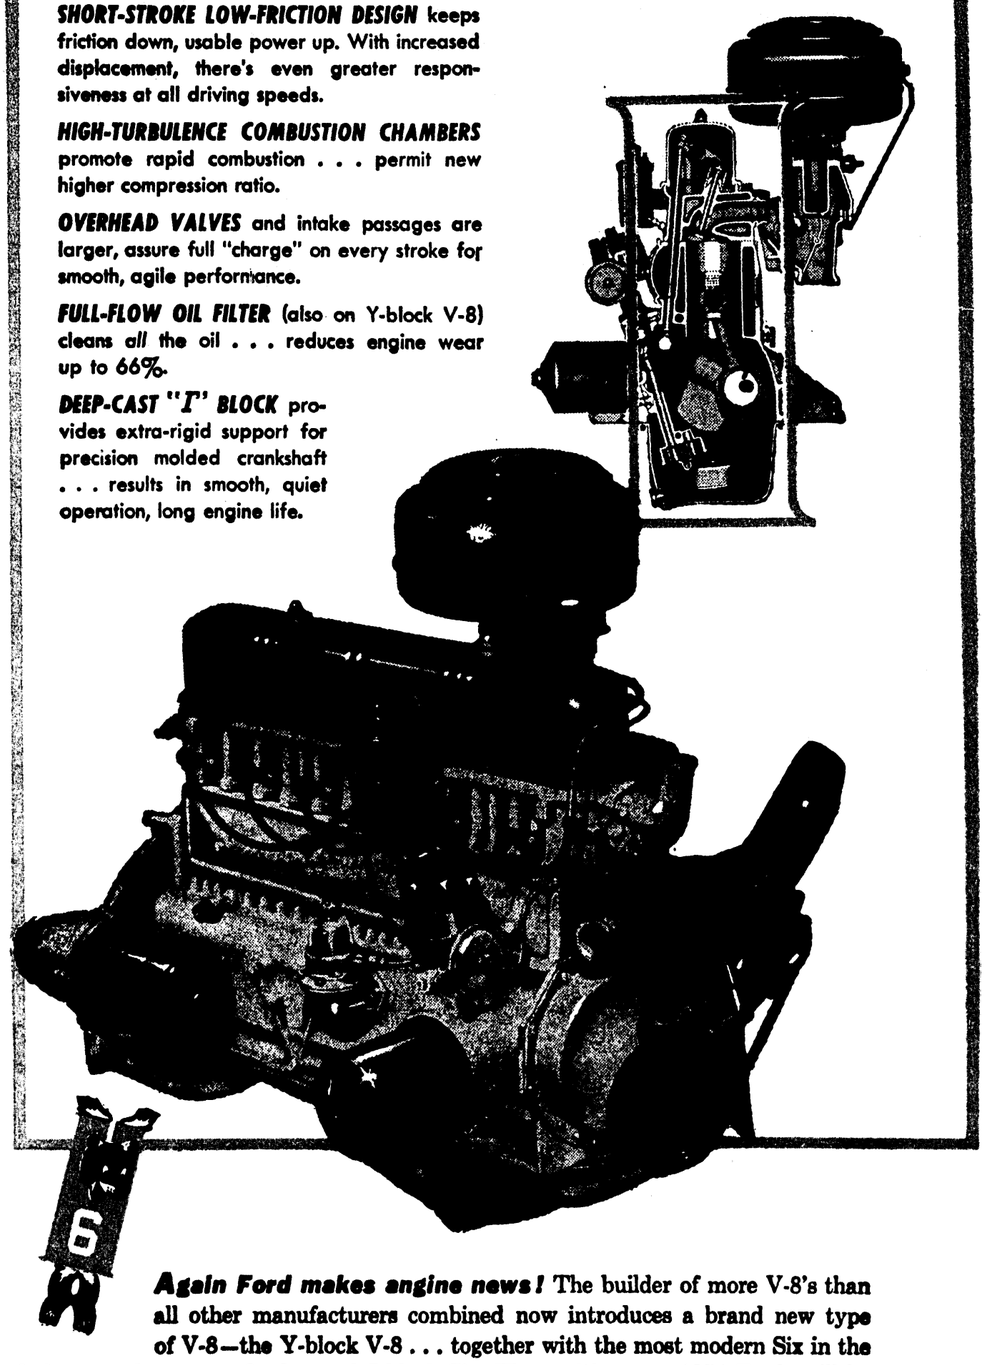
SHORT-STROKE LOW-FRICTION DESIGN keeps friction down, usable power up. With increased displacement, there's even greater responsiveness at all driving speeds.

HIGH-TURBULENCE COMBUSTION CHAMBERS promote rapid combustion . . . permit new higher compression ratio.

OVERHEAD VALVES and intake passages are larger, assure full "charge" on every stroke for smooth, agile performance.

FULL-FLOW OIL FILTER (also on Y-block V-8) cleans all the oil . . . reduces engine wear up to 66%.

DEEP-CAST "I" BLOCK provides extra-rigid support for precision molded crankshaft . . . results in smooth, quiet operation, long engine life.



Again Ford makes engine news! The builder of more V-8's than all other manufacturers combined now introduces a brand new type of V-8—the Y-block V-8 . . . together with the most modern Six in the industry—the new and advanced I-block Six. The exciting new 1954 Fords will be introduced at your Dealer's Wednesday. So plan to Test Drive a Ford with either of these great new engines. You'll discover new and more responsive "Go" throughout the whole range of driving speeds. You'll find the smoothest, quietest performance ever available in a low-priced car. You'll agree . . . these '54 Ford power plants stand out as the greatest engine advances since the original Ford V-8.

LADS, I'VE A HUNCH PROF. CHATWICK ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE WITH HIS EQUIPMENT FROM THE AWKALOOS, AND ALMOST REACHED OUR HUT, ONLY TO BE RECAPTURED BY THE BIG BIRDS....

LADS, I'VE A HUNCH PROF. CHATWICK ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE WITH HIS EQUIPMENT FROM THE AWKALOOS, AND ALMOST REACHED OUR HUT, ONLY TO BE RECAPTURED BY THE BIG BIRDS....

YES, AND JUST BEFORE HE WAS SNATCHED UP AND FLOWN AWAY, HE MANAGED TO SET OFF THOSE SKY-ROCKETS HE ALWAYS CARRIED FOR EMERGENCIES...

I KNOW WHERE THE AWKALOOS' BIRD'S-NEST VILLAGE IS IN WEST TOGOA-LAND...

I'LL GO SADDLE OUR HORSES, SARGE!
